AMERICAN JOURNAL OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

The views expressed in the articles, editorial comments, book reviews, and all other contributions to the AJIL are those of the individual authors and are not to be taken as representing the views of the Board of Editors or the American Society of International Law.

SUBMISSION OF MANUSCRIPTS

The American Journal of International Law (AJIL) invites submission of manuscripts on international law subjects. Its primary focus is on questions of public international law, including closely related issues of domestic law. It generally does not publish manuscripts focused on private or commercial law or on comparative or foreign law, including the internal law of the European Union.

The AJIL will not consider submissions whose content has been, or will be, published before it appears in this journal.

The AJIL does not require exclusive submissions. Priority consideration will, however, be accorded where the author states that the submission is exclusive for a specified period of at least six weeks and commits to accept an offer of publication within the specified time period. Authors should bear in mind that, as a professionally juried journal, the AJIL is rarely if ever able to make offers of publication in response to requests for expedited review within the time limits typically fixed by other journals that have made offers of publication.

Submissions should be in electronic form and should be transmitted as attachments to e-mail messages addressed to ajil@asil.org. Alternatively, a CD-ROM may be mailed to AJIL, American Society of International Law, 2223 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20008-2864, USA.

The AJIL currently uses Word 2007, but can convert manuscripts created in other word processing programs. Please specify the program used.

Format and style guidelines: All manuscripts should be double-spaced in 12-point Times New Roman type; these formatting requirements cover all text, quotations, and footnotes.

- The maximum length for lead articles is 100 letter-sized pages, formatted as indicated.
- The maximum length for "Current Developments" and "Notes and Comments" submissions is 30 letter-sized pages, formatted as indicated.

The AJIL generally conforms to the footnote style of The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (19th ed. 2010) and the Chicago Manual of Style (16th ed. 2010). For further information on AJIL style and formatting guidelines, see the AJIL Style Guide, available online at www.asil.org/ajil\_style\_guide.pdf.

Book reviews are by invitation; however, you may suggest books for review to the AJIL Book Review Office, 2223 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20008-2864, USA. Books for review should be sent to the same address.

Yearbook of International Organizations

Edited by the Union of International Associations

The Yearbook of International Organizations provides the most comprehensive coverage of non-profit international organizations to date. The printed edition, published annually since 1948 and now in six volumes, and the online edition, published since 2000, consists of approximately 64,000 transnational civil society organizations in 300 countries and territories, and includes approximately 1,200 new entries each year.

Research Advantages

Dynamic in structure and extensive in scope, the Yearbook serves a variety of research needs.

Use the yearbook to:

- Find scientific and neutral information on single organizations, and the relationships between them
- Discover the activities of international organizations throughout the world
- Locate organizations by geographic area, field of activity, or by their publications
- Obtain a global view of past and future trends in particular fields of activity
- Learn about the key people involved in particular fields of international civil society

Online

The Yearbook of International Organizations Online provides a comprehensive database of intergovernmental (IGOs) and international non-governmental organizations (INGOs) worldwide. Free from print restrictions, the Yearbook Online covers international organizations – federations, scholarly societies, associations and transnational actors of all types – in all corners of the world, over centuries of history, and is updated on a regular basis by a dedicated editorial team. The new, flexible interface presents fully searchable content, and provides extensive hyperlinks between organization profiles and websites.

Features and Benefits

- Access to the whole organization database of the Union of International Associations
- Direct access to organizations' websites and contact information
- Graphic presentation of the network of international organizations
- Descriptions include the history, structure, staff, languages, members, etc. of organizations
- Covers organizations' aims, activities, events and publications
- Provides biographies of key officers of a large portion of the organizations
- Offers statistical information and analyses, geographical and subject indexes
- Updated every 6-8 weeks on a regular basis
- New, user-friendly interface with flexible search and display options, with several new features and improvements each year

- The International Year Book and Statesmen's Who's Who, 59

The International Year Book and Statesmen's Who's Who is an invaluable reference source for anyone interested in international affairs or international business. Established as an authoritative reference source on people, organisations and countries worldwide for over 50 years – and used by governments, MPs, embassies, and IGOs – The International Year Book and Statesmen's Who's Who is the only directory that includes international organisations, states of the world, and biographies in one volume. The International Year Book and Statesmen's Who's Who is available in print and online. Purchasers of the print edition have access to the online version at no extra charge.

International Organisations: covers the main international and national organisations. It features detailed entries on the UN, its specialised and affiliated agencies, the EU and major inter-governmental organisations. The International Year Book and Statesmen's Who's Who also includes overviews of a further 500 international and national organisations, from political and humanitarian groups, through environment and agriculture to international trade, commerce and law. For this edition, details on law and human rights organisations and groups have been significantly increased.

The States of the World: this section provides information on over 380 countries, provinces, state dependencies and territories – their cabinet members, political and economic structure and news, demographics, industries, transport, media, health, education and legal systems, environment, religions and public holidays. Also included are individual entries for each of the US states, Canadian provinces, Indian states, Australian states and territories, South African provinces, and German federal states. The States of the World section features contact details for government ministries, embassies, courts, central banks, utilities, and transport and media organisations, and offers approximately 11,000 useful internet addresses. State flags are included in full colour.

Biographies: features over 3,200 biographies, including politicians from every country of the world, diplomats, heads of international organisations and many more. Biographies for all US governors, congressional representatives and senators are also included. For ease of use, people included in the International Organisations and States of the World sections are cross-referenced to the biographies section. This section will tell you who's who, how to contact them (including nearly 2,500 internet and e-mail addresses), where they were educated, who they have worked for, which organisations they belong to, what awards they have won, and both professional and personal interests. The preliminary section includes information on country membership of major organisations and a calendar of forthcoming elections.

Online: The product has a clear interface and comprehensive search facilities. All URLs and emails are hypertext linked and include links to constitutions of many states of the world. Entries also include a colour national flag and are linked to clear state maps. Even more content is available in The International Year Book and Statesmen's Who's Who. This year, the online version will include the prestigious Who's Who in Public International Law, providing unique access to the main players within international law.

Holders of the print edition have access to the online edition until 31 December 2011 using the 16 digit access token on the dust jacket of the book. To activate your online access to IYB go to <http://brillonline.nl/accesstoken> use the token code printed on this dust jacket and fill out the details.

SAY GOODBYE TO international law as we knew it.

To old ideas about environmental regulation, global financial transactions, and the traditional hierarchies of domestic and international courts.

SAY HELLO TO international law as we're getting to know it.

One which recognizes that there are fewer degrees of separation between issues once treated in isolation. Like foreign investment and human rights. Or labor relations in one country and capital markets on the other side of the globe.

AT THE FOREFRONT OF THIS PRACTICE IS COLUMBIA.

Through joint programs with the U.N., as well as the Columbia Business School and School of International and Public Affairs. On campus, you'll find endowed centers for Chinese, Japanese, and Korean legal studies. Elsewhere, you'll find double-degree programs with law schools in Paris, Frankfurt, and London. And everywhere we are, you'll see pioneering scholarship on everything from climate change law to international terrorism.

All of it developing just as fast as the world is changing. And that's pretty fast indeed.

A law school as diverse as the world in which you'll practice.

As one of the most diverse of the nation's top law schools, the USC Gould School of Law offers a rigorous legal education that prepares future attorneys to work with clients in the real world. Students at USC Law learn theory from nationally renowned faculty while acquiring legal skills in clinical programs, externships and public service organizations. And USC Law's location in the heart of Los Angeles, one of the world's most diverse cities and the nation's second-largest legal market, provides for countless opportunities for students to put theory and skills into practice at law firms, clinics and other organizations.

Diverse ideas. Diverse perspectives. Diverse opportunities. At USC Law, diversity matters.

New York City is not only a global financial capital, it is also the home of the United Nations. What better place to study international law?

The St. John's Center for International and Comparative Law serves as a focal point for preparing students for practice in a globalizing legal profession, using litigation, transactional, and regulatory advisory skills. As a student you can become involved through symposia, research projects, the CICL Student Fellows Program, and two international law journals.

- The NATO Practicum, where students spend a semester working and studying as part of NATO's Allied Command Transformation staff in Belgium.
- Transaction in Emerging Markets, which includes a one week travel-study program in Romania, where students meet with leading policymakers, businesspeople, and attorneys.
- Skills courses such as Drafting International Contracts and International Legal Research, which provide the practical tools for a globalizing profession.

Students can also study abroad at St. John's campuses in Rome and Paris.

And foreign lawyers can prepare to take the New York Bar examination by completing our LL.M. in U.S. Legal Studies.

Study in the heart of Europe in a truly international environment

In addition to various international law courses at undergraduate and postgraduate levels in French, the University of Geneva Law Faculty offers two LL.M. degrees taught in English in cooperation with the Geneva Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies. Students and professionals from around the world come to study in Geneva, the home of numerous international organizations, UN agencies, law firms active in international arbitration and the ICRC.

The LL.M. in International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights is offered by the Geneva Academy of International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights. Students take in-depth courses on all areas of international law relating to armed conflicts including international criminal law and human rights.
Website: www.adh-geneva.ch

The LL.M. in International Dispute Settlement gives students the opportunity to study all aspects of dispute settlement in the international arena, across the public-private divide, with an emphasis on today's most relevant fields such as commercial and investment arbitration, negotiation and WTO dispute settlement.

Accounting for Hunger

The Right to Food in the Era of Globalisation

Edited by Olivier De Schutter and Kaitlin Y Cordes

The challenge of global hunger is now high on the agenda of governments and international policy-makers. This new work contributes to addressing that challenge, by looking at the obstacles which stand in the way of implementing a right to food in the era of globalisation. The book has several functions: to describe the current situation of global hunger, to consider how it relates both to the development of food systems and to the merger of the food and energy markets, and to explain how the right to food contributes to identifying solutions at the domestic and international levels.

Olivier De Schutter is the UN Special Rapporteur on the Right to Food and Professor of Law at the Universite Catholique de Louvain. Kaitlin Y Cordes works for Human Rights Watch.

Promises of States under International Law

Christian Eckart

Textbooks on international law, dicta of the ICJ and the International Law Commission's 'Guiding Principles applicable to unilateral declarations of states' of 2006, all reflect the fact that in international law a state's unilateral declaration can create a legally binding obligation. Such declarations are common, as a look at the weekly headlines of any major newspaper will reveal. The sources, however, also reveal that while state promises are accepted as a means for states to create full blown legal commitments, the law governing such declarations is far from clear. This monograph fills a gap in international legal scholarship by raising and answering the question of the precise legal value of such pledges in the realm of public international law.

The Militarisation of Peacekeeping in the Twenty-First Century

James Sloan

Since the end of the last century, UN peacekeeping has undergone a fundamental and largely unexamined change. Through a close examination of twenty-first century peacekeeping operations - including operations in Sierra Leone, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Liberia, Côte d'Ivoire, Haiti and the Darfur region of the Sudan - this book shows that they are, for the most part, fundamentally ill-suited to the enforcement-type tasks being asked of them. The operations, which are under-funded, under-equipped and under-trained, frequently lurch from crisis to crisis.

The UN Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide

A Commentary

Edited by Christian Tams and Martin Mennecke

The 1948 UN Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide has a special standing in international law and international politics. On the occasion of the 60th anniversary of its adoption the chief prosecutor of the International Criminal Court described the Genocide Convention as a 'visionary and founding text for the Court'. The Convention has, as such, influenced the subsequent development of many different areas of international law. In this work the 19 provisions of the Convention are analysed article-by-article, with abundant references to state practice and case law.

Christian J. Tams is Professor of International Law at the University of Glasgow. Martin Mennecke is international scholar at the Royal Danish Defence College and a member of the Danish delegation to the Assembly of State Parties to the International Criminal Court.

ASU SANDRA DAY O'CONNOR
COLLEGE of LAW
ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY

The Center for Law and Global Affairs at the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University supports and inspires research, education and practice regarding new forms of transnational governance that extend beyond the traditional paradigms of international law. Some selected student opportunities include:

- The Transnational Law Summer Fellowship funds students to spend the summer working abroad with governmental, intergovernmental and/or non-governmental organizations. In 2011, students worked in Latin America, Southeast Asia and the Middle East on human trafficking, environmental law, international trade and human rights.
- The Washington, D.C., Legal Externship Program is a semester-long program open to ASU and non-ASU students linking evening coursework with daytime externships at government agencies and policy programs.
- Student Research Fellows work with ASU faculty on policy-oriented research regarding human trafficking, unmanned drones, private security contractors, human rights indicators, support for the U.N. Subcommittee on the Prevention of Torture, and amicus briefs for cases before the Inter-American Court of Human Rights.
- The International Law Mentoring Program connects students with local attorneys working on global legal issues.
- The L.L.M in Global Studies is designed for U.S. and foreign lawyers interested in the interdisciplinary study of transnational law, linking coursework with individualized research on global health, the environment, human rights, trade and emerging technologies.

INTERNATIONAL LAW: 100 WAYS IT SHAPES OUR LIVES

Many find international law abstract and static. Topics such as war and peace or relationships between countries are considered by some to be not so much questions of law, but of power and influence. Others question the existence of international law.

International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives was conceived from the proposition that international law not only exists, but also penetrates more deeply and broadly into everyday life than is generally recognized. Some ways are of relatively recent vintage, while others are long-standing. 100 examples were identified by ASIL members, vetted by a smaller group of experts, and organized into seven chapters: 1) daily life; 2) leisure; 3) travel; 4) commerce; 5) health and the environment; 6) personal liberty; 7) public safety and global security.

Join us in demonstrating how international law shapes our lives by

- Visiting 100 Ways at www.asil.org/100ways;
- Using it in teaching and general civic education programs;
- Adding ways to the list; and
- Sharing your experiences using International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives.

We hope that this creative and interactive project will help demonstrate the diversity and the centrality of international law to our lives today.

ASIL Tools for Researching International Law

ASIL Guide to Electronic Resources for International Law

The Electronic Resource Guide to International Law (ERG)

Published by the American Society of International Law since 1997, the ERG is designed to be used by researchers, practitioners, students and teachers of international law. Available in both a print and online edition, the ERG allows the user to explore the breadth of a topic or focus on locating information on a narrow issue. Each chapter describes the scope of the topic, offers tips and caveats on online research and resources, and provides live links to the most important and useful primary and secondary materials on the Web. Chapters include:

- Introduction to Researching International Law
- European Union
- International Commercial Arbitration
- International Criminal Law
- International Economic Law
- International Environmental Law
- International Humanitarian Law
- International Human Rights
- International Intellectual Property Law
- International Organizations
- Private International Law
- Public International Law
- Treaties
- United Nations
