CAMBRIDGE

English Language and Linguistics

Editors BAS AARTS, University College London

DAVID DENISON, University of Manchester

RICHARD HOGG, University of Manchester

English Language and Linguistics, published twice a year, is a new international journal which focuses on the description of the English language within the framework of contemporary linguistics. The journal is concerned equally with the synchronic and the diachronic aspects of English language studies and will publish articles of the highest quality which make a substantial contribution to our understanding of the structure and development of the English language and which are informed by a knowledge and appreciation of linguistic theory. English Language and Linguistics will carry articles and short discussion papers or squibs on all core aspects of English, from its beginnings to the present day, including syntax, morphology, phonology, semantics, pragmatics, corpus linguistics and lexis. There will also be a major review section including, from time to time, articles that give an overview of current research in particular specialist areas. Occasional issues will be devoted to a special topic, when a guest editor will be invited to commission articles from leading specialists in the field.
