

THE AFRICAN ARK

by R J Prickett

Illustrated by Frank W Lane

Deep within Kenya's Aberdare Forest, The Ark, a new concept in game-viewing lodges, is playing a vital role in enabling man to study wild animals in their own surroundings. The Ark has given thousands of visitors the opportunity to see many rare animals, and its great personality, its hunter, Dick Prickett, here describes its background and the animals, birds and trees found nearby. Frank Lane has achieved a world 'first' with his sequence of pictures of the bongo, and his other photographs let us see for ourselves the animals we have come to know through the text. Includes four pages of colour illustrations. £3.25

“Believe last years Welcome Tour to Galapagos was such a success that it was a definite inclusion this year.”
 “That’s why I’m here. Can’t think of a more enjoyable way to start a holiday either than to spend a few days in South America, then the rest of the holiday relaxing and cruising around the islands. Some of the shore excursions should be interesting too. Believe some of these islands are out of this world. Especially the wild life sea lion, iguana, flamingo”
 “What ship are you cruising on? I’m on the Golden Cachalot”
 “I’m taking the Iguana.” “Nice to have a choice isn’t it?””
