Petulant and Contrary: Approaches by the Permanent Five Members of the UN Security Council to the Concept of 'threat to the peace' under Article 39 of the UN Charter

Tamsin Philippa Paige, Deakin University

Aside from self-defence, a UN Security Council authorisation under Chapter VII is the only exception to the prohibition on the use of force. Authorisation of the use of force requires the Security Council to first determine whether that situation constitutes a 'threat to the peace' under Article 39.

MAX PLANCK ENCYCLOPEDIA OF INTERNATIONAL PROCEDURAL LAW
The home of international law in practice

GENERAL EDITOR

Professor Hélène Ruiz Fabri, Director of the Max Planck Institute Luxembourg for International, European, and Regulatory Procedural Law

The Max Planck Encyclopedia of International Procedural Law maps and analyzes the systems and processes through which international law is made, interpreted, and adjudicated in practice. It takes a broad view of international procedure, examining it from three different angles: technical points of procedure within specific institutions or across similar organizations; comparative accounts of families of institutions within specific subject areas or with similar functions; and theoretical, interdisciplinary entries.
