William James

His Life and Thought

Gerald E. Myers

William James — one of America's foremost philosophers and psychologists — has been deeply influential in fields as diverse as religion, psychical research, medicine, self-help therapies, animal rights, social and educational reforms, politics, and the arts. This major study is the first comprehensive interpretive and critical analysis of James's life and thought. Illus. £30.00

Autonomy

An Essay in Philosophical Psychology and Ethics

Lawrence Haworth

In a detailed exploration of autonomy as both a psychological and a normative idea, Lawrence Haworth argues that the foundation of autonomy is competence and that in various senses autonomy is a more fundamental value than liberty, pleasure, or preference satisfaction. January £18.95

Self-Knowledge in Plato's "Phaedrus"

Charles L. Griswold, Jr.

In the first comprehensive study of the Phaedrus published in this century, Griswold focuses on the theme of "self-knowledge". Relying on the principle that form and content are equally important to the dialogue's meaning, Griswold shows how the concept of self-knowledge unifies the profusion of issues set forth by Plato. £28.50

Parmenides: Being, Bounds, and Logic

Scott Austin

In this new interpretation of Parmenides' thought and method, Scott Austin shows that the philosopher's work unified logic and metaphysics in an argument devoted in part to exploring speech and argument themselves — their tools, presuppositions, and basic notions. £18.00

The Necessity of Pragmatism

John Dewey's Conception of Philosophy

R. W. Sleeper

A radical reassessment of Dewey's conception of philosophy and of his reconstruction of pragmatism. R. W. Sleeper investigates the most difficult and most neglected aspects of Dewey's thought — his metaphysics and logic — and shows how they are intimately related through his philosophy of language. £21.50

Redefining Death

Karen Grandstrand Gervais

Philosopher Karen Grandstrand Gervais provides a sensitive and thoughtful exploration of the definition of death and of its public policy implications. £19.00

Plato's "Sophist"

The Drama of Original and Image

Stanley Rosen

"Rosen is a sophisticated and learned philosopher . . . [His] construction is ingenious, and his commentary is often perceptive." —

Julia Annas, Times Literary Supplement

NEW BOOKS IN PHILOSOPHY

Human Character and Morality

Reflections from the History of Ideas

STEPHEN D. HUDSON

Stephen Hudson explores the animating qualities of human character and moral thought, and describes how they, together, place constraints on the adequacy of moral theories.

0 7102 0770 0 160pp £11.95 September

The Virtues of Aristotle

D. S. HUTCHINSON

The elements of Aristotle's doctrine of virtue are scattered throughout his writings, and in this scholarly book the author reconstructs Aristotle's complex and comprehensive doctrine.

0 7102 0858 8 128pp £12.95 September

Objectivity, Empiricism and Truth

R. W. NEWELL

Using the clash between orthodox empiricism and a freshly inspired pragmatism, R. W. Newell points to new directions by showing how the theory of knowledge can be shaped around our action without sacrificing reason's control over our beliefs.

Human, All-Too Human

Including Assorted Opinions and Maxims
and The Wanderer and His Shadow

FRIEDRICH NIETZSCHE

This is the first new translation of both volumes of Nietzsche's Human, All-Too Human to appear since the beginning of the century. The translation is by R.J. Hollingdale, and Erich Heller provides an eloquent and informative introduction. Nearly all the themes of Nietzsche's later work are displayed here with characteristic perceptiveness and honesty – it remains one of the works fundamental for an understanding of his thought.

Metaphysics

Its Structure and Function

STEPHAN KÖRNER

'... the grandeur and range of its treatment certainly deserves the style of "metaphysics" and the care and precision of this treatment means that it not only deserves the title, but also deserves to be read.'

What Are Philosophical Systems?

JULES VUILLEMIN

This book presents a learned and ingenious attempt to understand the origin and nature of philosophical inquiry. The author constructs a hierarchy of ontological claims, beginning with perceptual experience, moving to language and science. He traces subtle and unexpected relations among these and concludes by offering a system for classifying philosophical theories which reveals why they take the form they do and why philosophical dispute is ineradicable.

Scientific Realism and the Plasticity of Mind

PAUL M. CHURCHLAND

'Once in a great while a book appears that makes us want to stand up and cheer. Churchland has written such a book... The most delightful and intriguing sections of the book are those in which Churchland shows how we might expand our perceptual and introspective consciousness, and come to see the physical world and ourselves through the categories provided by science.'

Information for Authors

Prospective authors should send their contributions, typed and double-spaced on quarto or A4 paper, to the Editor, Mr Renford Bambrough, Royal Institute of Philosophy, 14 Gordon Square, London WC1H 0AG. They should retain a second copy for the purpose of checking proofs. Articles submitted should conform to Hart's Rules for Compositors and Readers (Oxford University Press, 1967). The Editor may alter manuscripts wherever necessary to make them conform to the stylistic and bibliographical conventions of the journal. Single quotation marks should be used except where there is a quotation within another. The titles of books and journals should be underlined (i.e. to be printed in italics), as should foreign words. Titles of articles should be in single quotation marks.

Notes and references will be printed as footnotes and should be typed (double-spacing) on a separate sheet, numbered consecutively. They should be referred to in the text by superscripts. Citations should be as follows:

¹H. B. Acton, The Philosophy of Punishment (London: Macmillan, 1969), 192–198.

²R. S. Downie and Elizabeth Telfer, 'Autonomy', Philosophy 46, No. 178 (October 1971), 295.

³Op. cit. note 1, 101–112.

⁴W. C. Wimsatt, 'Some Problems with the Concept of Feedback', Boston Studies in the Philosophy of Science, VIII, R. C. Buck and R. S. Cohen (eds.) (Dordrecht: D. Reidel, 1971), 242.

The return of contributions cannot be guaranteed unless they are accompanied by stamps, or in the case of contributions from abroad, by international coupons, to cover postage. A self-addressed envelope should also be enclosed.

Only corrections of printer's errors can be allowed in proofs. Authors are therefore asked to send any alterations or additions to Mr Bambrough as soon as possible after receiving his letter of acceptance.

Authors of articles, discussion papers and review articles will receive twenty-five offprints free of charge. Additional offprints can be ordered when proofs are returned by arrangement with the Institute.

Books for review should be sent to the Editor at the Institute and not to Cambridge University Press. Publishers are asked to note that non-philosophical works are not reviewed in Philosophy.

Authors' corrected proofs should be sent to Mr Bambrough at St John's College, Cambridge. All other correspondence should be addressed to the Institute and not to any address in Cambridge.
