SCIENTIFIC HUMANISM AND CHRISTIAN THOUGHT

D. Dubarle, O.P.

In this short study the author seeks to make the various aspects of the human problem of science easier to grasp and contrives to enable thoughtful Christians to adjust themselves more adequately to the problems it raises. While the union of Christian thought and scientific humanism is an aim far beyond that of the present volume the considerations outlined do at least further that aim.

FORWARD THE LAYMAN

J. M. Perrin, O.P.

This is a book that every layman ought to read, for the author shows that it is the laity who are the Church, and it is for them to bring about the coming of the Kingdom of God by active and intelligent co-operation with the clergy. He makes it quite clear that Catholic Action is not a bustling activity of organisation, but a force bringing us close to our Lord in mystical union.

UNUSUAL BAPTISMAL NAMES

This most useful little book by Walter Gumbley, O.P. is confined to such common English names as do not at first sight appear to be those of saints and should be of assistance not only to the clergy, but also to parents undecided as to the suitability of some particular name that may not immediately be recognised as a Christian one, such as the Code of Canon Law expects.

NO ABIDING CITY

Bede Jarrett, O.P.

A new edition of this little work hardly needs introduction, for numerous impressions have appeared and over the course of the years more than 30,000 copies have been sold. Originally given as Lenten Conferences, these sermons are ideal spiritual reading for the 'everyday Catholic' and are written in Father Bede Jarrett's usual easy style.

FOR PUBLICATION BETWEEN NOW AND CHRISTMAS

WAR AND CHRISTIANITY TODAY

by Franziskus K. Stratmann, O.P.

In candidly outlining and denouncing the frightful evils inherent in and associated with modern total war, Father Stratmann is, along with Pius XII and a number of Cardinals and Bishops, upholding the honour of the Church. Of greatest interest to most readers perhaps, will be Father Stratmann's penetrating analysis, from the moral viewpoint, of a possible war between East and West. He firmly rejects the notion of a 'preventive' war, but he denies with equal vigour that a Christian in the West can ignore or callously overlook the fate of millions under Russian domination. Other matters discussed include the Church's responsibility for peace, the question of conscientious objection, the personal duty of peace, and the U.N. There is also a very valuable commentary on Pius XII's Christmas address of 1948. Approx. 15s.

THE EDUCATION OF THE NOVICE

The essays in this volume represent some of the Papers read to about fifty Novice Mistresses at Spode House in Staffordshire in January, 1955. They try to deal with some of the problems which have arisen in recent years in Novitiates because of the changing circumstances of the outside world. It is the task of the novice mistress to act as a bridge between the life of the world and the life of the cloister and she has to educate the postulant and the novice into a new life, which is yet centuries old. This book seeks to assist the novice mistress in this very work, which is surely more difficult now than in any previous age. 4s. 6d.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE SPIRITUAL LIFE

by Reginald Buckler, O.P.

Originally published as Spiritual Considerations, this book, by the well-known author of The Perfection of Man by Charity, presents a series of essays on various aspects of the spiritual life which we are confident will be as valuable to religious and to devout layfolk now as they were when first published some forty years ago. Approx. 10s. 6d.

BAPTIZED IN CHRIST by A. M. Carré, O.P.

This book on the Sacrament of Baptism was written especially with the ordinary public in mind and is presented in a way that will appeal to the everyday Catholic. It comes as a result of an intense study of this subject by one who is deeply interested in it. Father Carré here explains all the major aspects of baptism, the baptism of Jesus, re-birth, the priesthood of Christ, the Holy Ghost, the Church and Christ. Necessarily limited in its content, this book is nevertheless a penetrating study of one of the Sacraments which is at the heart of our Faith, and shows clearly that being the Sacrament of initiation into the Church it is the first means of salvation. Approx. 4s. 6d.

THE EUCHARISTIC PRAYER

By J. A. Jungmann, S.J.

"Around four simple words from the Canon of the Mass Fr. Jungmann groups a number of fascinating reflections drawn from his immense background of knowledge; he sets forth clearly and cogently some viewpoints which hardly occur to the average Catholic of today but which, at various times in the past, were living concepts in the minds of those who gathered about the altar to worship God in Sacrifice.

"This book is a credit to the publishers and likely to do a great deal of good." The Catholic Herald
