Studies on Contemporary China

Edited at Britain's leading centre for Chinese studies—the Contemporary China Institute at the School of Oriental and African Studies in London—this series promises to become one of the foremost collections of work on twentieth-century China in the world.

The books will embrace a wide variety of topics, including economic development, politics and ideology, literature and art, and diplomatic international relations.

Available now:

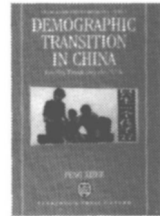

Demographic Transition

Fertility Trends in China since 1954

PENG XIZHE

Peng Xizhe documents and analyses fertility and demographic trends in China since the early 1950s, focusing particularly on previously undocumented provincial and rural-urban diversities. He analyses China's current reform of population control and considers future developments.

Art and Ideology in Revolutionary China

DAVID HOLM

Using contemporary resources and later reminiscent accounts, David Holm makes a pioneering study of the origins of the Chinese Communist Party's cultural policy and the Chinese model of cultural modernization. He traces the development of Marxist literary theory in China and its application to the problems of propagandizing a mass audience of illiterate peasants. In particular he looks at the transformation of the folk dance and folk play in the Party's base areas during the 1940s.

CHINA MATTERS

China

A New
History
JOHN KING
FAIRBANK

The culmination of a lifelong study, this final work of the great sinologist
stands alone as a concise, comprehensive, four-thousand year history of China and its people.

China in the Tokugawa World

MARIUS B. JANSEN

Taking as his focus the port of Nagasaki and its thriving trade with China in the sixteenth through nineteenth centuries, Jansen corrects the misperception that Japan was an isolated nation and offers an important analysis of the impact of China trade on Japan's cultural, economic and political life.
May 1992 10 illus. 144pp.

0-674-11753-0 £19.95/$29.95

The Trouble with Confucianism

WM. THEODORE DE BARY

De Bary explains the puzzling role and ambiguous character of Confucianism as a liberal humanist teaching that is often appropriated to serve conservative regimes. He goes on to discuss what it has to offer today in China, Singapore, Korea, Taiwan and Japan.

The Inner Opium War

JAMES M. POLACHEK

Polachek's revisionist analysis exposes the behind-the-scenes political struggles that not only shaped foreign-policy decisions in the 1830's and 1840's but have continued to affect the history of Chinese nationalism in modern times.

China's Crisis, China's Hope

LIU BINYAN

"Liu Binyan, China's best-known investigative reporter, is now a "black-hand" in the demonology of the Chinese Communist Party ...
From his books and journalism, and in person, Liu gives an appealing impression of honesty and minimal self-pity ... Since his arrival in America two years ago, Liu has wondered how it was that Chinese intellectuals were so docile for so long. In China's Crisis, China's Hope
... he provides
some blunt
answers."

Manuscripts

The China Quarterly welcomes the submission of manuscripts from scholars, including postgraduate students, on all aspects of contemporary China and from all points of view, including those which deal with Taiwan and overseas Chinese. Articles on China prior to 1949 are also welcome, particularly, but not exclusively, when these relate directly to contemporary China or to the history of the Chinese Communist Party. Articles should be submitted in quadruplicate to the editorial office. They should normally not exceed 8,000 words in length; should be typed in double spacing with footnotes at the end; and should conform to the styling of The China Quarterly (see below). Submission of a manuscript is taken to imply that it has not previously been published in any form (including non-copyrighted working papers) and that it is not currently being considered elsewhere.

The China Quarterly is published by the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London. The views expressed in articles are those of individual authors and do not necessarily represent the views of the School.

Style

Romanization

Pinyin is used without tone/diacritical marks, except the following which should use the Wade-Giles system: names such as Chiang Kai-shek, Sun Yat-sen, Taipei and Kuomintang; names of individuals living outside mainland China. Chinese characters should be provided on the first occurrence of each romanization, to assist in proofreading.
