

THE OTHER HEADING

Reflections on Today's Europe

Jacques Derrida

Translated by Pascale-Anne Brault and Michael B. Naas

Introduction by Bill Martin and Michael B. Naas

Jacques Derrida on the identity and future of the "new Europe" (post-EEC, post-USSR) and on the outlook for democracy. Like an explorer, Derrida sets sail from the old Europe, heading for a new one—a Europe which will not see itself as the capital of culture but will recognize that its identity is constituted by the other. Although the Enlightenment values of liberal democracy remain important, they are not absolute. Europe's responsibility must be a respect for difference, for minorities, for the singular and the idiomatic. It must guard against a return to some fixed identity which would sanction nationalism, totalitarianism, racism, and xenophobia.

THE GEOPOLITICAL AESTHETIC

Cinema and Space in the World System

Fredric R. Jameson

Taking contemporary films from around the world, Jameson offers a reading of some of the most interesting movies of the last decade and a general account of filmic representation in the postmodern world. A refinement and development of the arguments put forward in Jameson's seminal work The Political Unconscious, The Geopolitical Aesthetic is crucial reading for everyone interested in both film analysis and cultural studies.

SOUTH OF THE WEST

Postcolonialism and the Narrative Construction of Australia

Ross Gibson

In this study of Western aesthetics and the politics of everyday life, Ross Gibson offers provocative analyses of Australia's films and examines an array of objects and attitudes encountered in his southern locale. His twelve chapters interweave to form an essay on the realignment of space, time, and meaning in contemporary Western societies. Gibson demonstrates how these different systems of representation construct "Australia."

THE LIBIDINAL ECONOMY

Jean-François Lyotard

Translated by Iain Hamilton Grant

Lyotard is considered one of the most brilliant and influential of French post-structuralist thinkers. Published in 1974 by Minuit, Économie libidinale is, of all his work to date, the most creative in its mode of writing and in its theorizing: a stunning, dense, brilliant piece in which Lyotard, ranging from Marxist and Freudian theory to contemporary arts, argues that political economy is charged with passions and, reciprocally, that passions are infused with the political.

Claiming Breath

Diane Glancy

Claiming Breath is the diary of one year, from December to December. It is, writes the author, "a winter count of sorts, a calendar, a diary of personal matters . . . and a final acceptance of a broken past." $15.95

“ This is a major work, exploring and illuminating territory that is both new and ancient; it's a wondrous illumination of the territory . . . in all its grief, wonder, delight, and obscurity. ”

– Paula Gunn Allen

“ The Pataphysical Imperative – which brought Alfred Jarry, Tristan Tzara and Eugen Ionesco into being – has in Boris Vian the perfect mid-century ambassador. Vian is right there, at the intersection of the French Surrealist century with the American Jazz century, blowing the riffs of the Great Comic-Tragic Pata-Spirit. The book is a portal to the Potential World where all of us live now. ”

– Andrei Codrescu.
