

STUDIES IN AUSTRALIAN ENGLISH

a volume of papers

edited by D. Bradley, R.D. Sussex and G.K. Scott

This volume of 200 pages contains nine articles on various aspects of Australian English as well as reviews of two important recent books.

Three of the papers investigate phonological and morphological variation in the speech of adolescents in Sydney and Brisbane. Three are on lexicography, two illustrating the regional characteristics of Australian vocabulary, one contrasting Australian and Canadian norms. There is also a paper on attitudes to accented speech, a paper on Aboriginal English, and a description of a new database of spoken Australian English.

Reviewed are the new Australian National Dictionary and a collection of papers on Australian English which appeared earlier this year.

Members of the Australian Linguistic Society and subscribers to the Australian Journal of Linguistics have already received this volume, which is identical to AJL Volume 9 Number 1. Nonmembers may purchase it for $20 including postage from Dr G.K. Scott, Department of Linguistics, La Trobe University, Bundoora VIC 3083, Australia; cheques should be payable to Australian Journal of Linguistics.

AUSTRALIAN JOURNAL OF LINGUISTICS

edited by David Bradley and Roland D. Sussex

AJL is the journal of the Australian Linguistic Society, which from volume 7 (1987) to volume 10 (1990) is distributed by Cambridge University Press outside Australia. The focus is on theoretical and data-based linguistic issues relevant to languages spoken in Australia and its region, including Australian English, Australian Aboriginal languages and community languages in Australia.

It appears annually in two issues, which include reviews of current books and an annual bibliography of publications on Aboriginal languages.

For subscription enquiries outside Australia, please consult your local Cambridge University Press representative; within Australia contact Dr G.K. Scott, Department of Linguistics, La Trobe University, Bundoora VIC 3083, Australia. Complete back runs of the journal from volume 1 are also available.

Language Variation and Change

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Language Variation and Change publishes original research reports that are based on data of language production, either oral or written, from contemporary or historical sources. Articles with substantive content are preferred over those that are solely argumentative; those that synthesize or reanalyze a number of research findings on substantive issues will also be considered. Conforming to scientific methodology, the reported findings should be fully replicable from the information provided.

Contributions may be submitted from all countries. The usual language of publication is English, although articles in French are also welcome. All submissions should be sent, in triplicate, to:

David Sankoff

Language Variation and Change

Centre de recherches mathématiques

Université de Montréal

C.P. 6128, Succursale "A"

Montréal H3C 3J7, Canada

Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not been previously published or is not being considered for publication elsewhere. If an author is publishing a related article, this fact should be stated.

Copyright. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the U.S.A.

Manuscript Preparation and Style

Manuscripts should be clearly typed on 8½" × 11" or A4 white bond paper. The inclusion of microcomputer diskettes containing text, artwork, and appropriate software, along with the hard copy, may facilitate editing. The entire manuscript – including abstract, references, and tables – must be double-spaced and numbered consecutively. The Editor may find it necessary to return manuscripts for reworking or retyping that do not conform to the journal's requirements. The article should be arranged as follows:

Title Page (page 1). To facilitate blind reviews, all indication of authorship must be limited to this page. Other pages must only show the short title plus page number in the upper right corner. The title page includes (a) full title, (b) names and affiliations of all authors, (c) mailing address and phone number of the lead author, (d) address to which offprints should be sent (if not the lead author), (e) short title of less than 50 characters.

Abstract (page 2). Include the full title and the abstract. Abstracts should not exceed 150 words.

Acknowledgments (page 2). Place below the abstract. Use this section to indicate any grant support, substantial assistance in the preparation of the article, or any other author notes.

Text (page 3). Use a 5-character paragraph indent. Do not hyphenate words or justify the right margin. Under-score material that is to be italicized in print. Glosses should be placed within single quotation marks.

References are to be made in the text (not in the endnotes) by giving in parentheses the name of the author, year of publication, and where relevant, the page(s) referred to: (Vincent, 1982:90–91). If the author's name is part of the text, the following form should be used: "Vincent (1982) listed several. . . ." For multi-authored works, only the first citation should list all authors: (Weinreich, Labov, & Herzog, 1968). In subsequent citations, only the first name should be given, followed by "et al.": (Weinreich et al., 1968). Separate works referred to in the same parentheses should be listed in alphabetical order; those by the same author should be separated by commas, and those by different authors by semi-colons: (López Morales, 1981; Vincent, 1981, 1982). Initials should be used (before the author's name) only when it is necessary to distinguish between two or more authors with the same surname referred to in the same article.

All works referred to in the text must be listed in the reference section, double-spaced and in alphabetical order.

Examples of references (note the use of punctuation marks within references):

Cedergren, Henrietta J. (1973). Interplay of social and linguistic factors in Panama. Ph.D. dissertation, Cornell University.

López Morales, Humberto. (1981). Velarization of /n/ in Puerto Rican Spanish. In D. Sankoff & H. J. Cedergren (eds.), Variation omnibus. Edmonton: Linguistic Research, Inc. 105–113.

Tagliamonte, Sali, & Poplack, Shana. (1980). How Black English Past got to the present: Evidence from Samaná. Language in Society 17:513–533.

Vincent, Diane. (1982). Pressions et impressions sur les sacres au Québec. Montréal: Office de la langue française.

Tables. Tables must appear as a unit following the reference section. Each table should be typed, double-spaced, on a separate sheet, numbered consecutively with an Arabic numeral and a short title. All tables must be cited in the text.

Figures. Figures must appear as a unit following the tables. Figures must be ready for photographic reproduction: for photographs, an 8" × 11" glossy; or for diagrams, professionally-rendered or computer-generated. All labels and details must be clearly printed and large enough to remain legible at a 50% reduction. Each figure must be numbered consecutively with an Arabic number. Descriptive legends must be typed together, double-spaced, on a separate sheet preceding the artwork. Artwork should be identified by number and title on the back and be carefully packaged in a protective envelope. All figures must be cited in the text.

Proofs

First proofs will be sent to the lead author who will be expected to correct and return them to the Editor, by air-mail where appropriate, within three days of receipt.

Offprints

25 offprints of the article will be provided free of charge to the lead author. Additional offprints may be purchased if ordered at the proof stage.

Language Variation and Change

Volume 1 Number 3 1989

CONTENTS

ANTHONY S. KROCH

Reflexes of grammar in patterns of language change 199

PENELOPE ECKERT

The whole woman: Sex and gender differences in variation 245

DOROTHY A. RISSEL

Sex, attitudes, and the assibilation of /r/ among young people in San Luis Potosí, Mexico 269

GUY BAILEY, NATALIE MAYNOR, AND PATRICIA CUKOR-AVILA

Variation in subject-verb concord in Early Modern English 285

Contents for Volume 1 (1989) 301

ISSN 0954-3945

©1990 Cambridge University Press

Printed in the United States of America

Instructions for Contributors on inside back cover