

NEW FROM PRINCETON

Princetonians, 1748-1768

A Biographical Dictionary

James McLachlan

This volume describes the lives of the 338 men who graduated from the College of New Jersey (later Princeton University) between 1748 and 1768. Alumni included five members of the Constitutional Convention of 1787, twenty-two participants in the Continental Congress, four Senators, seven Congressmen, and two Justices of the Supreme Court. Urban Village

Population, Community, and Family Structure in Germantown, Pennsylvania, 1683-1800

Stephanie Grauman Wolf

In this study of a mid-Atlantic town, the author describes a very different way of organizing society, indicating that the customary New England model may prove atypical. Using quantitative analysis and sample case study to examine this small urban center, Wolf traces the origins of 20th-century social patterns in 18th-century life. £14.60

Thomas Hooker, 1586-1647

Frank Shuffelton

Examining the relationship between Hooker's activities and his writings, Shuffelton considers his role in the crises of early New England politics and religion. The author analyzes Hooker's works and shows that as preacher and pastor, theologian and architect of the Puritan religious community, Thomas Hooker voiced concerns that remained important throughout American history. £13.10

Papers of Woodrow Wilson

Arthur S. Link, Editor

Volume 22: 1910-1911

The papers in Volume 22 fully document the monumental struggle over the election of a U.S. Senator, Wilson's victory over the state Democratic machine headed by James Smith, Jr., his legislative triumphs, and the beginning of a movement to make Wilson the Democratic presidential nominee in 1912. £18.70

Volume 23: 1911-1912

This volume covers one of the most crucial periods of Wilson's career. After the New Jersey legislature adjourned in April, he set out upon a cross-country speaking tour as a trial run for the pre-convention campaign. Strongly favorable public reaction encouraged Wilson to think seriously about seeking the Democratic presidential nomination. £18.70

Volume 13: Contents and Index, Volumes 1-12

The Contents and Index for Volumes 1 through 12, covering the period of 1856 to 1902, is now available. £11.20

WILLIAM KNOX

The Life and Thought of an Eighteenth-Century Imperialist

LELAND J. BELLOT

Colonial expert and pamphleteer William Knox has received attention in virtually every major study of the American Revolution, yet this is the first biography of Knox ever written.

Bellot's comprehensive narrative reveals Knox as a person—one whose Calvinistic heritage and Scots-Irish upbringing profoundly influenced his view of empire—and as a historical actor and witness.

1777: THE YEAR OF THE HANGMAN

JOHN S. PANCAKE

This history, written in the form of a novel, is the first to attempt to link Gentleman Johnny Burgoyne's expedition from Canada with the concurrent operation of General Sir William Howe in such a way as to present a complete story of the campaign of 1777 from its inception and launching by the American Secretary, Lord George Germain, to the point where it was reduced to a shambles by the end of the year.

BLACKS AND THE POPULIST REVOLT

Ballots and Bigotry in the "New South"

GERALD H. GAITHER

Introduction by SHELDON HACKNEY

Dr. Gaither has contributed to a more precise knowledge of the sources of Populism, white and black, south and west. Populism's intellectual and ideological foundation combined in religious thought the idea of the social democracy. In theory, it was to be a monolithic coalition of special class interest recognising no racial or regional boundaries. In practice, Populist racial attitudes took two distinct, and sometimes overlapping strains: economic and political reform, and social inequality.

The distinguished contributors to this book give many perspectives on the changes taking place in the South today, with special regard for the impact of technological change on human values. If one were limited to a single volume for an understanding of the South, this book would be an excellent choice.
