Milton's Imperial Epic

Paradise Lost and the Discourse of Colonialism
J. MARTIN EVANS

Basing his analysis on the literature of exploration and colonialism, Evans looks at the relationship between Paradise Lost and the pervasive colonial discourse of Milton's time. In contrast to those who attribute to Paradise Lost a specific political agenda for the American colonies, Evans maintains that Milton reflects the complexity and ambivalence of attitudes held by English society. $35.00

Religion, Literature, and Politics in Post- Reformation England

1540-1688

Donna B. Hamilton and Richard Strier, Editors

This collection of essays explores the close linkage between religion and politics in the period through the examination of a wide variety of literary and non-literary texts. Normal period and disciplinary distinctions are broken down, as post-Reformation culture is shown struggling with major issues of belief and authority.

Milton Unbound

Controversy and Reinterpretation

John P. Rumrich

In this provocative and liberating study, the author contends that contemporary critics have contributed to the invention of a monolithic or institutional Milton: censorious preacher, aggressive misogynist, and champion of the emerging bourgeoisie. Rumrich exposes the historical inaccuracies and logical inconsistencies that sustain this orthodoxy, and argues instead for a more complex Milton who was able to accommodate uncertainty and doubt.

Art and Spirituality in Counter-Reformation Rome

The Sistine and Pauline Chapels in
S. Maria Maggiore

Steven F. Ostrow

This study offers an interdisciplinary study of the Sistine and Pauline chapels, providing an interpretive reading of their artistic programs as an expression of their patrons' personal spirituality and of the larger institutional concerns of the papacy. Viewed within their religious, political, and social contexts, the historical meaning of the chapels are explored as a means to advance our understanding of the ways in which the post-Tridentine Church enlisted the visual arts to communicate and advance its mission.

THE PHYLLIS GOODHART GORDAN BOOK PRIZE

THE RENAISSANCE SOCIETY OF AMERICA has instituted an annual book prize of $1,000, in memory of the late Phyllis Goodhart Gordan, a strong supporter of the RSA from its early days. The purpose of the prize is to recognize significant accomplishment in Renaissance Studies by members of the RSA and to encourage Renaissance scholarship.

The Gordan Prize will be awarded to the author of the best book in Renaissance Studies published between July 1, 1996 and June 30, 1997. Authors of book submissions must be current members of RSA. The winner will be announced at the next annual national meeting of the RSA.

The prize will be awarded to a book written in one of the disciplines recognized by the RSA. Please see the inside cover of the bi-annual Directory of Members of the RSA for the list of disciplines. The prize will be awarded for a book dealing with a Renaissance topic within the chronological period, 1300-1700. The following are offered as examples of Renaissance topics: a vernacular or neo-Latin literary author, topic, or text; humanism in any of its forms; printing; a Renaissance city-state and/or its institutions; the art or an artist of the period. These topics are not meant to exclude other possibilities. Bibliographical works and scholarly aids are eligible for the Gordan prize, but editions of texts and translations will not be considered. The book must be written in English.

Books will be judged on the following criteria:

- A. Contribution to Renaissance studies
- B. Originality in insight and research
- C. Clarity and eloquence
- D. Thoroughness and accuracy in documentation.

One copy of each work, together with a brief curriculum vitae, must be received by each of the following prize committee members. Each entry should be labeled "Gordan Prize Entry." Entries must be postmarked by or on July 15, 1997, to be eligible. Late entries will not be considered.

Contact the RSA office for names and addresses of committee members.
