enrolled in American universities, were assisted through funds made available by the Huang Hsing Foundation (USA) and the APSA Council. Through the assistance of the United States Information Agency and the APSA Council, 27 senior scholars who had been invited to participate at the Annual Meeting were also awarded travel grants.

A list of international grantees, their countries, and their U.S. affiliations follows.

APSA Council Grantees

Yun Lin, P.R.C., University of New Orleans

Jongwoo Han, South Korea, Syracuse University

Rieko Mohara, Japan, Johns Hopkins University

Ramayanto Basoeki, Indonesia, The Claremont School

Jung-Ki Kim, South Korea, University of Houston

In-Sang Chong, South Korea, University of Missouri-Columbia

Volker Franke, Germany, Syracuse University

Ming Xia, P.R.C., Temple University

Duckjoon Chang, South Korea, SUNY-Buffalo

Svetlana V. Morozova, Russia, The Claremont School

Michael Clarke, Canada, Boston College

Samira Ali Atallah, Lebanon, Boston University

Indrya De Soysa, Sri Lanka, University of Alabama

Nicholas Ampomsah, Ghana, The Claremont School

Fran Lisa Buntman, South Africa, University of Texas at Austin

Rupen Cetinyan, Turkey, University of California-Los Angeles

Silvia Colazingari, Argentina, Yale University

Jacqueline Leigh Pfeffer, Canada, Duke University

Andrew Reynolds, Great Britain, University of California-San Diego

Janusz Puzniak, Poland, University of Missouri-Columbia

Michael J. Hiscox, Australia, Harvard University

Huang Hsing Foundation

Shing-Yuan Sheng, Taiwan, University of Michigan Chien-chung Yin, Taiwan, University of California-Los Angeles Bing Wu, University of Oklahoma

Senior Scholar Grants—APSA Council Grantees and USIA Grantees

Peter Hardi, Budapest University of Economic Sciences, Hungary Detlef Sprinz, Potsdam Institute for Climate Impact Research, Germany

Paloma Aguilar, Instituto Juan

March de Estudios e Investigaciones, Spain

Desmand King, St. Johns College

Desmond King, St. Johns College, United Kingdom

Janneke van der Rus, College of Lillehammer, Norway

Patrick Dunleavy, London School of Economics

Bob Jessop, Lancaster University, United Kingdom

Philip Ludlow, Center for European Studies, Belgium

Gerry Stoker, University of Strathclyde, United Kingdom

Alan Harding, Liverpool John Moores University, United Kingdom

Pradeep Saxena, University of Rajastan, India

Colin Hay, Lancaster University, United Kingdom

Jefferey Sellers, Humboldt-Universitat Zu Berlin, Germany

Patricia Peterson, University of Toronto, Canada

Jan Škaloud, University of Economic, Czech Republic

Michael Minkenberg, University of Gottingen, Germany

Algis Kruoavicius, Lithuania

Vyacheslav Cherepanov, Kharkov State Polytechnic University

Krishna Hachhethu, Tribhuvan University, Nepal

Dani Nabudere, Uganda

Eduardo Barajas, Rosario University, Columbia

Rene Armand Dreifuss, Federal Fluminense University

Teh Fu Huang, National Cheng Chi University, Taiwan

Mikhail M. Nazarov, Russian Academy of Sciences

Georgi Mateev Karasimeonov, Sofia University, Bulgaria Muhamed Masalha, University of Jordan

Michalis Spourdalakis, University of Athens, Greece

APSA Awards Advanced Graduate Student Travel Grants

For the second straight year the APSA issued 23 travel grants to advanced American graduate students presenting papers at the annual meeting. Funded through a variety of sources, including the APSA Council, T-shirt sales from the 1994 Annual Meeting, and a donation from the Kansas Political Science Association. Their names and affiliations follow:

Andrea K. Gerlack, University of Arizona

Sheri Leronda Wallace, Cornell University

Eric Schickler, Yale University Andrew Grossman, New School/ CSSC

Diane Heith, Brown University Jason A. Scorza, Princeton University

Richard Groper, University of Southern California

Laura Parisi, University of Arizona Gregory J. Wawro, Cornell Univer-

David Redlawsk, Rutgers University John Bohte, Texas A&M University Michael Link, University of South Carolina

Lori Weber, University of Colorado-Boulder

Shannon Blanton, University of South Carolina

Marcia A. Marshall, Georgetown University

Robert E. Bohrer, Texas A&M University

Charles Menifield, University of Missouri-Columbia

Stephanie A. Lindquist, University of South Carolina

Bernadette Kilroy, University of California-Los Angeles

Valerie O'Regan, University of California-Riverside

David Powell, Miami University

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

APSA COUNCIL AND PRESIDENT

The APSA Nominations Committee seeks suggestions to fill seven upcoming vacancies on the APSA Council and the positions of APSA President-elect, secretary, and three vice-presidents. Council members serve three-year terms; president-elect, vice-presidents, and secretary serve one-year terms. Send names of nominees by January, 31 1996. The Committee will meet in February and will report to the president no later than April 15.

In the spaces below, you may name up to three individuals to serve on the APSA Council and one individual to serve as president, vice-president, secretary. Elections will take place at the 1996 Annual Meeting in San Francisco, August 31, at the Annual Business Meeting if there is no challenge to the slate prepared by the nominating committee.

Be sure to include address, phone numbers(s), and if possible, a current vita of the nominee(s).

i nominate the lonowing for the AFSA Coun	or the APSA Counci	the	for	ollowing	the	nominate	I
---	--------------------	-----	-----	----------	-----	----------	---

(1)	(2)		(3)
Name		Name	-	Name
Address		Address	-	Address
City, State, Zip		City, State, Zip	-	City, State, Zip
Phone		Phone	_	Phone
I nominate for Secretary:		ninate for President-Elect:	(2)	Vice-President:
Name	(2)	Name	(3) _	Name
Address		Address	-	Address
City, State, Zip		City, State, Zip		City, State, Zip
Phone		Phone	-	Phone
	Your Name:
	Your Phone:
	Return To:	APSA Nominations 1527 New Hampshire Ave., NW Washington, DC 20036 FAX: (202) 483-2657 E-Mail: rudder@apsa.com

Nominations Sought for 1996 APSA Book Awards

Nominations are invited for the APSA Book Awards to be presented at the 1996 Annual Meeting, August 29 September 1, at the San Francisco Hilton and Towers. Books published in 1995 may be nominated by publishers or individuals who submit their own book. The deadline for submition of books to an award committee is February 15 1996. Interested individuals should submit a letter of nomination to APSA no later than January 15, 1996, and a copy of this letter must go to the publisher to assure that the award committee members each receive the book by February 15, 1996. A list of the 1996 book award committees and their addresses follows:

Ralph J. Bunche Award

For the best scholarly work in political science which explores the phenomenon of ethnic and cultural pluralism.

Franklin Jones
Dept. of Public Affairs
Texas Southern University
3100 Cleburne Avenue
Houston, TX 77004

Christine M. Sierra
Department of Political Science
University of New Mexico
Albuquerque, NM 87131-1121

David Laitin
Dept. of Political Science
University of Chicago
5835 S. Kimbark Ave.
Chicago, IL 60637

Bunche Award APSA 1527 New Hampshire Ave., NW Washington DC, 20036

Victoria Schuck Award

For the best book published on women and politics.

Laura Woliver
Dept. of Government &
International Studies
University of South Carolina
Columbia, SC 29208

Marie B. Rosenberg 23009 Marine View Dr. S. #B 207 Seattle, WA 98198 Anne Costain
Dept. of Poltical Science
University of Colorado
Campus Box 333
Boulder, CO 80309-0333

Schuck Award APSA 1527 New Hampshire Ave., NW Washington, DC 20036

Gladys M. Kammerer Award

For the best political science publication in the field of U.S. national policy.

Raymond Tanter Dept. of Political Science University of Michigan Ann Arbor, MI 48109-1045

Melissa Collie Dept. of Government U. of Texas at Austin Austin, TX 78712-1087 Harold F. Bass Ouchita Baptist University OBU Box 3781 Arkadelphia, AR 71998-0001

Kammerer Award APSA 1527 New Hampshire Ave., NW Washington, DC 20036

Woodrow Wilson Foundation Award

For the best book published in the United States in the field of government, politics or international affairs.

Virginia Sapiro Dept. of Political Science University of Wisconsin 1050 Bascom Hall Madison, WI 53706

Lief Carter Dept. of Political Science Colorado College Colorado Springs, CO 80903 Richard I. Hofferbert NIAS Meijboomlaan 1 2242 PR Wassenaa The Netherlands

Wilson Award APSA 1527 New Hampshire Ave., Washington, DC 20036

Further details may be obtained by contacting the Awards Coordinator, Sean Twombly, at the National Office by phone (202) 483-2512 or e-mail: twombly@apsa.com

Nominations Sought FOR 1996 APSA CAREER AND DISSERTATION AWARDS

Nominations are invited for APSA Career and Dissertation Awards to be presented at the 1996 Annual Meeting, August 29 - September 1 at the San Francisco Hilton and Towers.

Departments are invited to submit nominations for dissertation prizes although not more than one submission per award. Dissertations eligible are those completed and accepted during the past two calendar years. Department submissions should be sent to each member of the award committee and include a letter of nomination and a copy of the dissertation. Departments must submit their nominations by January 15, 1996.

Individuals are invited to submit, for consideration, letters of nomination for Career Awards. Career Awards are decided upon by three-member committees appointed by the President and approved by the Council. The deadline for submission of letters is January 31, 1996.

APSA Career and Dissertation Awards are listed below:

Dissertation Prizes

Gabriel A. Almond Award - in the field of comparative politics.

William A. Anderson Award - in the field of intergovernmental relations.

Edward S. Corwin Award - in the field of public law.

Harold D. Lasswell Award - in field of policy studies.

Helen Dwight Reid Award - in the field of international relations, law and politics.

E.E. Schattschneider Award - in the field of American government.

Leo Strauss Award - in the field of political philosophy.

Leonard D. White Award- in the field of public administration.

Career Awards

John Gaus Award and Lectureship - to honor a recipient's lifetime of exemplary scholarship in the joint tradition of political science and public administration and more generally, recognizes achievement and ecourages scholarship in public administration.

James Madison Award and Lectureship - to honor an American political scientist who has made a distinguished scholarly contribution to political science. The award is designed to recognize a career of scholary excellance rather than a particular piece of scholarship.

Hubert H. Humphrey Award - in recognition of notable public service by a political scientist.

Carey McWilliams Award - to honor a major journalistic contribution to our understanding of politics.

Award Committee members and further information may be obtained by contacting the Award Coordinator, Sean Twombly, at the National Office by phone (202) 483-2512 or e-mail: twombly@apsa.com

Julie Novkov, University of Michigan

Eric Ziegelmayer, SUNY-Albany

The APSA Advanced Graduate Student Travel Grant Program was established in 1994 to enable graduate students to attend the annual meeting. The need for such a program is evident given the decline in department travel funds and the increase in the numbers of graduate students presenting papers. The APSA urges its members to support this effort by contributing to the Travel Grant Program. If you would like to contribute to the Program, please make checks payable to "APSA Travel" and send to the APSA National Office, 1527 New Hampshire Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20036.

Annual Meeting Short Courses Provide Diverse Professional Development Opportunities

This year's Annual Meeting featured 14 short courses to inaugurate the meeting's Wednesday pre-session. A variety of APSA Organized Sections and related organizations sponsored the short courses, which provided nearly 100 early attendees with forums for professional development targeted to their particular interests and fields.

This year's Leading Scholars Series featured Elinor Ostrom, APSA President-Elect and Co-Director of the Workshop in Political Theory and Policy Analysis at Indiana University, and Vincent Ostrom, Co-Director of the Workshop in Political Theory and Policy Analysis. As in the past, the Leading Scholar Series served as a cost-free opportunity for graduate staudents to participate in an informal session with prominent scholars in the profession. The series emphasized the evolution of the leaders' intellectual and professional agendas and schol-

In addition to the Leading Scholar Series, short courses explored issues such as race and political development, and cultural perspectives on the 1994 election which related to the Annual Meeting's theme, Liberalism at Century's End: Competing Perspectives. Beyond topics directly representing the theme, some sessions also focused on diverse issues such as the role of technology in the profession, a retrospective assessment of nuclear proliferation since Hiroshima, and teaching and professional development methods.

One workshop on foreign policy and opinion polling conducted a straw poll of more than 250 participants on United States foreign policy toward Bosnia. The survey, sponsored by the Section on Domestic Sources of Foreign Policy and the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, found widespread support in theory for a continuation of current policies, with isolated groups advocating significant policy shifts. Respondents identified two goals for United States Bosnia policy, the primary being humanitarian and the secondary being a concern for regional, and not necessarily United States, security. Survey results bolstered Chicago Council findings indicating elites support the use of force more than the general public.

Report of the Managing Editor of the American Political Science Review, August 30, 1995

G. Bingham Powell, Jr., University of Rochester

Being editor of the American Political Science Review is, as I have frequently remarked, the best job in the world—except that there's just a bit too much of it. The job is fascinating, diverse, challenging, worthy, well respected by one's peers (usually) and seldom involves a committee meeting. What more could one want? More hours in the day, perhaps, or the absence of other responsibilities, especially at exam time, when convergent editorial and university deadlines can overwhelm the editor's system. A one-month moratorium to break up the relentless flow of two-plus manuscripts a day for 52 weeks a year would be nice. Referee reports that appeared on time would be a dream. But, overall, it's a wonderful job "as is." I am grateful to the Association for allowing me to hold it for four years.

Of course, for the "decisionally challenged" such as I, who have been known to agonize for an hour over giving an undergraduate paper a B+ or A-, each decision takes its toll. Small wonder that after 2,000 of them (not counting referee choices), I am glad to pass along the responsibility to fresh shoulders. After very hard work on both sides and close cooperation between Ada Finifter and me, as well as the old Rochester and new Michigan State associate editors, the transition of APSR editors is nearly complete. I am very grateful to Ada Finifter for facilitating the transition by undertaking so much hard work before her term officially begins; I am confident she will reap the rewards of these initial efforts in the years to come. I leave APSR exhausted. feeling that I have done all that I could do, but not without regret.

The Cumulative Statistical Record

Between July 1, 1991, and June 30, 1995, nearly 2,000 manuscripts were submitted to the APSR. Table 1 shows the distributions of these across the five standard subfields. These total 1,941 manuscripts. Another 25 manuscripts or so that were received are not shown because they could not be classified as political science. Of the 1.941 political science manuscripts, some 216 were revisions of previously submitted manuscripts, while the other 1,725 were completely new submissions. About 100 of these new submissions were rejected without review, frequently for excessive length; a number of these reappeared in the "revised" group in briefer form.

The other 1,600+ received the standard procedure that we developed in our first few months of operation. They were logged in and assigned to an APSR graduate stu-