A Patristic Greek Lexicon

Edited by G. W. H. LAMPE

Fascicle 2

βαρβαρεύω—εύσυμπαθήτως

The purpose of this work is to provide a summary history of the use of all theologically important words by the Greek Christian writers of the period from the Apostolic Fathers to A.D. 800. The First Fascicle, already published, consists of the Introduction and the letter α; a reviewer said of this 'if the First Fascicle is to be regarded as typical, the world of patristic learning will be under a permanent debt to Professor Lampe'. 84s. net

Hebrew and Semitic Studies

Presented to GODFREY ROLLES DRIVER in celebration of his seventieth birthday, 20 August 1962

Edited by D. WINTON THOMAS and W. D. MCHARDY

Distinguished American, European, and Israeli scholars have contributed fifteen articles to a volume honouring Professor Driver on his seventieth birthday. Several articles deal with Old Testament text and language, others with the origin of the sub-divisions of Semitic, and with Egyptian, Akkadian, South Arabian, Aramaic, Ugaritic, and Septuagintal subjects. There is a select bibliography of Professor Driver's writings. 75s. net

The Abinnaeus Archive

Papers of a Roman Officer in the Reign of Constantius II

Collected and re-edited by H. I. BELL, V. MARTIN, E. G. TURNER, and D. VAN BERCHEM

These are the papers of a Roman officer commanding a frontier post on the edge of the Libyan desert. They furnish information as to the duties of a frontier garrison and give a vivid picture of military and civil life in the middle of the fourth century. 63s. net

A History of Legal Dress in Europe until the End of the Eighteenth Century

W. N. HARGREAVES-MAWDSLEY

A study, the first of its kind, of legal dress in all European countries except Russia and those submerged under Turkey. As in his companion work on Academical Dress the author discusses the development of the costume of judges, advocates, and other officials concerned with the practice of the Law, providing an illuminating commentary from a new angle on the social life of the past. A History of Academical Dress in Europe until the End of the Eighteenth Century

W. N. HARGREAVES-MAWDSLEY

The first full-length work on the subject, this deals with the dress of all the major universities from the twelfth century to the end of the eighteenth. Among many other matters considered are faculty colours, bands, students' dress, the origin of doctoral scarlet, the influences of fashion and of the French Revolution. Illustrated 45s. net

THE IMPACT OF THE DEAD SEA SCROLLS

A. N. Gilkes

This book attempts to clarify for the lay reader some of the more important issues involved in the Scrolls controversy. It contains considerable quotations from the Scrolls, an account of their discovery and an estimate of their impact on modern scholarship. 'Mr. Gilkes has undertaken this task of popular enlightenment and carried it through well. He lets the conflicting authorities speak for themselves, and while adding the comments of common sense, does not come down too violently on any side. As some 1,000 books and articles have already been devoted to these scrolls, his outline of the subject in 167 pages ranks as a public benefaction.' The Times. 'He writes in a lively and often racy style, and communicates his own enthusiasm for his subject.' Church Times.

8 plates, 1 map, and a plan. 15s.

VILLAGE RECORDS

John West

This book is not only a guide to local history sources, but also a fascinating study, beautifully illustrated, of the development of our society which will be of inestimable value for years to come. 'No study of this subject could be more exhaustive without growing to unmanageable proportions, and in view of this book's modest size and price one can only admire its concise but uncramped presentation.' The Guardian.

Illustrated with 16 plates and 11 line drawings. 30s.
