THEOLOGY BOOKS

CHRIST AND ADAM

Karl Barth

In this short work Karl Barth returns to the exposition of the Epistle to the Romans and discusses Paul's so-called parallel between Christ and Adam in Chapter Five. He finds in it a scriptural basis for the Christian doctrine of man and unravels for us the complicated relationships between fallen human nature, as represented in Adam the sinner bound for death, and the new humanity which is God's gift in Jesus Christ who brings righteousness and the promise of life to sinful, dying men. Scottish Journal of Theology Occasional Paper No. 5.

MANY THINGS IN PARABLES

Ronald S. Wallace

This book, which contains twenty-four expositions of thirty of the main parables of Our Lord is a work of straightforward Biblical exposition relevant to the modern situation. While it should readily find a place on the preacher's bookshelves, it is also a book for the layman.

15s.

KINGDOM AND CHURCH

T. F. Torrance

A careful examination of the teaching of the Reformation in the works of three of its greatest theologians, Martin Luther, John Calvin and Martin Bucer. The three main tendencies of the Reformation are presented here in a fresh light.

16s.

CHRISTIAN FAITH AND THE SCIENTIFIC ATTITUDE

W. A. Whitehouse

Mr Whitehouse, a Cambridge mathematician, and an Oxford theologian, sets forth, with great lucidity and candour, the main contentions of the scientist and of Christian faith. The discussion is carried out in a style that is remarkably clear and easy to follow and makes an equal appeal to the scholar and the general reader.

CALVIN'S DOCTRINE OF THE WORD AND SACRAMENT

Ronald S. Wallace

'This is an altogether admirable book, clear, concise, and balanced. Mr Wallace has really got inside the thought of Calvin, and the result is that there is life and unity in the book, so that for all its detail the book reads flowingly, and you are drawn on from chapter to chapter.'—B.B.C. Book Review Programme.
