The Vision of Anglo-America

The US-UK Alliance and the Emerging Cold War, 1939-1946

HENRY BUTTERFIELD RYAN

Dr Ryan's innovative study demonstrates with great clarity the importance of the decline of British power in the creation of the Cold War. He subjects to detailed analysis the concerted attempts made by the British wartime coalition to forge a perpetual merger with the USA in international affairs to arrest this global decline.

America and the Reconstruction of Italy, 1945-1948

JOHN LAMBERTON HARPER

This book explores the American role in Italy during the postwar reconstruction period, concentrating on US aid and economic policies. While the Americans succeeded in guaranteeing their strategic interests, the fate of the Italian political economy was decided largely by the Italians themselves.

The Fisherman's Problem

Ecology and Law in the California Fisheries, 1850-1980

ARTHUR F. McEVOY

A study of the interaction between resource ecology, economic enterprise, and law in the history of the California fishing industry. It develops a new perspective on environmental problems as contemporary observers understood them and tried to deal with them, and concludes with an analysis of significant changes in the politics and theory of resource management taking place in the 1970s and 1980.

Worlds Apart

The Market and the Theater in Anglo-American Thought, 1550-1750

JEAN-CHRISTOPHE AGNEW

This book traces the history of our concepts of the marketplace and the theatre and the ways in which these concepts are bound together. Focusing on Britain and America in the years 1550 to 1750, Professor Agnew discusses the forms and conventions that structured both commerce and theatre.

We Shall Live Again

The 1870 and 1890 Ghost Dance Movements as Demographic Revitalization

RUSSELL THORNTON

The ghost dance movements among North American Indians were, Russell Thornton argues, deliberate efforts to accomplish demographic revitalization. He assesses tribal participation in the movements, and considers American Indian population change after the movements.

Colonial American Portraiture

WAYNE CRAVEN

Wayne Craven examines early American portraiture not just in terms of the genius of particular artists, but as a complex expression of society and the individual. He looks beyond the formal boundaries of traditional art history by studying the effect of religious, social, economic and political forces on art and the growth of arts patronage in early America.

Emily Dickinson

The Poet on the Second Story

JEROME LOVING

This book offers a reading of the most important of Emily Dickinson's works. Using biographical matters as a frame for his interpretations Professor Loving demonstrates how Dickinson's life is bound up with any serious reading of her poetry, and shows that the voice we hear in the poems is that of the 'mind alone', as Dickinson herself said, 'without corporeal friend'.

The Correspondence of John Ruskin and Charles Eliot Norton

Edited by JOHN BRADLEY and IAN OUSBY

This book presents an accurate record of the exchanges between Charles Eliot Norton, Professor of the History of Art at Harvard from 1875 until 1898, and his intimate correspondent John Ruskin. The letters they exchanged contained revelations so candid that Norton sought to efface his side of the correspondence almost entirely. The editors present a far more complete record of the correspondence than has been available before.

Plays by Susan Glaspell

Edited by C. W. E. BIGSBY

This book collects four plays by Susan Glaspell, Trifles, The Outside, The Verge and Inheritors, which together reveal the modern nature of the playwright's concerns. Long known only for a single play, Susan Glaspell now emerges as a significant figure in the history of American drama, a woman of genuine creative daring.

American Vision

The Films of Frank Capra

RAYMOND CARNEY

In this study, Professor Carney provides a new analysis of the career and work of film director Frank Capra. He locates the director's oeuvre within a larger tradition of post-Romantic expression, and presents detailed readings of individual films within a broad cultural context. Thus the book is as much an exploration of the American imagination as it is a study of a single director's work.

Robert Lowell

Essays on the Poetry

Edited by STEVEN AXELROD and HELEN DEESE

The twelve new essays in this volume, by some of the most distinguished scholars in the field, offer a chronological review of Lowell's career as a poet. The book attempts to reassess Robert Lowell's poetry and to restimulate critical thinking about it by focusing on his texts to raise new questions and discussions about the work. Employing a variety of methodologies, the essays arrive at innovative and often controversial interpretations of Lowell's poems.

Thoreau's Alternative History
Changing Perspectives on Nature,
Culture, and Language

Joan Burbick

Burbick traces the development of Thoreau's ideas on history, nature, language, and perception throughout his work and considers these ideas in the context of nineteenth-century American culture. Besides interpreting Thoreau's major works, Burbick stresses the importance of his frequently neglected Journal and late nature essays.

The Cambridge Handbook of American Literature

Edited by JACK SALZMAN

Comprising 750 entries in a single alphabetical sequence, the Cambridge Handbook offers a compact and accessible guide to the major landmarks of American literature from colonial times to the present day.

Entries on 500 separate authors, from Henry Adams to Louis Zukofsky, from Cotton Mather to Norman Mailer, give a full account of the subject's literary career. Entries on individual works – on major novels, plays, and volumes of poetry – provide publication details and convenient plot summaries. There are entries also on the principal literary magazines past and present, and on literary movements as diverse as Transcendentalism and the Beats. There are helpful guides to further reading and chronological tables of American history and literature. Containing a wealth of authoritative, clearly presented information on the whole range of the American literary heritage, the Cambridge Handbook is an invaluable reference work for the student and general reader alike.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

- 1 All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of American Studies, School of English and American Studies, University of Sussex, Falmer, Brighton, BN1 9QN, England.
- 2 Articles should generally contain about 5,000 words. Longer or shorter articles, or articles in two or more parts, may be accepted by arrangement with the Editors.
- 3 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, and is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
- 4 Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing (including footnotes), preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. Diagrams, maps and illustrations may be included.
- 5 Spelling may conform either to British or American usage, providing it is consistent throughout.
- 6 Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered consecutively, and may most conveniently be placed, in double spacing, at the end of the article.
- 7 For guidance on matters of style, contributors should refer either to The Chicago Manual of Style (13th edition, 1982) or to the Journal of American Studies Style Notes, copies of which may be obtained from the Editors.
- 8 Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
- 9 Notes intended for the Editors or Printer should be on a separate sheet.
- 10 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within three days of receiving them.
- 11 Corrections should be kept to an absolute minimum. They should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorizes otherwise.
- 12 Contributors of articles and review essays receive 25 free offprints. Extra copies may be ordered according to a scale of charges.
- 13 Contributors need not be members of the British Association for American Studies. Unsolicited typescripts can only be returned to overseas contributors who send International Reply Coupons (not postage stamps).
- 14 Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.

Books for review should be sent as follows: History, Political Science and Social Studies to Dr Michael Heale, Department of History, Furness College, University of Lancaster, Bailrigg, Lancaster LA1 4YG. Literature, the Fine Arts and other books to Professor Stephen Fender, School of English and American Studies, University of Sussex, Falmer, Brighton BN1 9QN.
