Comparing Muslim Societies

Knowledge and the State in a World Civilization

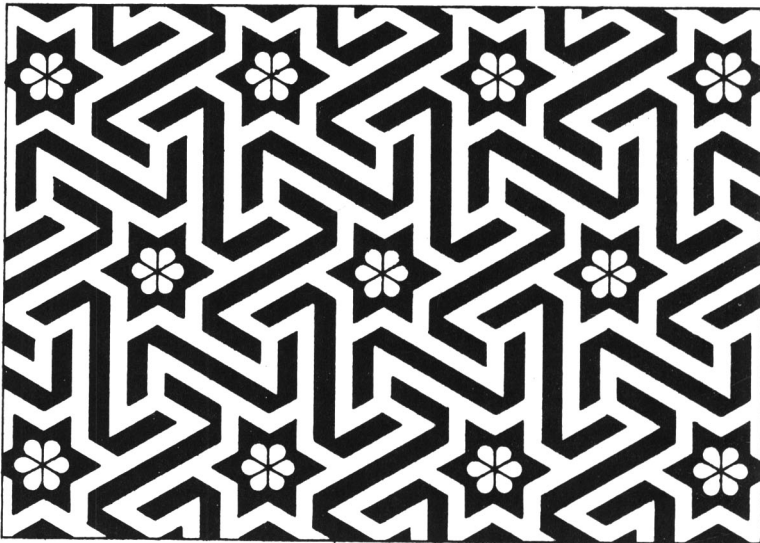

Juan R. I. Cole, Editor

A study of the diversity of Muslim life and culture that challenges conventional Western stereotypes. The contributors to this book—prominent scholars in anthropology, history, sociology, and political science—examine such issues as the ideology and political practices of Iran's ruling Schist clerics, the impact of state politics on the status of women, the controversy over parliamentary government in the Arab world, the role of modern intellectuals, and charisma and leadership in tribal societies.

Contributors are Shahrouh Akhavi, Allan Christelow, Dale F. Eickelman, Ellis Goldberg, Deniz Kandiyoti, Nikki R. Keddie, Charles Lindholm, and Charles D. Smith.

The first volume in the Comparative Studies in Society and History series.
