Lives in Literature.

BECKETT/BECKETT

Vivian Mercier. Combining a persuasive dialectical method with a personal approach to the Nobel Prize writer's background and works, Mercier explores aspects of Beckett's art that are often overlooked, such as his affinities with Racine. He has "the literary keenness to track Beckett steadily and effortlessly. . . . A fine study."

—Roger Shattuck 272 pp. $11.95

SEEING THROUGH EVERYTHING

English Writers 1918-1940

William Pritchard. "A book whose friendliness, honesty, and unpretentiousness are welcome. Where others have been insecurely highminded and mechanical and even cruel, Pritchard is unfailingly humane and humorous." —Paul Fussell. "I have enjoyed Pritchard's criticism ever since he began writing it. . . . All [his] virtues shine forth in this book." —Mark Schorer 288 pp. $10.00

THE CONSCIOUSNESS OF JOYCE

Richard Ellmann. From his discovery of the novelist's working library, Ellmann traces the literary ancestry of Ulysses and discusses how Joyce triangulated himself with Homer and Shakespeare. "His saturation in Joyce's life and work," as John Updike once wrote, "is one of the wonders of present American literary scholarship." 128 pp. $7.95

ELIOT'S EARLY YEARS

Lyndall Gordon. "One of the precious handful of Eliot studies in the last decade which have given us fresh news about the elusive poet of The Waste Land." —William Arrowsmith. "It has merit as biography, as interpretation, and as criticism—a difficult synthesis, here achieved thanks to clear thought and distinguished writing." —Jacques Barzun 250 pp. 12 photographs $8.95
