

Methodology Journal

POLITICAL METHODOLOGY, a new journal, will concentrate on the entire range of interests and problems centering upon how political inquiry can be conducted. Articles of any persuasion are welcome on such topics as comparative political analysis, experimental design, elite interviewing, formal modeling, measurements, participant observation, philosophy of science, research design, statistical methods and data analysis, survey research, and theory building and concept formation. Articles are particularly welcome which fall into three categories: First, those articles that develop and demonstrate new ideas or approaches; second, those articles that provide critical evaluation of the usefulness (with data) of current practices and techniques; and third, articles that develop and demonstrate pedagogic strategies for teaching methodology to both graduate and undergraduate students.

The Editors of the new Journal are George E. Marcus, Department of Political Science, Williams College, Williamstown, Massachusetts 01262, and John L. Sullivan, Department of Political Science, Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana 47401. Members of the Editorial Board are: Hubert M. Blalock, University of Washington; Donald T. Campbell, Northwestern University; David Easton, University of Chicago; Richard Hofferbert, University of Michigan; John Jackson, Harvard University; Martin Landau, University of California, Berkeley; Donald Matthews, The Brookings Institution; Lester Milbrath, SUNY, Buffalo; William Riker, University of Rochester; W. Phillip Shively, University of Minnesota; and Edward Tufte, Princeton University and the National Academy of Sciences.

Annual Subscription to POLITICAL METHODOLOGY is $10.00 for individuals; $6.00 for students, and $18.00 for institutions. Subscriptions should be sent to Geron-x, Publishers, Box 1108, Los Altos, California 94022.

Barody Heads Wilson Center Board

William J. Barody, President of the American Enterprise Institute, has been appointed Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars by President Nixon. He succeeds Senator Hubert Humphrey, who served as Chairman of the Board since the Center's establishment.

The Center, established by Congress as a living memorial to Woodrow Wilson opened in the fall of 1970. It is located at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. Political Scientists serving on the Center's Board include Daniel P. Moynihan, James MacGregor Burns, Henry Kissinger and John P. Roche.

Comparative Legislative Research Series

The Consortium for Comparative Legislative Studies, recently organized by Duke University, the University of Hawaii, and the University of Iowa, announces the establishment of a new publishing program in Comparative Legislative Research, to be brought out by Sage Publications (Beverly Hills and London). The program consists of three series. The Sage Progress Series in Comparative Legislative Research will report the results of collective research activities, including conferences, and other edited, theme-oriented works. One volume (in two separate bound parts) will be published each year. The Sage Series on Legislative Studies will include two book-length studies each year. In addition, a series of eight individual papers annually (ranging in length from 32-96 pages each) will be published in a Comparative Legislative Studies Series—within a larger series ("Sage Research Papers in Political Science") which will be launched in 1973. The general editor for these three series is Malcolm E. Jewell, who will be assisted by an international editorial advisory board.

The purpose of the overall program is to make possible, in a flexible format, the prompt publication and wide distribution of legislative research that has a comparative perspective. The editors are interested in receiving manuscripts that report cross-national research on legislative systems, institutions, behavior, and outputs. They are also interested in single-nation legislative research, particularly on foreign countries, that tests and develops hypotheses which are significant for comparative research.

The editors welcome contributions from scholars in the United States and other countries. Each manuscript that is submitted will be evaluated by members of the editorial advisory board and/or other well-qualified scholars. Individual papers, as well as book-length manuscripts, should be submitted to: Malcolm E. Jewell, Department of Political Science, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. 40506.

The members of the editorial advisory board are: Jean Blondel, University of Essex; Ralph E. Crow, American University of Beirut; Haans Daalder, University of Leiden; Gary Hoskin, State University of New York at Buffalo; Robert J. Jackson, Carleton University; Subhash C. Kashyap, Institute of Constitutional and Parliamentary Studies, New Delhi; Allan Kornberg, Duke University; W. H. Morris-Jones, Institute of Commonwealth Studies, University of London; Samuel C. Patterson, University of Iowa; Mogens N. Pedersen, University of Aarhus; Richard Sisson, University of California, Los Angeles; Joel Smith, Duke University.

Standing orders may be placed for any or all of the three series. Individuals and institutions who wish to order, or to receive announcements of forthcoming titles should write Sage Publication, 275 South Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. (From the U.K., Europe, Africa and the Middle East write the London office: 44 Hatton Garden, London EC1N 8ER.)

Florida Political Science Association

The first meeting of the Florida Political Science Association will be held in early December in Orlando, Florida. The Ad Hoc Committee to establish the Association is composed of Manning J. Dauer, University of Florida; William W. Young, Florida Technological University and Burton Atkins, Florida State University. For further information on the Association, write to Manning J. Dauer, Department of Political Science, University of Florida, Gainesville, Florida 32601.

Pi Sigma Alpha Chapters

Two more chapters of Pi Sigma Alpha, the national honorary fraternity have recently been installed.

In April, with John D. Millett, President of Pi Sigma Alpha and Chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents presiding, the Zeta Zeta chapter was installed at the University of Dayton. Leadership in organizing this chapter was provided by Gerald E. Kerns of the Political Science Department.

The Zelta Delta Chapter was installed in May at SUNY College at Cortland, New York in May. Eleven students and three faculty members were initiated. William B. Rogers, chairman of the Department of Political Science, who was primarily responsible for organizing the chapter and is the new chapter advisor presided over the ceremony. The installation officer was Dwight Waldo, Albert Schweitzer Professor of Humanities, Syracuse University. The speaker was The Honorable Richard J. Shay, Cortland County Judge.

Franklin College Department of Political Science

Franklin College, Franklin, Indiana, has established a separate Department of Political Science; it was formerly joined with the Department of History. The chairman of the Department is Robert L. Holbert; other members are Marge Gilkey and Yu-long Ling.

Conference Group on German Politics

The Conference Group on German Politics wishes to announce several publications, programs and conferences as follows:

Publications

The Summer 1972 issue of the journal Social Research is devoted to papers presented at the Conference on Weimar, Germany, co-sponsored by the CGGP and the Graduate Faculty of the New School for Social Research in New York, October 1971. The CGGP has also assisted in the compilation of "The Federal Republic of Germany: A Selected Bibliography of English-Language Publications" recently issued by the Library of Congress and prepared by Arnold Price of the Library's Slavic and Central European Division.

Programs

The CGGP is undertaking an expansion of its Internship programs (now being conducted with the Bundestag and the Information Center of West Berlin) and establishment of a "Scholars-in-Residence" program.

Internships

Beginning in 1973, two nine-month and two four-month internships will be available for work-study programs in German governmental offices. Details are being developed with various offices, but potential applicants are invited to state their interests and preferred location for interning, and the CGGP will seek to facilitate arrangements. Interns may be located in German offices dealing with international, federal, state or local affairs. Internships are designed to contribute to the professional development of the intern by familiarizing him with the operations of German governmental offices, and interns are also expected to contribute to the work of the office. Emphasis will be placed upon programs which are oriented to a comparative understanding of politics in Western countries.

Stipends and travel grants will be available. In most cases, substantial fluency in German is a prerequisite to application. In lieu of a formal application, potential candidates are invited to submit statements of their background and interests to "Internship Selection Committee," CGGP, P.O. Box 345, Durham, N.H. 03824. Preference will be given to advanced graduate students and younger faculty.

Scholars-In-Residence

This program will support visits up to one month in German offices by scholars whose professional training and work could benefit by intensive contact with the operations of a German governmental office at international, federal, state or local level. It is not primarily intended for specific research projects which are already underway. Periods of residency should rather stimulate understanding of governmental functions and planning for further study. Specific details will be worked out in each case. The CGGP is organizing a list of offices which will accept scholars-in-residence, but interested scholars are invited to submit statements of their background and interests to "Scholars-in-Residence Program," CGGP, P.O. Box 345, Durham, N.H. 03824. Beginning in 1973, stipends and travel support will be available for three resident scholars. Preference will be given to senior scholars.

Conferences

The CGGP sponsored an international conference on "West German Foreign Policy and Contemporary International Politics in Europe" in Cologne, Germany, June 8-10, 1972. Attended by 150 social scientists from the United States and social scientists and political leaders from Germany and other European countries, the gathering included four formal panels (chaired by E. O. Czempiel, Karl Deutsch, Hans J. Morgenthau, and Philip Windsor) and a number of informal sessions. Professor Werner Kaltefleiter was in charge of local arrangements.

For further information on the program and a forthcoming monograph, contact CGGP Chairman

George K. Romoser, P.O. Box 345, Durham, N.H. or the Foreign Policy Conference Chairman, Wolfram Hanrieder, Department of Political Science, University of California, Santa Barbara.

The CGGP is developing plans for 1972-73 workshops and conferences on the West German election and on comparative study of economic and monetary policies in Western Europe and the United States. Further details will be available from CGGP Chairman George K. Romoser, P.O. Box 345, Durham, N.H. 03824 or from the Secretary-Treasurer, Charles Foster, 200 "C" Street S.E., Washington, D.C. 20003, from whom membership information may also be obtained.

NSF Political Science Program Director

G. Robert Boynton of the University of Iowa has joined the National Science Foundation staff as Program Director for Political Science in the Social Sciences Division. He succeeds Allen M. Shinn who will remain with NSF in the Division of Social Systems and Human Resources in the Research Applications Directorate (RANN).

Hayden Project

Under a project funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Arizona State legislature, Ross R. Rice of the Department of Political Science, Arizona State University, will direct the Carl Hayden Project. The Project will develop material on Senator Carl Hayden's career in the Congress from 1912-1968, the longest in the history of the nation.

Women's Caucus

New Officers for the Women's Caucus for 1972-73 are: President, Marie B. Rosenberg, Institute of Governmental Affairs and School of Business, University of Wisconsin, Eau Claire; Vice President, Suzanne Cavanagh, Department of Political Science, Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C.; Corresponding Secretary, Ruth Ross, Department of Political Science, University of California Santa Barbara; Recording Secretary, Pamela J. Hellert, Department of Political Science, Bowie State College, Maryland; and Treasurer, Jan Feagans, Affirmative Action Program, University of Pittsburgh. For further information on the Women's Caucus write to Dr. Ruth Ross, Department of Political Science, University of California, Santa Barbara, California 93102.

Voting Study

Administrative Obstacles to Voting, a recent study by the League of Women Voters Education Fund, details the need for changes in administrative practices of state and local election officials. Financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation, the publication is based on a survey done during the fall election period, 1971, of registration and polling practices in 251 communities in the U.S. The report contains a discussion of survey findings on the power and perceptions of election officials in the conduct of their offices, tables documenting the extent of administrative obstacles to exercise of the franchise, and recommendations for reforming the administration of registration and voting procedures. Order copies from League of Women Voters Education Fund, 1730 M Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036; publication #206; 60¢ prepaid.

Interfuture Growth

Twenty-four political scientists are now serving as InterFuture Coordinators at their campuses across the United States.

They are among more than sixty faculty members and administrators nominating qualified undergraduates this year for participation in interdisciplinary study groups overseas. Selectees will design independent investigations around such themes as "Internationalism," "Habitat," and "Individual and Society," carrying out field work under experts in Ghana, Ireland, Jamaica, The Netherlands, and The United Kingdom.

InterFuture, founded in Princeton, is headquartered at 535 Fifth Avenue, Suite 3103, New York City 10017. Among its founders are Paul Conner, IF President; Max Lerner of Brandeis University; Wentworth Ofuathey-Kodjoe, Queens College; and Glenn Paige, University of Hawaii. The late Harwood Childs of Princeton University was one of the program's incorporators in 1969. In addition to these political scientists, the program board includes persons drawn from the other social sciences, arts and humanities, science, and business.

Political scientists appointed as campus coordinators are Richard McDowell of BASIS (Boston Area Seminar for International Studies); Richard Giardina, Bowling Green State University; Joel M. Fisher, California State College at Fullerton; Brij B. Khare, California State College at San Bernardino; Richard Kolbe, Cedar Crest College; Ilpyoung J. Kim, University of Connecticut; Donald W. McNemar, Dartmouth College.

Also James S. Magee, Eastern Michigan University; Jonathan F. Galloway, Lake Forest College; Michael P. Riccards, State University College at Buffalo; Harry G. Matthews, Northern Arizona University; Marcia Grant, Oberlin College; Clifford E. Peterson, Ramapo College of New Jersey; Malcolm P. Sharp, Rosary College; Richard S. Hillman, St. John Fisher College; E. A. DeShazo, Southwest Texas State University; Raymond F. Hopkins, Swarthmore College; Nelson M. Robinson, University of Tennessee; Robert Langran, Villanova University; Kenneth A. Rogers, Washington University; Ira L. Telford, Weber State; Ralph C. Chandler, West Florida University; William Small, Jr., William Patterson College of New Jersey; and John Pollack, Livingston College, Rutgers University.

Public Administration

Bulletin

The Public Administration Committee of the Joint University Council for Social and Public Administration, a body which co-ordinates the study and teaching of public administration in British Universities and colleges wishes to announce that its journal, PAC, will henceforth be known as the Public Administration Bulletin. The bi-annual journal is devoted to publishing articles on teaching and research in public Administration. Annual subscriptions are 90p. The Editor is B. C. Smith, Senior Lecturer in Public Administration at the University of Bath. For further information write to the Royal Institute of Publication, Hamilton House, Mabelton Place, London, WC1H, 9BD, England.

Midwest Review of

Public Administration

The Editorial Board of the Midwest Review of Public Administration has announced that beginning in 1973 it will become a quarterly journal. Previously it has been a bi-annual. The new annual subscription rate will be $8.00 a year with a special rate of $4.00 a year for students. Subscriptions and manuscripts should be addressed to the Editor, Jerzy Hauptmann, Midwest Review of Public Administration, Park College, Parkville, Missouri 64152. The Review will also initiate publication of a quarterly newsletter to sponsoring agencies of the Review. For further information write Professor Hauptmann.

Democratic National Committee Publications

A limited supply of two Democratic National Committee publications are available without charge from the Association while the supply lasts. The publications are: Call to Order, the report of the Commission on Rules chaired by Representative James G. O'Hara and The Party Reformed, the final report of the Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection chaired by Senator George McGovern and Representative Donald M. Fraser.

SSRC Social Indicators Research Center

The Social Science Research Council has opened a Center for Coordination of Research on Social Indicators in Washington, D.C. Designed to contribute to the development of a broad range of indicators of social change, in response to demands from both social science and policy communities over the past decade, the Center will seek to stimulate, facilitate, and guide research on social indicators by providing a source of information on current research and encouraging communication among researchers. The Center will be directed by Robert Parke, Jr., and will be located at 1785 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

Toledo Center for International Studies

The University of Toledo has established a Center of International Studies intended to coordinate and supervise international studies and special programs. The Director of the Center is Abid A. Al-Marayati.

The Center will offer majors in the following areas: International Relations under William Gilmore; Asia Studies under George Jan and Latin American Studies under Ernesto Moreno.

In May the Center conducted its first annual conference on international affairs dealing with "The United Nations and the United States" featuring former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg and President Glen Olds of Kent State University as speakers. For further information on the Center, write to Abid A. Marayati, Director, Center of International Studies, University of Toledo, Toledo, Ohio 43606.

Western Political Quarterly Anniversary Issue

The Editors of the WESTERN POLITICAL QUARTERLY wish to announce the preparation of a special twenty-fifth anniversary issue of the QUARTERLY to be published in late 1973 or early 1974 presenting special original articles examining various aspects of western politics.

The editors have established, as general guidelines, that manuscripts should be more analytical than descriptive in nature. And, while the focus is regional, subregions, states, urban areas, or any other data base is equally acceptable. Articles should, however, have theoretical significance beyond the confines of the data base.

All articles submitted will be subjected to the regular editorial review process. However, authors are encouraged to submit article outlines for preliminary review, evaluation and comment. (Encouragement to submit an article after preliminary review will not constitute agreement to publish.)

Deadline for final submission is September 15th, 1973.

All correspondence, manuscripts or manuscript outlines should be addressed to: Charles G. Bell, Department of Political Science, State College, Fullerton, Fullerton, California 92631.

Stanford Organizational Research Program

A multi-disciplinary training program in organizational research has been instituted at Stanford University. Participating units are the Graduate School of Business, the School of Education and the Departments of Political Science, Psychology and Sociology. Participating faculty include:

J. Victor Baldrige, David Bradford, Sanford M. Dornbusch, Brian R. Fry, Francine Gordon, Michael T. Hannan, Thomas W. Harrell, Albert Hastorf, Harold J. Leavitt, James G. March, Anne M. McMahon, John W. Meyer, James R. Miller, William G. Ouchi, Jerry Porwas, W. Richard Scott, David B. Tyack, Eugene J. Webb, and Morris Zelditch, Jr.

The program incorporates both pre-doctoral and post-doctoral trainees. Since the pre-doctoral program provides training for the final two years of doctoral training, only students who are enrolled in a doctoral program at Stanford University are eligible to apply for admission as pre-doctoral trainees. Support from NIMH provides stipends of $2600 and $2800 and tuition for eight pre-doctoral trainees, and funds are available for dissertation support.

Post-doctoral applicants are not restricted to Stanford students and inquiries are welcome. Funds from NIMH provide stipends of $6000 for three post-doctoral trainees. In some cases, these funds may be supplemented from other sources. Only American citizens are eligible for all traineeships.

The training program emphasizes multi-disciplinary research and methodological diversity in training. The aim is to produce researchers equipped to pursue theoretical and applied problems across conventional disciplinary boundaries unhampered by artificial methodological restrictions.

Inquiries should be directed to: W. Richard Scott, Director Training Program on Organizational Research, Department of Sociology, Stanford University, Stanford, California 94305.

New Paicas Secretariate

At the 1972 annual conference of the Asian Studies on the Pacific Coast at Asilomar Conference Grounds, Pacific Grove, June 15-17, University of Redlands' Department of Government has been selected as the new Secretariate of Pacific Area Intercollegiate Council on Asian Studies (PAICAS) for 1972-73.

PAICAS new activities include serving as a regional consortium for Pacific and Western state colleges and universities interested in Asian Studies; the publication of a bi-monthly NEWSLETTER; publication of Study Guide and Course Outlines; Coordination of Asia scholars visiting Western and Pacific states; visits to People's Republic of China during the summer, 1972; and consultation service to assist individual institutions with respect to problems of Asian Studies.

All inquiries should address to Winberg Chai, Executive Vice Chairman, PAICAS, Department of Government, University of Redlands, Redlands, California 92373. Other officers of PAICAS are: Richard Landis, Chairman, Montana State University; Thomas W. Gething, Vice Chairman, University of Hawaii; Liang-yen Chow, Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies; Jang H. Koo, University of Alaska; P. J. Mistry, California State, Fresno; Leonard C. Pronko, Pomona College; Henry G. Schwarz, Western Washington State; Otis H. Shao, University of the Pacific; Martin H. Sours, Thunderbird Graduate School; and Charles C. Yahr, San Diego State University, members of Board of Directors.

Columbia Teachers College Project

A project at Teachers College, Columbia University is seeking assistance in identifying mechanisms that have successfully involved urban communities with administrative decision-making in local schools. Those mechanisms which have gone beyond superficial or public relations involvement to more authentic, shared decision-making are of special interest. Therefore, the project would like information about (1) empirical evaluations of school/community linkage mechanisms; (2) mechanisms which, although regarded as successful, may not have been evaluated.

The project which is supported by a grant from the U.S. Office of Education will result in a conceptual framework for school/community involvement and an operations manual for use by urban administrators in planning, facilitating, implementing, and evaluating mechanisms of community involvement. Please send information to Dale Mann, Assistant Professor, Teachers College, Columbia University, New York, New York 10027.
