ASPEN PUBLISHERS PROUDLY PRESENTS...

LAW ACROSS BORDERS

Law Across Borders, a new series by Aspen Publishers, is being offered to professors who want to introduce an international perspective into their courses easily and confidently.

These brief paperbacks, 150-250 pages in length, will center around a single high-interest problem of international significance as it pertains to a specific course area. The problem orientation will offer a framework for asking fundamental questions and teaching students how to think about international law issues. Each title in the series will be accompanied by Professor's Notes that explain how the author uses his or her materials in their class.

New Titles Available in 2009:

Plea Bargaining Across Borders
Criminal Procedure
Jenia I. Turner

Climate Change and Property Rights
Hari Osofsky and Wil Burns

Constitutional Law Regulation of Abortion
Colin B. Picker

New From Edward Elgar Publishing

Judicial Review in EU Law

Alexander H. Türk, King's College London, UK

Judicial review constitutes an important aspect of any legal system operating under the rule of law. This book provides a comprehensive discussion of the various avenues for judicial review in EU law. It assesses the actions for annulment and failure to act before turning its attention to incidental forms of review under Articles 241 and 234, and covers the remedy of compensation for damages as well as interim relief proceedings. The author also discusses the impact of the changes brought about by the Lisbon Treaty and the potential issues facing judicial review in the European Union.

EU Intellectual Property Law and Policy

Catherine Seville, Newnham College, University of Cambridge, UK

'The book is as timely as it is well-written and thorough. The contributions of the EU to most aspects of intellectual property law are increasingly dominant. This treatment places them apart from the national laws of member states, thus emphasizing the common core that now they provide. Many will want to study this presentation.'

EU Criminal Law and Justice

Maria Fletcher, University of Glasgow, UK and Robin Lööf, European University Institute, Florence, Italy with Bill Gilmore, University of Edinburgh, UK

This book provides a comprehensive, accessible yet analytically challenging account of one of the most dynamic and controversial fields of EU action. One of the first of its kind to focus exclusively on EU criminal justice, it comprises a full overview of the key legal developments and debates and includes a user-friendly guide to the prospective institutional changes contained in the 'Lisbon Treaty'. It will be of interest to students, practitioners and policymakers alike.

Elgar European Law series

Series editor: The late John Usher, former Professor of European Law and Head, School of Law, University of Exeter, UK

European integration is the driving force behind constant evolution and change in the laws of the member states and the institutions of the European Union. This important series offers short, state-of-the-art overviews of many specific areas of EU law, from competition law to consumer law and from environmental law to labor law. While most books take a thematic, vertical approach, others offer a more horizontal approach and consider the overarching themes of EU law.

Distilled from rigorous substantive analysis, and written by some of the best names in the field, as well as the new generation of scholars, these books are designed both to guide the reader through the changing legislation itself, and to provide a firm theoretical foundation for advanced study. They will be an invaluable source of reference for scholars and postgraduate students in the fields of EU law and European integration, as well as lawyers from the respective individual fields and policymakers within the EU.

The Regulatory Function of European Private Law

Edited by Fabrizio Cafaggi, European University Institute, Italy and Horatia Muir Watt, Université de Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne, France

'In twelve topical papers, written by renowned experts in distinct areas of the law, the reader will find out how private law and private international law instruments can serve public policy goals (such as the protection of the environment, product safety or services of general economic interest) and how these instruments interact with regulation in the proper sense. A must for those who want to explore the borderline – if it exists – between public and private law in the EU.'

The European Constitution

Cases and Materials in EU and Member States' Law

Giuliano Amato, Vice-President, European Convention 2002–2003, European University Institute and formerly Prime Minister of Italy and Jacques Ziller, University of Pavia, Italy and formerly of the European University Institute, Florence, Italy and the Université de Paris 1 – Panthéon-Sorbonne, France

'Whatever the ultimate fate of the EU's Constitutional Treaty, both the events which led to its conclusion and those which occurred afterwards during its ill-fated ratification process have profoundly shaped the future of the European Union as a constitutional project. This collection of materials offers an invaluable set of resources for understanding these events, in their widest legal and political context. The text will be useful to all those who seek to understand both why the EU has reached such a turning point, and where it might go in the future.'

Foreword

From its beginning, the Society established as one of its primary functions the regular collection, publication, and dissemination of important international legal materials. These materials were first published as a section of the American Journal of International Law, and since the 1960s as the current stand-alone International Legal Materials publication. The publication met a critical need in that earlier era—when access to primary source legal materials was limited. Today, access to information is no longer a problem. Indeed, our challenge is too much information. And therein we find a continuing mission for International Legal Materials.

The dramatic growth in the international legal field makes it nearly impossible for scholars and practitioners—let alone the general public—to keep abreast of the most important international legal developments. Fortunately they can rely on our staff and Editorial Advisory Committee to sift through the vast array of documents, identify those that are truly significant, and highlight them in International Legal Materials and our bi-weekly electronic bulletin, International Law in Brief. The Society's periodic ASIL Insights provide additional analysis of particularly high-profile developments.

Beginning in 2007, we have been supplementing all documents published in International Legal Materials with an introductory note from one of the many experts ASIL counts among its members. These notes provide summaries of the documents and key insights into their significance. In this volume we feature notes by Michael P. Scharf, August Reinisch, David J. A. Cairns, Charles Owen Verrill Jr., Ben Chigara, Dinah Shelton, Vijay Padmanabhan, Jim Lynch, and Coalter G. Lathrop. We are extremely grateful to these authors, and we are confident that you will value their contributions as well.

Please send us your comments and suggestions as we continue our efforts to meet the evolving needs of the international legal community.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Andersen
Chair

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL MATERIALS®

Statement of Editorial Policy

International Legal Materials is a core publication of The American Society of International Law that reproduces texts of documents reflecting the broad scope and evolution of international law. The range of covered subjects has expanded from traditional topics such as international organizations, jurisdiction, and international trade to include developments in fields such as intellectual property, environmental law, nuclear non-proliferation, human rights, and international criminal law.

International Legal Materials serves as both a bi-monthly information service and a widely recognized archive of international law documents for a diverse, global community of legal scholars, government officials, private practitioners and institutions sharing a common interest in international law. To meet the varied demands of such a readership, documents are selected from world-wide sources on the basis of their present and future legal significance.

International Legal Materials is prepared for publication in Washington, D.C. with both the advice of the Editorial Advisory Committee and the assistance of Corresponding Editors around the world. In order to reproduce the texts of selected documents under tight production schedules, the best available source is used, whether electronic or printed.

Guidelines for Submission of Documents

The ILM Office welcomes any effort to bring suitable documents to the Office's attention. Electronic files or web links are required for publication, although printed texts can be used for initial deliberations regarding republication.

The authenticity (i.e. official version status) of submitted documents must be easily verifiable. This is facilitated by submitting files or print versions which are clearly attributable to the original source, or by providing links to documents on the original source's official website.

If the official version of a document is not available in English, an unofficial translation is acceptable. The original text must accompany such a translation.

Introductory Notes

Introductory Notes are brief articles from one to three pages in length which are intended to provide background information for a document reproduced in ILM.

For example, an Introductory Note for a treaty might include a short history of the negotiations, the dates of signature and entry into force. An Introductory Note for legislation would give its history and international significance, while one for judicial proceedings would provide the background of the case.

The views of authors in Introductory Notes are their own and do not necessarily reflect those of either the American Society of International Law or the Managing Editor.

Acceptance of Materials and Corrections

Print submissions cannot be returned. Translators and others submitting material will be notified of the acceptance of their document for publication.

Once a translation or Introductory Note has been accepted for reproduction, The American Society of International Law will send a publication agreement to the author.

Translators and Introductory Note Authors shall be acknowledged in International Legal Materials.

In some cases minor editorial or typographical alterations may be made without contacting the author or translator. Major corrections will be sent to the author or translator for approval. Corrected Introductory Notes or translations must be returned within the time specified.

International Law In Brief

The Attorney-Editors of International Legal Materials also publish the e-mail newsletter International Law In Brief, which contains objective abstracts of recently released documents pertinent to international law.

Documents abstracted in International Law In Brief are later considered for reproduction in International Legal Materials.

A complete International Law In Brief archive is located at The American Society of International Law website (<http://www.asil.org>). A search engine provides an easy way to find abstracts of specific documents.

The International Law In Brief publication is free, but has an independent subscription.
