

News and Comments

The staff of the History of Education Quarterly is interested in purchasing some back issues of the Quarterly for $8.00 a copy. The following issues are needed to expand our inventory: Vol. 21 (Fall 1981); Vol. 22 (Summer and Fall 1982); Vol. 23 (Spring, Summer, and Fall 1983); Vol. 25 (Spring/Summer 1985 double issue); Vol. 28 (Summer 1988). If you would like to sell any of these issues, please contact: Alex Urbiel, Subscriptions Manager, History of Education Quarterly, School of Education, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN 47405. Copies must be unmarked and in good condition.

The Voice of Liberal Learning

Michael Oakeshott on Education

edited by Timothy Fuller

This volume, brings together for the first time the major writings of Michael Oakeshott—arguably Britain’s leading political philosopher of this century—on the subject of education. Oakeshott’s remarkable essays are essential reading for anyone concerned about current debates on education and what it must learn from its past.

“Lucid, witty, and timeless. . . . Indispensable to any serious course on the philosophy of education.”
—Kenneth Minogue $20.00

Yale University Press
Dept. 964
92A Yale Station
New Haven, CT 06520

Now available in paperback

Lucy Sprague Mitchell

The Making of a Modern Woman

Joyce Antler

An engrossing biography of Lucy Sprague Mitchell, founder of the Bank Street College of Education and one of the first women to attempt to combine a consuming career with marriage and motherhood.

“Beautifully written, solidly researched, and perceptive. . . . Antler has skillfully linked the history of progressive education and progressive reform with women’s history.”
—Lynn D. Gordon, History of Education Quarterly $14.95

NEW TOOLS FOR RESEARCHERS FROM MACMILLAN

● American Teachers

Histories of a Profession at Work

Editor: DONALD WARREN

A Publication of the American Educational Research Association

With original contributions by leading scholars, this is a comprehensive guide to the range of historical research on teachers, teaching, and teacher education in U.S. history. The chapters link the history of teachers to the history of instruction and teacher education—all within fully developed political, social, and economic contexts. Broad in scope, the book covers such topics as the social characteristics of teachers, gender, family, and career in educational history, teacher activism, salaries, certification, and others.

August • 520 pages • ISBN 0-02-900963-4 • $34.95

● History of the School Curriculum

DANIEL TANNER and LAUREL TANNER

This superb new book chronicles the development of the school curriculum from the colonial era to the present—and provides a rich historical context for understanding a host of current issues. The fluid, integrated narrative is accompanied by a wealth of supporting graphics, including timeline charts and boxed inserts.

“...extends contemporary thinking about history as an important part of professional knowledge...ideally suited for use both in undergraduate courses and for continuing supplemental reference...”—Regina Weade, University of Florida

Fall • Approx. 400 pages • ISBN 0-02-897411-5 • $34.95

● The Educator's Desk Reference

A Sourcebook of Educational Information and Research

MELVYN N. FREED, ROBERT K. HESS, and JOSEPH M. RYAN

Here are answers to hundreds of questions about educational research in one unique volume. EDR guides researchers, teachers, and students to sources of information and knowledge bases in a wide range of areas. Find a guide to reference sources; an author's guide from publishers of books and software; a comparison of major educational software packages; a directory of standardized tests and summaries of research designs; profiles of regional and national education organizations; and more. Organized for easy access, EDR brings together more of the information education professionals need than does any other single source.

“A remarkably useful resource....Like word processing, you wonder how you ever managed without it.”—William G. Monahan, former Dean, College of Human Resources and Education, West Virginia University

Summer • 520 pages • ISBN 0-02-910740-7 • $49.95

Recently published

Educational Measurement Third Edition

Editor: ROBERT L. LINN

Sponsored by the National Council on Measurement in Education and the American Council on Education

784 pages • ISBN 0-02-922400-4 • $60.00

MACMILLAN PUBLISHING COMPANY

A Division of Macmillan, Inc.

866 THIRD AVENUE • NEW YORK, N.Y. 10022 • ATTENTION: DAVE HORVATH