The maximum length of an article should be 8,000 words, including footnotes; for critical studies, 3,500 words. Authors should ensure that all diacritics in all languages are correctly placed. An abstract of not more than 100 words, outlining the contents and argument of the article, should precede the text of the article.

Authors are required to provide evidence of permission to reproduce images (and any other third-party material). Captions should include credit for the relevant copyright holder.

Style BMGS conforms to its own particular house style. Authors should follow the guidelines available at cambridge.org/byz

Footnotes BMGS does not publish bibliographies (lists of works cited) at the end of articles. Instead, all references are given in footnotes. Footnotes should be kept to the strict minimum necessary for documentation. They should contain only minimal extra expository material. Footnote numbers, which should always use Arabic numerals, should be given in the text, immediately following the most convenient punctuation mark.

References to publications in Greek Authors' names should be transliterated, while titles of books and journals should be given in Greek characters. Places of publication and other information should be in English.

Open Access Please visit Open Access Publishing at Cambridge (cambridge.org/openaccess) for information on our open Access policies, compliance with major funding bodies, and guidelines on depositing your manuscript in an institutional repository.
