The Cambridge Companion to Aristotle

Edited by Jonathan Barnes

Aristotle is one of the very greatest thinkers in the Western tradition, but also one of the most difficult. The contributors to this volume do not attempt to disguise the nature of that difficulty, but at the same time they offer a clear exposition of the central philosophical concerns in his work.

The Cambridge Companion to Leibniz

Edited by Nicholas Jolley

Gottfried Leibniz was a remarkable thinker, who made fundamental contributions not only to philosophy, but also to the development of modern mathematics and science.

This volume provides a systematic and comprehensive account of the full range of Leibniz's thought.

Philosophy in Christian Antiquity

Christopher Stead

Written for non-specialist readers, this book provides a concise conspectus of the emergence of philosophy among the Greeks; an account of its continuance in early Christian times, and its influence on Christian thought; and a critical assessment of the philosophy of St Augustine.

Frege's Theory of Sense and Reference

Its Origin and Scope

Wolfgang Carl

Gottlob Frege has exerted an enormous influence on the evolution of twentieth-century philosophy, yet the real significance of that influence is still very much a matter of debate. This book provides a completely new and systematic account of Frege's philosophy by focusing on its cornerstone: the theory of sense and reference.

Modern European Philosophy

Thomas Hobbes and the Science of Moral Virtue

David Boonin-Vail

David Boonin-Vail presents a new, and very unorthodox interpretation of Hobbes's ethics. He shows that Hobbes is best understood as embracing a theory of virtue concerned with the development of good character traits rather than with rules of behaviour.

Judging in Good Faith

Steven J. Burton

This book offers an original theory of adjudication focused on the ethics of judging in courts of law, and proposes two main theses – the good faith thesis and the permissible discretion thesis. Together these two theses oppose both conservative theories and leftist critical theories.

From a Biological Point of View

Essays in Evolutionary Philosophy

Elliott Sober

This new collection of essays will appeal to a readership that extends well beyond the frontiers of the philosophy of science. Sober shows how ideas in evolutionary biology bear in significant ways on traditional problems in philosophy of mind and language, epistemology, and metaphysics.

Social Philosophy and Policy 11: 1

Property Rights

Edited by Ellen Frankel Paul, Fred D. Miller, Jr. and Jeffrey Paul

The essays in this volume examine the nature and limits of property rights from a variety of perspectives. They explore the nature of ownership and its relationship to individual freedom, and they delve into a number of related legal and constitutional issues.

The Epistemology of Religious Experience

Keith E. Yandell

Keith Yandell argues against the notion that religious experience is ineffable, while advocating the view that strong numinous experience provides some evidence that God exists. He contends that social science and other nonreligious explanations of religious belief and experience do not cancel out the evidential force of religious experience.

The Enigma of the Mind

The Mind–Body Problem in Contemporary Thought

Sergio Moravia

Sergio Moravia's The Enigma of the Mind (originally published in Italian as L'enigma della mente) offers a broad and lucid critical and historical survey of one of the fundamental debates in the philosophy of mind: the relationship of mind and body.

This problem continues to raise deep questions concerning the nature of man.

Practical Reasoning About Final Ends

Henry S. Richardson

Henry Richardson constructs a theory of how we can reason about what to seek for its own sake as a final goal. He defuses the counter-arguments for the limits of rational deliberation, and develops ideas about how his model might be extended to interpersonal deliberation of ends.

The Immune Self: Theory or Metaphor

A Philosophical Inquiry

Alfred I. Tauber

The Immune Self is a critical study of immunology from its origins at the end of the nineteenth century to its contemporary formulation. The book offers the first extended philosophical critique of immunology, in which the function of the term 'self' that underlies the structure of current immune theory is analysed.

Modality, Morality and Belief

Essays in Honor of Ruth Barcan Marcus

Edited by Walter Sinnott-Armstrong, Diana Raffman and Nicholas Asher

Modality, morality and belief are among the most controversial topics in philosophy today, and few philosophers have shaped these debates as deeply as Ruth Barcan Marcus. Inspired by her work, a distinguished group of philosophers explore these issues, refine and sharpen arguments and develop new positions.

Information for Authors

Prospective authors should send their contributions, typed and double-spaced on quarto or A4 paper, to the Editor, Professor Anthony O'Hear, Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London WC1H 0AG. They should retain a second copy for the purpose of checking proofs. When an article has been accepted for publication, the author is strongly encouraged to send a copy of the final version on computer disk (Apple Macintosh or IBM compatible PC) together with the hard copy typescript, giving details of the wordprocessing software used (Microsoft Word, Word or Word Perfect). However, the publisher reserves the right to typeset material by conventional means if an author's disk proves unsatisfactory. Authors should observe the conventions of the journal. The Editor may alter manuscripts wherever necessary to make them conform to the stylistic and bibliographical conventions of the journal. Single quotation marks should be used except where there is a quotation within another. The titles of books and journals should be underlined (i.e. to be printed in italics), as should foreign words. Titles of articles should be in single quotation marks.

Notes and references will be printed as footnotes and should be typed (double-spacing) on a separate sheet, numbered consecutively. They should be referred to in the text by superscripts. Citations should be as follows:

¹ H. B. Acton, The Philosophy of Punishment (London: Macmillan, 1969), 192–198.

R. S. Downie and Elizabeth Telfer, 'Autonomy', Philosophy 46, No. 178 (October 1971), 295.

² Op. cit. note 1, 101–112.

³ W. C. Wimsatt, 'Some Problems with the Concept of Feedback', Boston Studies in the Philosophy of Science, VIII, R. C. Buck and R. S. Cohen (eds.) (Dordrecht: D. Reidel, 1971), 242.

The return of contributions cannot be guaranteed unless they are accompanied by stamps, or in the case of contributions from abroad, by international coupons, to cover postage. A self-addressed envelope should also be enclosed.

Only corrections of printer's errors can be allowed in proofs. Authors are therefore asked to send any alterations or additions to Professor O'Hear as soon as possible after receiving his letter of acceptance.

Authors of articles, discussion papers and review articles will receive twenty-five offprints free of charge. Additional offprints can be ordered when proofs are returned by arrangement with the Institute.

Books for review should be sent to the Editor at the Institute and not to Cambridge University Press. Publishers are asked to note that non-philosophical works are not reviewed in Philosophy.

Authors' corrected proofs should be sent to Professor O'Hear at Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London, WC1H 0AG. All other correspondence should also be addressed to the Institute.
