

The Fifth World Congress of The International Political Science Association was held at the UNESCO building in Paris, France, September 26-30, 1961. Over five hundred political scientists attended and there was representation from over forty countries. The Congress was held under the auspices of the Prime Minister, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the Minister of National Education of France. Professor J.-J. Chevallier, President of the French Political Science Association, headed the Organizing Committee. Five series of panel discussions dealt with (1) the contribution of studies of political behavior; (2) the political problems of polyethnic states; (3) administrative problems in the field of nuclear energy; (4) technocracy and the role of experts in government; and (5) civil-military relations in the field of foreign policy making. Norman Chester, Warden of Nuffield College, Oxford, was elected President of IPSA for a three-year term, succeeding Jacques Chapsal, Directeur de l'Institut d'Etudes Politiques de l'Universite de Paris. Carl J. Friedrich (Harvard), Jovan Djordjevic (Belgrade), Francesco Vito (Milan) and S. K. Kogekar (Poona, India) were elected vice-presidents and Evron M. Kirkpatrick was elected to the Executive Committee. The next International Congress of IPSA will be held in 1964, at a place to be determined later.

The Fifteenth Annual meeting of the New York Political Science Association was held at Cornell University on April 21 and 22, 1961. Panel sessions were devoted to "Government and Resources Development," and "Politics of Developing Areas." At the dinner session Laurin Henry of the Brookings Institution discussed "Presidential Transition." Officers of the Association for 1961-62 are: William R. Willoughby, St. Lawrence University, president; Channing Richardson, Hamilton College, vice president; Frederick T. Bent, Cornell University, secretary treasurer; and James Riedel (Union College), Frederick Englemann (Alfred University), and Herbert Rosenbaum (Hofstra College), members of the executive council.

A joint meeting of the Western Political Science Association and the Pacific Northwest Political Science Association will be held March 23-24 at Portland State College. Officers of the WPSA are president, Hugh A. Bone, University of Washington; vice-president, Ivan Hinderaker, UCLA; secretary, Brock Dixon, Portland State College. Members of the executive committee are: Harold Enarson, Roy V. Peel, Bernard C. Hennessey, Ned Joy, Daniel M. Ogden, Jr., Kline Swygart and Leo Riethmayer.

APPOINTMENTS AND STAFF CHANGES

Milnor Alexander has been given appointment as instructor in political science at the Pennsylvania State University.

Paul Alexander, Jr. of Vanderbilt University has accepted a position as instructor at Marshall University.

Henry S. Albinski has been promoted to the rank of assistant professor of political science at the Pennsylvania State University.

Vernon V. Aspaturian has been promoted to rank of professor of political science at the Pennsylvania State University.

Hans Baerwald has been promoted to the rank of associate professor at Miami University (Ohio).

Stephen Kemp Bailey, professor of political science, has been appointed as the fourth dean of the Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse University, effective September 1, 1961.

Russell H. Barrett has been advanced to a full professorship at the University of Mississippi.

Kenneth E. Beasley has been appointed associate professor of political science and public administration at the Pennsylvania State University. Prior to this, he was assistant professor of political science and assistant director of the training program of the governmental research center at the University of Kansas.

Gary L. Best, formerly on the staff at the University of Oregon has accepted an appointment as assistant professor at Miami University (Ohio).

Yaroslav Bilinsky, formerly of Douglass College, Rutgers University, has been appointed assistant professor at the University of Delaware.

Rev. Virgil C. Blum, S.J., has been promoted to professor of political science at Marquette University.

John N. Born is now an instructor at the University of Nevada.

Robert Bone, formerly of Tulane University, has been appointed associate professor at Florida State University.

Clark W. Bouton, formerly of Drake University, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of Colorado.

Robert Burrowes, Ph.D. candidate at Princeton, has been appointed instructor in political science at University College, New York University.

Leo D. Cagan has been appointed chairman of the government department at San Francisco State College.

Mark W. Cannon, formerly administrative assistant to Congressman Henry Aldous Dixon, has been made associate professor and chairman of the department of political science at Brigham Young University.

Donald F. Cate at Stanford University has accepted a position at San Francisco State College.

Hsien t'ing Peter Ch'en has been appointed instructor in the department at Brown.

Yung Ping Chen, on leave from the Pan American College, has been appointed as lecturer in the European program of the University of Maryland commencing in September, 1961.

Edwin Cobb, a doctoral candidate at the George Washington University, has been appointed an instructor of political science at the Montgomery Junior College.

George A. Coddling, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania, has been appointed associate professor of political science at the University of Colorado.

Stuart Edgar Colie, formerly of Bowdoin College, took up his duties as assistant professor of political studies at the American University of Beirut in Lebanon in September, 1961.

Thomas I. Cook has been named chairman of the department of political science at the Johns Hopkins University.

Eugene E. Dais has accepted appointment as assistant professor on political science at the Johns Hopkins University.

David J. Danelski of the University of Illinois has become assistant professor at the University of Washington.

Paul Dolan has been promoted to full professorship in the department of political science at the University of Delaware.

Harry Eckstein of Princeton has been promoted to full professor.

Jack D. Edwards has been appointed instructor at the University of Nevada.

Luigi R. Einaudi has been appointed as an instructor in government at Wesleyan University.

Emery Fast has been made professor of political science at Montgomery Junior College.

Edward T. Ferguson III, formerly of the faculty of Southern Illinois University, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of Oregon.

Richard M. Fink, candidate for the Ph.D. at Harvard, has been appointed an acting instructor at the University of Wisconsin.

Mildred L. Fitch, associate professor of government, Purdue University, retired from the University on June 30, 1961, She was named Professor Emeritus by action of the Board of Trustees.

Milton E. Flower has been appointed chairman of the department of political science at Dickinson College.

Wayne Francis has been appointed instructor and research assistant in the bureau of government research at Indiana University.

Elke Frank, tutor at Harvard, has been appointed assistant professor at Florida State University.

Carl M. Frasure, who has served 26 years as chairman of the department of political science has been appointed dean of the college of arts and science, West Virginia University.

Robert L. Friedheim, who expects to complete the work for his Ph.D. at the University of Washington in August, 1961, was appointed assistant professor of government at Purdue University, effective September 1, 1961.

Robert S. Friedman of Louisiana State University, has resigned to accept a visiting associate professorship at the University of Michigan.

Richard T. Frost, formerly assistant professor of politics at Princeton University, is associate professor of political science and administrative assistant to the president, Reed College, effective September, 1961.

Jack G. Gabbert, formerly of the University of Texas, has been appointed instructor in political science at Washington State University at Pullman.

Fred Gantt, Jr., formerly of the University of Texas, has been appointed instructor in history and government at the A & M College of Texas.

Robert Moulton Gatke has retired after 25 years as professor and chairman of the political science department at Willamette University and 40 years as a member of the faculty.

William Gerberding has accepted an appointment as assistant professor of political science at the University of California, Los Angeles.

John D. Gerletti has been promoted from associate to full professor of public administration at the University of Southern California.

Robert C. Gibson, who recently received his Ph.D. from Ohio State University, has been appointed assistant professor in the department of political science, West Virginia University.

Arthur C. Glover has been appointed assistant coordinator of the contract programs in public administration at Indiana University.

Charles D. Goff, formerly of the University of Wisconsin (Milwaukee), has been appointed associate professor political science at Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh.

Edward M. Goldberg, formerly of San Diego State College, has been appointed assistant professor of government at Los Angeles State College.

T. William Goodman, formerly of the University of Tennessee, has been appointed chairman of the department of political science at the University of Rhode Island.

William J. Gore, University of Kansas, has been appointed associate professor of government at Indiana University.

Wesley L. Gould, associate professor of government, Purdue University, has been promoted to professor of government, as of September 1, 1961.

Richard B. Gray has been promoted to associate professor of government at Florida State University.

Harry S. Hall, who recently received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at Temple University.

Donald Habbe has been promoted to associate professor at the University of South Dakota.

Murray C. Havens, formerly of Duke University, has been appointed an assistant professor of government at the University of Texas.

James J. Heaphey has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of California, Berkeley.

Richard F. Heiges has become associate professor in the social studies department at Indiana State College, Indiana, Pennsylvania.

Edward J. Heubel, formerly of Wayne State University, has been appointed associate professor of political science at Michigan State University, Oakland.

Victor K. Heyman of Marshall University has resigned to accept a position in the Department of Defense.

Milton Hobbs has been promoted to assistant professor at Indiana University.

Walter V. Hohenstein has been named assistant director in charge of Korea for the Far East Division of the University of Maryland.

Harry A. Holloway has been advanced to assistant professor at the University of Texas.

Chun-tu Hsueh, research associate in the department of political science at Stanford University, has been named lecturer on modern China in the department of history at the University of Hong Kong, beginning February, 1962.

Colin A. Hughes has been appointed fellow in political science at the institute of advanced studies, Australian National University, Canberra, Australia.

Erwin Jaffe is now assistant professor of political science at Nevada.

George P. Jan, formerly of Northern Illinois University, has been appointed assistant professor of government at the University of South Dakota.

Henry Janssen has been promoted to the rank of professor of political science at San Diego State College.

Ned V. Joy has been promoted to the rank of professor of political science at San Diego State College.

John J. Kennedy has been advanced to the rank of professor of foreign affairs at the University of Virginia.

John H. Kessel of Amherst College has accepted an assistant professorship at the University of Washington.

Marshall Knappen, who joined the faculty of the University of Delaware in 1960, has been appointed Fletcher Brown professor of history and political science.

Leo Koutouzos has been appointed as lecturer in the European program of the University of Maryland commencing in September, 1961.

Earl R. Kruschke has been appointed instructor in the department of political science, extension, the University of Wisconsin.

John C. Lane has been appointed assistant dean of the college of arts and science of the University of Buffalo, effective September, 1961.

Joel Larus, formerly assistant professor of public law and government at Columbia University, has been appointed assistant professor of politics at Brandeis.

M. Harry Lease, Jr., has received the degree of Ph.D. in political science from Indiana University and has been promoted from instructor to assistant professor of political science at the University of Minnesota, Duluth.

Charles E. Larsen, formerly of Rutgers University, Newark, has been promoted to associate professor and elected chairman of the division of social sciences at Mills College.

Leslie Laszlo has been appointed as lecturer in the European program of the University of Maryland commencing in September, 1961.

Don Laws has been appointed instructor in the political science department at Willamette University.

Murray B. Levin has been promoted to the rank of associate professor at Boston University.

Erwin Levine has been appointed assistant professor of government at Skidmore College.

Leon N. Lindberg, candidate for the Ph.D. at Berkeley, has been appointed an acting instructor at the University of Wisconsin.

Ernst Linde, former U. S. secretary of the bipartite control office for Germany is now serving as program officer in the Governmental Affairs Institute in Washington, D. C.

William S. Livingston has been advanced to full professor at the University of Texas.

Klaus Loewald has accepted a position at San Francisco State College.

Richard Longaker has accepted an appointment as associate professor of political science at the University of California, Los Angeles.

J. George Longworth, formerly of Columbia University, has been appointed an instructor in the department of political science, University of South Carolina.

Dean McHenry of UCLA has been appointed chancellor of the University of California, Santa Cruz.

Carl McMurray, formerly of Illinois State Normal University has been appointed assistant professor at Florida State University.

Earlean McCarrick, instructor in government at LSU, has been transferred to LSU in New Orleans.

C. Peter Magrath, formerly of Cornell, has been appointed an instructor at Brown.

Ralph Miwa, formerly of the University of Missouri, has joined the staff at the University of Hawaii.

Richard V. Montag has resigned as assistant professor of political science at Saint Mary's College of California, in order to accept a special appointment to the faculty of the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey.

Malcolm Moos has accepted a position with the Rockefeller Brothers beginning in the summer of 1961. His association with the department of political science at the Johns Hopkins University will continue; he will give a series of lectures throughout the year and will participate in the supervision of dissertations.

William L. Morrow, who received the doctorate from the State University of Iowa during the past summer, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at DePauw University.

Donald C. Munding has been promoted to associate professor of government at Valparaiso University.

Charles B. Neff has been appointed assistant professor of government at the University of Hawaii.

Frank W. Neuber has joined the department of social science at Eastern Illinois University, Charleston, as an associate professor of political science. Mr. Neuber was most recently assistant professor of government at Western Washington College of Education, Bellingham.

William J. Newman has been promoted to the rank of full professor at Boston University.

Stanley S. Newman has been appointed instructor of political science at Temple University.

Felix A. Nigro, formerly of Southern Illinois University, has been appointed professor of political science at San Diego State College.

Robert C. Noel has been appointed instructor in political science at the Pennsylvania State University. During the past year he was at the institute for social research in Oslo, Norway, under a fellowship granted by the center for research on conflict resolution at the University of Michigan.

Clark F. Norton has been appointed assistant dean of the university at DePauw University. He will continue to give one course each semester in the department of political science.

George Olgay, graduate fellow at Notre Dame has been appointed assistant professor of government at St. Michaels College.

David M. Olson, formerly of the University of California at Berkeley, has completed a year as a congressional interne and has accepted appointment as assistant professor of government at the University of Texas.

Nissan Oren has been appointed assistant professor of international relations in the department of political science at the Johns Hopkins University.

Robert E. Osgood was appointed professor of political science at the University of Chicago as of July 1, 1961. During 1961-62 he will be on leave from Chicago as visiting professor of American diplomacy at the school of advanced international studies and research associate at the Washington Center for foreign policy research.

Joseph C. Palamountain, Jr., professor of government at Wesleyan University, has been appointed chairman of the department.

Robert L. Peabody has accepted appointment as assistant professor in political science at the Johns Hopkins University.

Anthony J. Pearce, most recently an editor at Doubleday & Co. has been appointed an assistant professor in the department of government at New York University.

Stanley A. Pearl has joined the department at the University of Nevada as instructor.

Clara Penniman has been promoted to the rank of professor of political science at the University of Wisconsin.

Edward L. Pinney has been promoted from instructor to assistant professor at Louisiana State University.

Hanna F. Pitkin has accepted a position at San Francisco State College.

Nelson W. Polsby, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, has been appointed assistant professor of government at Wesleyan University.

Paul F. Power has accepted a position at the University of Cincinnati.

Robert H. Puckett has been appointed assistant professor of political science at Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia.

Quentin Quade, formerly of St. Louis University, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at Marquette University.

Leo F. Redfern has been promoted to associate professor of political science at the University of Wisconsin, university extension division.

Eugene Pyzuir has been appointed assistant professor of political science at St. Louis University.

Four new appointments have been made to the faculty of the school of public administration of USC, beginning with fall, 1961: David Mars, visiting associate professor; Garth Jones, visiting associate professor; Kent Lloyd, assistant professor; and Chong Mo Pak, instructor.

John Cornelius Rensenbrink, formerly of Williams College, has accepted an appointment as assistant professor of history and government at Bowdoin College.

William A. Ritchie has been appointed assistant professor at the University of Delaware.

Francis E. Rourke has been promoted to professor in the department of political science at the Johns Hopkins University.

John W. Ryan has been promoted to associate professor of political science at the University of Wisconsin, university extension division.

Thomas M. Sanford has been promoted to the rank of assistant professor of government at Wesleyan University.

James R. Scarritt, formerly of Northwestern University, has been appointed instructor in political science at the University of Colorado.

Carl J. Schneider has been appointed chairman of the department of political science at the University of Nebraska, succeeding Jasper Shannon.

Theodore L. Shay has been promoted to professor and appointed chairman of the political science department at Willamette University.

John C. Sherry has been promoted to professor of social sciences at Pace College.

Lloyd M. Short has resigned the chairmanship of the department of political science and the directorship of the public administration center at the University of Minnesota, but will continue as professor of political science. He is on leave for the academic year 1961-62 to serve in Korea as consultant to the I.C.A. training program in public administration, conducted by the University of Minnesota at Seoul National University.

Richard Sklar who recently completed his doctorate in African studies at Princeton University has been appointed assistant professor of politics at Brandeis.

Rhoten A. Smith, formerly director of the Citizenship Clearing House and professor of politics in the department of government and law school at New York University, has accepted an appointment as dean of the college of arts and sciences, Temple University, effective August 1, 1961.

James Soles has become instructor at Florida State University.

Philip S. Spoerry, formerly of the department of political science at Washington State University, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at Utah State University.

George Stambuk has been promoted to assistant professor at Indiana University.

W. J. Stankiewicz has been promoted to the rank of associate professor at the University of British Columbia.

James A. Steintrager of the University of Chicago has been appointed instructor in the department of government of Louisiana State University.

Lois Stone has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the State University of New York College of Education at Albany.

Robert S. Sullivant of DePauw University, who spent the second semester and a part of the past summer in research at the University of Moscow under a grant from the Inter-university committee on travel grants has been promoted to an associate professorship.

Loren E. Tesdell, formerly assistant professor of political science at Temple University, has become director of the social and technical assistance program of the American Friends Service Committee.

Thomas L. Thorson has been promoted to the rank of assistant professor of political science at the University of Wisconsin.

George O. Totter, formerly of Boston University, has been appointed associate professor of political science at the University of Rhode Island.

Robert W. Tucker has been promoted to professor in the department of political science at the Johns Hopkins University. He will be on leave of absence for the year 1961-62.

S. Sidney Ulmer has been promoted to the rank of associate professor at Michigan State University, effective July 1, 1961.

Clement E. Vose has been promoted to the rank of professor of government at Wesleyan University.

Morris Watnick, who has held research grants in Soviet studies at the Harvard Russian Research Center and recently at Ohio State University, has been appointed lecturer in politics at Brandeis.

Edwin W. Webber, formerly of the college of William and Mary, has been appointed assistant director of the bureau of government research and assistant professor of political science at the University of Rhode Island.

Marvin Weinbaum, who is a candidate for the doctorate at Columbia University, has joined the history and government department at Colby College as an instructor in government.

Alex Weilenmann, formerly of the University of Zurich and recently holder of a post-doctoral fellowship at Yale University, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at the University of Oregon.

Barbara Wells, Ph.D. candidate at New York University, has been appointed instructor at Skidmore College.

John R. Williams has been appointed chairman of the department of political science, West Virginia University.

H. Victor Wiseman, senior lecturer at the University of Leeds, England, is a visiting professor of political science at Temple University for the academic year 1961-62. Charles A. McCoy, assistant professor of political science at Temple University is lecturing at the University of Leeds in an exchange arrangement with Dr. Wiseman.

Julius F. Wolff, Jr. has been promoted to professor of political science at the University of Minnesota, Duluth.

Quincy Wright retired in June as professor of foreign affairs at the University of Virginia. During 1961-62, he will serve on the faculties of the University of Manchester, England and the Indian School of International Studies at New Delhi.

Kwanha Yim, formerly of Dartmouth College, has been appointed instructor in government at Bowdoin College.

Shao Chi Yuan has been promoted to associate professor and director of graduate instruction in political science at the Kansas State University.

Paul A. Zehner has been appointed instructor in the department of political science extension, University of Wisconsin.

Lawrence Zirring has been appointed an instructor in the department of government and law at Lafayette College.

Victor Zitta, formerly of DePauw University, has been appointed assistant professor of political science at Marquette University.

Aristide R. Zolberg who has completed his work for the doctorate at the University of Chicago, has been appointed an assistant professor at the University of Wisconsin.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

The University of Delaware has received a $500,000 grant from the Ford Foundation which will enable the university to develop its role as a land-grant university in an urban society.

The grant will be used to develop a pioneering program of urban services to help Delaware communities deal effectively with problems associated with the State's tremendous population growth and industrial expansion. The money will support the project over a five-year period and will provide the means for a three-pronged attack on urban problems through (1) research, (2) consulting and advisory services, and (3) educational activities, including seminars, conferences, short courses and institutes.

The Economic History Association announces a biennial prize competition for the best unpublished manuscript in the general field of economic history. The award, called the Edwin Francis Gay Memorial Prize in Economic History, will be $1,500.00 plus payment of any costs that may be required to assure publication of the prize-winning manuscript. Funds for the prize and for any publication costs will be contributed by the Council on Research in Economic History.

The judges will take into account both the intrinsic scholarly qualities of the submittals and the felicity with which findings are presented. Preference will be given to manuscripts which combine breadth of enquiry and insight; which open up new areas of scholarship; which explore analytically major changes or developments in economic processes or institutions. No award will be made if, in the opinion of the judges, no manuscript is of acceptable quality.

The competition is open to any American or Canadian scholar. Manuscripts must be in the English language and ought not to exceed the equivalent of three hundred fifty printed pages. Manuscripts and inquiries should be sent to Professor Ralph W. Hidy, Secretary of the Economic History Association, Morgan Hall, Harvard University, Boston 63, Massachusetts; entries must be received before July 15, 1962 in order to be eligible for the 1962 competition.

The Mershon National Security Program of the Ohio State University announces an award of $2500 for the best book-length manuscript on national security. Manuscripts need not be limited to a discussion of the military threat; they may treat other aspects—economic, political, ideological, scientific or diplomatic. The deadline for entries is April 2, 1962. The winning work will be published by the Ohio State University Press, with royalties to the author. Manuscripts submitted must be original typescripts and should be mailed to the Mershon Committee, Ohio State University Press, 164 West Nineteenth Ave., Columbus 10, Ohio. The Committee reserves the right to withhold the award if no work of satisfactory quality is submitted.

Work has begun on the initial stages of the new Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences under the editorial direction of Bert F. Hoselitz. In order to encompass the many advances and most recent developments within the social sciences since the publication of the widely-consulted old Encyclopedia, this project envisages the production of a completely new work rather than a revision of the original. Present plans call for an edition of 12 to 15 volumes with a total of 6 to 7 million words. Simultaneous publication is scheduled for 1965.

The contents of the Encyclopedia will be distributed fairly evenly among the various social sciences—anthropology, economics, political science, psychology, and sociology. It will also draw upon material pertinent to the social sciences in related fields such as social and economic history, education, human geography, business administration, law, linguistics, medicine and psychiatry. The primary purpose of the Encyclopedia is to present authoritative and succinct accounts of the major theoretical, empirical, and methodological concepts of the social sciences and their applications. Substantive data will be included where