MODERN JUDAISM

has become one of the truly distinguished scholarly periodicals exploring modern Jewish history and culture. Articles examine a wide range of topics relative to the Jewish experience since the Haskalah—from the Zionist movement and the establishment of the State of Israel to the rise of modern anti-Semitism and its devastating climax in the Holocaust. The journal covers all areas of modern Jewish thought, history, and literature.

Published three times a year in February, May, and October.

New Religions and the Theological Imagination in American Culture

By Mary Farrell Bednarowski

"Bednarowski's clear, careful, open-minded study helps to explain why the central affirmations of the six traditions she covers have attracted contemporary Americans." —Choice

Divine Disenchantment

Deconverting from New Religions

By Janet Liebman Jacobs

"... the claims are consistent and should be heard. Jacob interprets well." —The Christian Century

What happens to followers when their godlike leaders fail? Using case studies of former converts to new religions, Janet Liebman Jacobs examines the process of deconversion in this in-depth study of spiritual disillusionment.

Women in Utopia

The Ideology of Gender in the American Owenite Communities

By Carol A. Kolmerten

As did many other utopian societies, the American Owenite communities guaranteed all members equality of rights and duties. Those promises, however, were never realized. Carol Kolmerten looks at the confluence of ideology and event that blended into cultural practices that relegated women to powerlessness and domesticity.

Howard University
School of Divinity

THE JOURNAL OF RELIGIOUS THOUGHT, published semiannually by Howard University School of Divinity through Howard University Press, provides an exciting forum for the exchange of scholarly opinion on the religious experience of Afro-American, Caribbean, and African peoples. It highlights the black church, its ministry, its historical moorings, and its continuing significance. Scholars and religious leaders both here and abroad present their views. In addition to its Book Review section, the Journal includes Pastor's Corner, which features pastoral resources for enhancing ministry in institutional and community settings.

Past issues have been devoted to single topics, such as women in religion, religion in Africa, the international Afro-Anglican conference in Barbados, and other pertinent and timely subjects.

Where the Spirits Ride the Wind

Trance Journeys and Other Ecstatic Experiences

By Felicitas D. Goodman
Drawings by Gerhard Binder

"And suddenly the understanding of my own vision washed over me like a mighty wave. . . . For life or for death, I was committed to that mighty realm of which I was shown a brief reminder, the world where all was forever motion and emergence, that realm where the spirits ride the wind."—from the Prologue

Goodman reexamines our notions of the nature of reality by studying the ritual postures of native art assumed by her subjects during trance states. For readers desiring to discover this world of ancient myths, she has included a practical guide on how to achieve such ecstatic experiences. cloth $35.00 • paper $12.95

A Reappraisal

By Conrad Cherry with a new Introduction by the Author and a Foreword by Stephen J. Stein

" . . . the Edwards of Cherry sits for a[n] . . . intellectual portrait, done with concepts as colors and with reason as the brush. It is a . . . picture . . . faithfully and competently drawn."—New York Times Book Review, 1967 cloth $27.50 • paper $12.50

Minor Prophecy

Walt Whitman's New American Religion

By David Kuebrich

"Without discounting the poetic force and genius of Whitman's poetry, Kuebrich has developed the case for reconceiving of him as a religious prophet and rereading his poetry as the outline for a new kind of culture in America."

—Giles Gunn
