
Doctoral Dissertations
on Russia, the Soviet Union, and Eastern Europe Accepted by American,
Canadian, and British Universities, 1975–1976

BY JESSE J. DOSSICK

This year's compilation would seem to indicate that while there may not be a decline in doctoral research on Russia and the Soviet Union, there does not seem to be a continuous upward growth. As was stated last year a plateau may have been reached, and whether this situation is a temporary one, or a long-time trend will be revealed only over the next few years. Of the two hundred and eighty-one titles in the current list, nine are from earlier years previously undetected, three from 1972, eleven from 1973, twenty-one from 1974, one hundred and fifty-one from 1975, and eighty-six from 1976. Despite the fact that the list is slightly larger than last year's, the compiler is encountering increasing difficulties in obtaining doctoral lists from a small but growing number of universities which are not assembling master lists, as part of an overall program to effect economies. Because degrees are also granted by most universities past the usual spring commencement, with some as late as December, and because of the very late appearance of American Doctoral Dissertations (by as much as two years), and a publication deadline, complete coverage for the 1976 calendar year is not possible at this time. Eighty-one universities are represented (seventy-one in the United States, nine in Canada, and one in Australia).

The listing for Eastern Europe contains a hundred and twenty-one dissertations from forty-eight American and four Canadian universities. The separate British list contains forty-three titles representing the output of nine universities.

Seven supplementary items, "auxiliary theses," have been appended to the section on the United States and the USSR.

For a list of dissertations accepted through 1959 see the author's Doctoral Research on Russia and the Soviet Union (New York, 1960). An accompanying volume 2, Doctoral Research on Russia and the Soviet Union, 1960–1975 (New York: Garland Publishing Inc., 1976), has just been published. Volume 2 contains not only the more than three thousand titles which have appeared in the listings published annually in the December issue of Slavic Review since 1964 (the 1964 listing also included dissertations accepted in 1960–63), but also items not previously listed in volume 1. In addition, volume 2 offers some critical and statistical analysis, over thirty major classifications, numerous sub- and sub-subclassifications, cross references, an index of Russian and Soviet names, and an index of authors.
