Address: WORLD POLITICS

Woodrow Wilson Hall — Princeton, New Jersey

From French West Africa to the Mali Federation

by William J. Foltz

Why was the Mali Federation formed? What predispositions toward federation existed? What interests were served? Why did it break up? In seeking answers to these questions, Mr. Foltz also analyzes present and probable future trends in African unity movements. $6.50

Children and Politics

by Fred I. Greenstein

Based on questionnaires and interviews, this study explores the political ideas of a sample of New Haven children aged nine through thirteen. Where do their ideas come from? How do their ideas vary with sex and with socioeconomic status? After reporting his findings, Mr. Greenstein speculates on the relationship between the political ideas these children now hold and their future political behavior. $5.00

The Pure Theory of Politics

by Bertrand de Jouvenel

"What Jouvenel has given us is a rich, stimulating, and penetrating study which is drawn from the many fields in which he is at home and written in a beautiful and polished literary style. . . . he has given us a wealth of ideas and insights as well as tools which will be helpful in analyzing any political situation."—Rene de Visme Williamson, American Political Science Review. $6.00

German Administration Since Bismarck

by Herbert Jacob

"Mr. Jacob has combined historical insight, an understanding of the peculiar functions and challenges of field administration, and a perceptive analysis of the different demands made upon administration in successive periods of German history since Bismarck and into the Federal Republic. The result is a real contribution to comparative administration—comparative government."—The Journal of Politics. $7.00

The Italian Prefects

A STUDY IN ADMINISTRATIVE POLITICS

by Robert C. Fried

"Professor Fried has assembled a vast amount of empirical data and cast a great deal of light on Italian administrative history. . . . In his exploration of causal factors underlying the various trends in Italian local administration, he provides us with insights that can be of real value in further investigating the relationship between public administration and the political and historical environment."—American Political Science Review. $7.50
