Deuxième Semaine d'Études Ethno-Pastorales à Bandundu

LE Centre d'Études Ethnologique de Bandundu (rélié à l'Institut Anthropos) a organisé au mois d'août 1966 une deuxième semaine d'études ethno-pastorales sur le thème: 'La notion de Dieu et les croyances traditionnelles chez nos ethnies.¹ Cette réunion a été préparée par les participants — des Abbés, des Pères, des Sœurs (congolaises et européennes) et des moniteurs — durant dix mois de recherches personnelles sur place parmi les populations suku, yaka, mbala, yansi, boma et teke. A l'ouverture de la semaine d'études, l'organisateur, le Père Hermann Hochegger, S.V.D., donna un aperçu sur l'état actuel de nos connaissances et montra l'insuffisance de la terminologie conventionnelle. Les deux premières journées furent consacrés à l'étude de la notion de Dieu, et les participants exposèrent par la suite leurs recherches concernant le culte des idoles (biteke, bankisi). La dernière journée fut consacrée à l'étude des idées maîtresses de la sorcellerie. A la fin des travaux, Monseigneur François Hoenen, Évêque de Kenge, qui avait suivi personnellement toutes les réunions, remercia les participants du bon travail accompli et insista auprès d'eux que les connaissances acquises soient mises en application dans l'apostolat. Les rapports et le compte rendu de la deuxième Semaine d'Études seront publiés par le Centre d'Études Ethnologique de Bandundu.
