
A Packet of Letters

A Selection from the Correspondence of John Henry Newman
Edited by Joyce Sugg

There is no more interesting nineteenth-century letter writer, in an age of great letter writers, than Newman. This selection reveals a complex personality, and shows the great range of Newman's mind, his many interests, and his circle of correspondents. £16 paperback £6.95

Hensley Henson

Owen Chadwick

This is a study of church and society between the two World Wars as seen through the eyes of an able, caustic, individualistic churchman. Herbert Hensley Henson held strong opinions on all subjects, and at times was the most unpopular person among the Churches. But by courage he won a rueful respect, and by compassion he won from some a smiling admiration. £18.50

Newman

Owen Chadwick

John Henry Newman started his long career as a religious leader as a devout Protestant; he later became the head of a new movement of Catholic ideas within the Church of England, and finally joined the Roman Catholic Church. Professor Chadwick's study explains and clarifies the many aspects of Newman's thought and writings. £17.95 paperback £1.75

Bayle

Elisabeth Labrousse
Translated by Denys Potts

French Protestantism found its most commanding voice in Pierre Bayle, a remarkable seventeenth-century writer and philosopher who was driven by religious intolerance to exile in Holland. Elisabeth Labrousse has set out to show where Bayle stands in relation to the two distinct lines of philosophy leading from Calvin to Rousseau in the Christian tradition, and, in the sceptical, from Montaigne to Voltaire. £7.95 paperback £1.75

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions and books for review should be sent to the Editor, Professor H. D. Lewis, King's College, Strand, London, WC2R 2LS.
2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 10,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should normally be in English.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. The typescript should be prepared to accord as closely as possible with the typographical conventions of the journal.
5. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
6. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
8. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorises otherwise.
9. All contributors of articles receive 50 free offprints. Reviewers will receive five or more offprints of their reviews.
10. If rejected manuscripts are to be returned, stamps or international coupons should be sent to cover postage, but it would normally be simpler just to retain a copy.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
