Independent Slovenia Origins, Movements, Prospects

Edited by Jill Benderly
and Evan Kraft

Independent Slovenia explores the origins of the drive for Slovene independence. The book analyzes the prospects for this new nation in Central Europe and recounts the experiences of the intellectuals, pacifists, punk rockers, feminists, and trade unionists who created the social movements of the Slovene Spring.

Conflict and Chaos in Eastern Europe

Dennis P. Hupchick

In his previous book, Culture and History in Eastern Europe, Dennis Hupchick created a lucid conceptual framework for understanding developments in Eastern Europe. Here he analyzes some of the most important issues which brought the return of Eastern and Central Europe to independence.

KARL LAMPRECHT

A German Academic Life (1856-1915)

Roger Chickering

Awarded the Jacques Barzun Prize in Cultural History by the American Philosophical Society

This is the first biography ever published of the most controversial historian in Imperial Germany, and the richest account to date of the great methodological controversy Lamprecht unleashed. Professor Chickering's analysis, which is based on Lamprecht's personal papers as well as on archival sources, weaves broad intellectual and institutional forces together with influences that took shape during Lamprecht's early life.

"In selecting Lamprecht as the subject for a biography, Chickering has done a great service to the study of German history. He has provided a memorable portrait of a German university life during the Wilhelmine era. Moreover, he has done so with great analytical care and literary grace."

— Choice

"The best work to date that has been written on historical studies and the historical profession in Imperial Germany."

PROTESTANT POLITICS
Jacob Sturm (1489-1553)
and the German Reformation
Thomas A. Brady, Jr.

Protestant Politics is a new treatment of religion and politics in the German Reformation. Setting aside the normative assumption of the European nation-state, Brady explores the collision of the Reformation as a religious and social movement with the dispersed, multi-layered structure of authority and power in the late medieval Holy Roman Empire. The narrative thread that runs through the Reformation's stages and the Empire's levels is provided by the career of Jacob Sturm of Strasbourg, the Empire's leading Protestant urban politician.

COMMUNITIES AND CONFLICT IN EARLY MODERN COLMAR: 1575-1730
Peter G. Wallace

Using serial archival sources, Wallace reconstructs the collective biography of 6700 civic officials, merchants, artisans, and agricultural workers in order to examine the local impact of confession-alization in a religiously mixed town, the effect of warfare on the economic interdependence of town and country, and the tensions between French abso-lutism and traditional civic political culture.

CONFLICTING VISIONS OF REFORM
German Lay Propaganda Pamphlets, 1519-1530
Miriam Usher Chrisman

How are ideas communicated when a new ideology appears? Professor Chrisman examines this question by analyzing 300 propaganda pamphlets written by German laymen and women at the onset of the Protestant Reformation. The traditional assumption is that Luther's message was accepted with little change. Yet the pamphlets reveal that each group in German society heard Luther's message differently. While some followed Luther's doctrines, others followed Zwingli's; still others picked different ideas from various reformers, and some even created their own theology. Many enthusiastically presented their own interpretations of the Gospels to support arguments for social change. Professor Chrisman's book is the first book to present a comprehensive selection that includes 119 lay writers: knights, technicians, lower rural civil servants, urban patricians, learned urban civil servants, and artisans.
