A new approach in management of behavioral disorders in children subjected to domestic violence.

Introduction :

It was a dream for me ,to start with all these children with behavioral disorders, specially after i discovered that the parents are also in trouble, need help ,guidance & reassurance.. We went through 10 workshops for children, 6 sessions of support group therapy for mothers.

The results & support & change in peoples lives in this year was overwhelming. we all changed through these workshops.

Objectives:

- Exploring the effects of domestic violence on kids, affecting their behavior.
- Knowing if the personality profile of parents has an effect.
- Exploring results after educating parents on violence & its effects on their children.
- Attending sessions of supportive group therapy & it's effects on performance of mothers.

Aims:

- Improving the behavioral disorders in children.
- Exploring the personality traits of parents.
- Establishing a fixed model to be applied .

Methods:

Mini Kid questionnaire , MMPI,.

Art therapy , Play therapy.

Results:

Marked improvement in the behavioral pattern of the children included , revealing the pesonality profile of parents ,

Conclusions:

Extra care should be given to parental education to newly married couples, educating parents at different stages during childbearing period.

Educating children at school for their needs & how to know themselves & accomplish their dreams.

Every behavioral change is possible with the least tools, it just needs will & guidance
