

SIR CHARLES EASTLAKE AND
THE VICTORIAN ART WORLD
DAVID ROBERTSON

Sir Charles Eastlake (1793-1865) rose to extraordinary prominence in the art world of his time, and his taste and dedication can still be seen in the great national collection he helped to form. Although he became President of the Royal Academy, Secretary of the Fine Arts Commission, and first Director of the National Gallery, this is the first complete biography of Eastlake ever written. 8½ x 11". 204 illus. $50.00

THE GERMAN BILDUNGSROMAN FROM WIELAND TO HESSE
MARTIN SWALES

"This is the first thorough study in English of a major genre of German literature, and it defines with great precision a critical term that is much used in English criticism. In addition to its significance as an introduction for Anglo-American readers, the book also achieves scholarly originality by establishing the importance of irony in the Bildungsroman. . . . Prof. Swales' treatment is critical and thoughtful, subtle and sophisticated."

FENIMORE COOPER
A STUDY OF HIS LIFE
AND IMAGINATION
STEPHEN RAILTON

"Railton begins his inquiries in the oddities, the seeming contradictions, the loose ends of Cooper's narratives, precisely the things that students of Cooper usually find themselves apologizing for or dismissing entirely. His analyses thus not only offer fresh local insights but often shift the whole emphasis of critical interpretation, so that one has repeatedly the delight of re-seeing a familiar figure. And Railton's critical voice is engaging—clear, direct, witty."—Gary H. Lindberg, University of New Hampshire $16.00

GOGOL'S DEAD SOULS
JAMES B. WOODWARD

"This is a distinguished piece of work, a subtle and sophisticated effort to show how the vision, ideas, and psychology of Dead Souls reveal themselves on all levels and in every detail. Prof. Woodward has made a leap forward not so much by interpreting Gogol's work as a moral allegory as by showing how this vision governed Gogol's artistry."

THE TRANSFORMATION OF THE CHINESE LYRICAL TRADITION
Chiang K'uei and Southern Sung
Tz'u Poetry
SHUEN-FU LIN

Chiang K'uei was a major writer of tz'u, the most important poetic genre of the Sung Dynasty. This book explores his work and his career as they exemplified the radical transformation that took place in Chinese life, art, literature, and thought at the turn of the 13th century. By combining biography and textual analysis with an examination of the rich cultural context in which Chiang K'uei wrote, Prof. Lin makes an important advance in Chinese literary scholarship. BEOWULF: A Verse Translation with Treasures from the Ancient North

WHAT of the Spear-Danes in days of yore?
We have heard of the glory of the great folk-leaders,
how those athelings did arduous deeds!

This stirring new translation makes the Old English poem accessible to more readers than ever before, capturing more of both feeling and detail than any previous version.

The translator is Marijane Osborn, a well-published scholar-poet with numerous studies of Beowulf and other Old English poetry to her credit. Her work is introduced by Professor Fred Robinson, Chairman of Medieval Studies at Yale University.

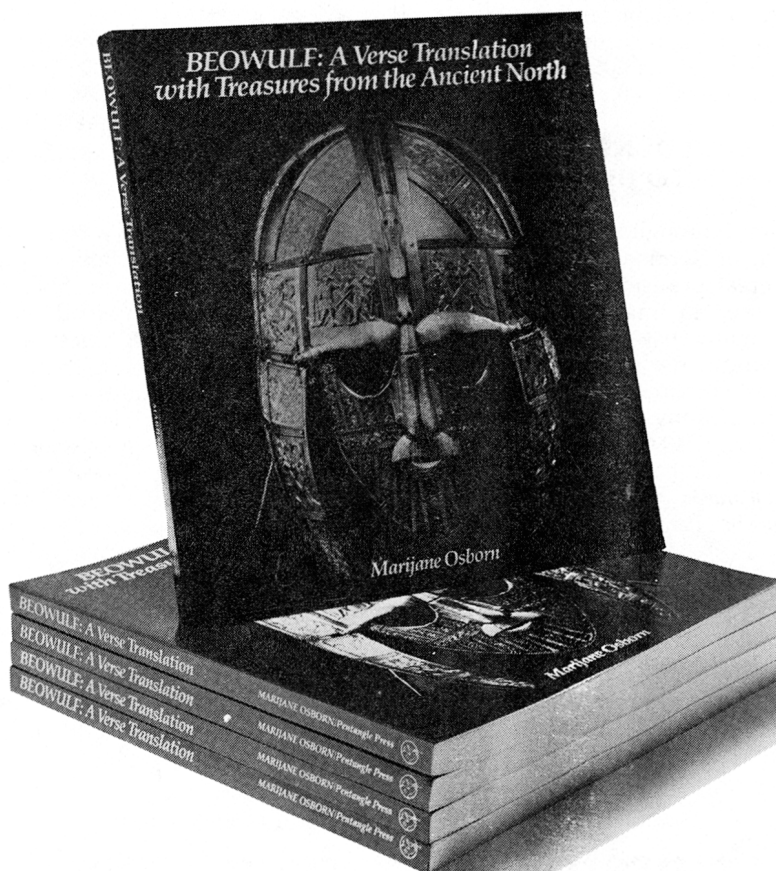

Over ninety pictures of Anglo-Saxon and Scandinavian art and artifacts have been chosen to illustrate

Beowulf, adding a dimension of archaeological credibility to this highly visual and elegant poem.

Designed as an expandable volume, the text may be used for a basic introduction to the poem or for more advanced work. It is supplemented by notes on the translation and A Guide to Study.

As a new work of exceptional clarity, of poetic excellence in its own right, and of flexible use, we recommend this volume for both classroom and leisure reading.

A NEW LOOK AT WORLD LITERATURE FROM CALIFORNIA

Swedish Legends and Folktales

John Lindow

A collection, in English translation, of some one hundred legends, with variants, from Swedish oral tradition of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. The legends deal primarily with the supernatural and are indicative of Swedish folk beliefs in rural areas until fairly recently.

Pleasurable Instruction

Form and Convention in Eighteenth Century
Travel Literature

Charles L. Batten, Jr.

From Addison and Defoe to Smollett, Boswell, and Johnson, the eighteenth century's most significant literary figures tried their hand at writing about their travels. Beginning with a definition of the artistic objectives of eighteenth-century travel literature, Batten shows how this popular genre throws new light on the century's intellectual history.

Hart Crane and Yvor Winters

Their Literary Correspondence

Thomas Parkinson

A major work that reads—in many ways—like a detective story. Parkinson provides pleasant access to a new understanding of this important period in American letters.

"The publication for the first time of these letters is a significant event . . . that we have these letters in so illuminating a context is a marvelous bonus."

A Guide to the Maximus Poems of Charles Olson

George F. Butterick

Charles Olson is the central figure of the Black Mountain poets and a major shaper of postmodern American Poetry. His Maximus Poems, completed shortly before his death in 1970, is his masterpiece. This Guide, in a series of annotations, moving through all three volumes of poems page by page, supplies all the scholarship necessary for a successful reading of the poems.

Change and Decline

Roman Literature in the Early Empire

Gordon Williams

Change and Decline follows the author's Tradition and Originality in Roman Poetry. That book analyzed the nature of the Roman Classical tradition; this one traces the collapse of that tradition, assesses how far that collapse should be viewed in terms of change and how far in terms of decline, and appraises the factors involved.

NEW DICTIONNAIRE
DU FRANCAIS

5½" x 7½" 1.152 pages

This unique dictionary, which corresponds to the first level of French, is aimed not only at teaching vocabulary and basic grammar, but also at mastering the spoken and written language, what the French call "la langue réelle." It is a dictionary of everyday situations and sentences, constructed with a limited vocabulary and simple grammatical structures. It answers the fundamental objective of modern language teaching: to learn the spoken and written language through daily living situations.

UN DICTIONNAIRE VIVANT POUR UN
APPRENTISSAGE DU FRANCAIS VIVANT.

Each entry has two distinct sections:

—Emploi: designed for the beginning student. Current usage of the word is given, which can be studied in conjunction with the humorous illustration appearing in every entry.

—Commentaire: for the advanced student or the teacher: this section enables the student to gain a mastery of the language, and consists of three parts:

Grammaticale (pronunciation, singular and plural usages, adjectives, conjugations, etc.)

Sémantique (synonyms, antonyms, usages, etc.)

Lexical (derivatives corresponding to the word are given in italicized phrases)

L'IMAGE—ELEMENT DYNAMIQUE D'UNE PEDAGOGIE VIVANTE.

An essential teaching aid of languages is the visual aspect. In the DICTIONNAIRE DU FRANCAIS LANGUE ETRANGERE its usage is fundamental. Illustrations are abundant—they succinctly describe situations which automatically suggest various phrases to the student. Just as cartoons play an important role in the media, they are used here to elicit various reactions in the student through repetition.

MLA-COOPERATIVE FOREIGN LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY TESTS FOR TEACHERS AND ADVANCED STUDENTS

Formerly distributed by the Educational Testing Service, these tests of advanced level competence in five languages—French, German, Italian, Russian, and Spanish—are now available to qualified purchasers from the MLA Publications Center. In each language, the tests, designed for advanced students and teachers, provide separate measures of skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing, as well as applied linguistics, civilization and culture, and professional preparation. Request the free booklet "MLA-Cooperative Foreign Language Proficiency Tests" for sales restrictions, descriptions of the tests, prices, and ordering information.

American adventurer.

A master of the art of living, Max Eastman had many careers: defender of the Russian Revolution, leader of the anti-Stalinist left in the 1930s, conservative polemicist in the 1950s, poet, paramour, memoirist. William O'Neill's biography seeks to explain the dynamic behind Eastman's several transformations and to define his place in a turbulent chapter in the history of ideas. "A full and fascinating assessment."
