

ROMAN SOCIETY
HUGH LAST AND DONALD ATKINSON FUNDS

Applications for grants are invited for financial assistance towards the undertaking, completion or publication of work that relates to any of the general scholarly purposes of the Roman Society, which are to promote the study of the history, archaeology, literature and art of Italy and the Roman Empire, from the earliest times down to about A.D. 700. In addition, postgraduate students may apply for small grants for visits to conferences and for other research expenses. Grants for the organisation of conferences, colloquia and symposia will be considered only in exceptional circumstances.

Applications, together with two references, should be made before 15 January and sent to the Secretary, Roman Society, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU. It is the responsibility of applicants to arrange for their references to reach the Society by the same date. Application forms may be obtained from the Secretary.

REPRESENTATION AT OVERSEAS CONFERENCES

The Council of the Society invites applications from members to attend a conference of a sister body in another country as an official representative of the Society. The Society is willing to pay up to a maximum of £500 for a single conference, to help cover the conference fee and travel costs. The delegate will be required to submit a report to Council on the state of Roman studies in the country concerned. Preference will be given to a delegate going to a country where the subject may benefit from the Society's representation.

Applications should be sent to the Secretary, at least six months before the conference, for approval by Council.

HELLENIC AND ROMAN SOCIETIES

SLIDES COLLECTION

The Slides Collection contains over 6,600 coloured 35 mm slides covering a wide variety of subjects, including sites on the Greek mainland, the Greek islands, Cyprus, Rome, Italy and the Roman Empire, Etruscan tomb paintings, Greek vases, Roman frescoes and mosaics, the Roman army, and Roman Britain. Slides of artefacts form a large part of the collection and include bronzes, jewellery and vases as well as maps, plans, models and reconstructions. A computerised subject index is available. A Greek Slide Catalogue is available at £7, a Roman Slide Catalogue at £6 or both for £11 (postage £1 extra on each catalogue).

Individual slides, sets and filmstrips with notes may be hired by members. Filmstrips are also available for sale. Further details may be obtained from the Keeper of Slides or from the web-site: <http://www.sas.ac.uk/icls/library/slides.htm>.

WINNINGTON-INGRAM TRAINEE LIBRARIAN POST

The Joint Library of the Hellenic and Roman Societies, run in conjunction with the library of the Institute of Classical Studies, is recognised as a premier international research library in Classics. A fund has been established in memory of Professor R.P. Winnington-Ingram, formerly Director of the Institute and Professor of Greek at King's College London, to raise £250,000 to secure the annual Library Traineeship in perpetuity. This post helps to keep the Library open six days a week, including Saturdays and evenings, thus catering particularly for readers outside London and its university.

The Fund has already attracted donations of over £210,000. If you would like to help the fund reach its final target, please send your contribution to the Librarian, Institute of Classical Studies, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU.

Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU
President: Professor P.E. Easterling

The Society for the Promotion of Hellenic Studies, generally known as the Hellenic Society, was founded in 1879 to advance the study of Greek language, literature, history, art and archaeology in the Ancient, Byzantine and Modern periods. It has done this ever since by various means, chief among them being the annual publication of the Journal of Hellenic Studies and, since the 1950s, its supplement, Archaeological Reports. All members receive both these publications annually. Occasional monographs also appear in the series Supplementary Papers.

The Society also helps to maintain the Joint Library on the third floor of Senate House, in conjunction with the Roman Society and the Institute of Classical Studies. Membership of the Hellenic Society allows the reader to borrow (within the UK) up to four books at a time, either in person or by post. Members may also borrow slides from the Joint Library's extensive collection.

The Society also arranges an annual lecture series in London, holds occasional receptions and other meetings, and helps to arrange other lectures in collaboration with the various local branches of the Classical Association. A programme of all these lectures and other meetings is circulated to UK members in September. The Society holds a list of lecturers on topics in Hellenic Studies, which is supplied to Classical Associations and others to help them plan their own lecture programmes.

The Society aims to help those engaged in Hellenic Studies at all levels, and to this end it makes grants to schools, colleges, universities and individual students.

Membership is open to all, and there is a reduced rate for students. For current subscription rates and all further information please contact: The Secretary, Hellenic Society, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU (telephone +44 (0)171-862-8730, fax +44 (0)171-862-8731, e-mail: hellenic@sas.ac.uk, web site <http://www.sas.ac.uk/icls/hellenic/>).

The Classical Association

The Classical Association has a worldwide membership and is open to all who value the study of the languages, literature, and civilisations of ancient Greece and Rome. It creates opportunities for friendly exchange and co-operation among classicists, encourages scholarship through its journals and other publications, and supports classics in schools and universities. Every year it holds an annual conference, and it sponsors branches all over the country which put on programmes of lectures and other activities.

The Classical Association has about 4,000 members. The annual subscription is £5; life membership is £105. Members receive Proceedings of the Classical Association once a year and a newsletter, CA News, twice a year. They may also subscribe at substantially reduced cost to the Classical Association journals Classical Quarterly, Classical Review, and Greece and Rome.

Applications for membership and subscriptions (cheques payable to 'The Classical Association') should be sent to the Treasurer, Richard Wallace, Department of Classics, Keele University, Newcastle under Lyme, Staffs. ST5 5BG. The Treasurer can also give information about journal subscription rates, and about the Association's other publications, including the Greece and Rome supplements New Surveys in the Classics.

MELA: GEOGRAPHY, A.D. 43

Pomponius Mela: De Situ Orbis, A.D. 43, A translation from the Latin by Paul Berry

In 1983 Daniel Boorstin delighted the nation's readers by recounting, in The Discoverers, the ways in which the human family slowly added to its body of knowledge about the world, gradually filling in the blank spots of the map, discontent to stop too soon. Boorstin's approach was diachronic, striding across vast eras briefly. The alternative, and equally delightful, approach is the synchronic one, best exemplified by Paul Berry's translation.

Pomponius Mela put down in a single tome all the significant knowledge possessed by the imperial Romans in regard to their world: the teeming cities rimming the Mediterranean, the exotic customs of India and beyond, the fabulous animals and wonders of Africa, and far-off Thule, shrouded in both mists and rumors.

As the author points out, the work was composed in 43 A.D.; consequently, its pages reveal the way the most significant of Roman generations conceived of the world around them – the generation whose far flung soldiers and governors spoke with Christ, listened to

Paul's preaching, and, all unknowingly, prepared the way of the Lord.

No one reads Pomponius Mela for his rhetorical glory: He uses a plain prose style which is nicely captured by the translator. But there is beauty of a different sort to be found in the book, especially for true bibliophiles.

This is a bilingual edition, with Latin text on the left-hand pages and English translation facing on the right. The Latin text used is a wonderfully clear facsimile of the Vatican Library's copy of the edition printed at Venice in 1493 by Hermolaus Barbarus, in which the individual letters of the typeface emulate the careful and beautiful calligraphy characteristic of the late Renaissance at its best.

To dip into a book such as this one is to catch a rare glimpse into the psyche of those who shaped the foundations upon which our culture rests. Few readers – if any – will regret their decision to turn aside for a time to look, to listen, to take their place in the great chain which has brought us to this equally restless and inquisitive age.

From the Review by Robert J. Edgeworth, Dept. of Classics, Louisiana State University.

This small treasure from Latin literature is now available, for the first time, in an English translation. Readers of the New Testament have long needed Mela's geography as a source-book of conventional wisdom as it was accepted at the time of Christ, a statement of common knowledge as it was perceived at the dawn of Christianity.

For the present-day reader, surprises are encountered on every page: the Romans knew the world was a globe, and that the landmass of Africa could be circumnavigated. Mela's geography presents an essentially correct world gazetteer, running in a continuous arc from Iceland to India.

Contemporary Biblical scholars could learn a great deal from this highly informative book. Mr. Berry is one of the most brilliant Catholic scholars in the U.S.A. today, and we are all in his debt for making available to us for the first time in English a work that will certainly be considered as essential primary source material by all students of the New Testament in the coming decades.

From the Review by Michael Davies, British Historian, Cranmer's Godly Order, 1995.

THE BROTHERS OF ROMULUS

Fraternal Pietas in Roman Law, Literature, and Society

Cynthia J. Bannon

Stories about brothers were central to Romans' public and poetic myth making, to their experience of family life, and to their ideas about intimacy among men. Through the analysis of literary and legal representations of brothers, Cynthia Bannon attempts to re-create the context and contradictions that shaped Roman ideas about brothers. She draws together expressions of brotherly love and rivalry around an idealized notion of fraternity: fraternal pietas—the traditional Roman virtue that combined affection and duty in kinship.

"At the intersection of literary and cultural history, this book makes a valuable contribution to our understanding of the Romans."—Richard Saller

ROMAN SEXUALITIES

Edited by Judith P. Hallett and Marilyn B. Skinner

This collection of essays seeks to establish Roman constructions of sexuality and gender difference as a distinct area of research, complementing work already done on Greece to give a fuller picture of ancient sexuality. By applying feminist critical tools to forms of public discourse, including literature, history, law, medicine, and political oratory, the essays explore the hierarchy of power reflected so strongly in most Roman sexual relations.

"This rewarding collection explores the strange and fascinating world of Roman sexual typologies and gender roles. . . ."—Maud W. Gleason

RELIGION IN ROMAN EGYPT

Assimilation and Resistance

David Frankfurter

This exploration of cultural resilience examines the complex fate of classical Egyptian religion during the centuries from the period when Christianity first made its appearance in Egypt to when it became the region's dominant religion (roughly 100 to 600 C.E.). By revealing late Egyptian religion in its Egyptian historical context, David Frankfurter moves us away from scenarios of Christian triumph and shows us how long and how energetically pagan worship survived.

"I am extremely impressed with Frankfurter's work. Clearly written and well-researched, his book is accessible to a wide audience of scholars and lay people alike."—J.G. Manning

Society for the Promotion of Roman Studies

The Society is the leading organisation in the United Kingdom for those interested in the study of Rome and the Roman Empire. Its scope is wide, covering Roman history, archaeology, literature and art down to about A.D. 700. It has a broadly based membership, drawn from over forty countries and from all ages and walks of life.

The Society supports

- an extensive programme of publication:
  - two annual publications—the Journal of Roman Studies, which contains articles and book reviews dealing with the Roman world in general, and Britannia, which has articles and reviews specifically on Roman Britain
  - two monograph series—the JRS and Britannia monographs (for further details see back page)
- a library of over 90,000 volumes and over 530 current periodicals, maintained jointly with the Hellenic Society and in conjunction with the University of London's Institute of Classical Studies. It has an international reputation as one of the world's foremost Classics lending libraries. It also houses a lending collection of over 6,600 slides
- summer schools, etc. by the annual award of grants
- archaeology, through grants for excavations and by organising a biennial conference
- schools, by the award of grants to help the teaching of all aspects of the Roman world
- a programme of public lectures in London, and others outside London arranged with local branches of the Classical Association

Membership is open to all; no entrance fee or professional qualification is required. Members are entitled to:

- receive annually either the JRS or Britannia or both
- receive advance notice of forthcoming monographs at special offer prices
- use the library and borrow the Society's books and slides, either in person or by post, while living or resident in the UK
- attend the Society's lectures, of which a programme is circulated in September
- purchase back issues of the journals (see inside back cover)
