RESOLVING TRAUMATIC MEMORIES

A New Therapeutic Approach for Incest, Rape, Loss phobias and Event related anxieties.

Client's presenting problems are often precipitated by specific events such as traumatic experiences, rape, incest, and loss. A therapeutic impasse occurs when expressions of feelings, cognition or behaviour are sabotaged by the pervasive influence of past memories. Restructuring the way in which your clients remember traumatic events can immediately free them cognitively, emotionally and physiologically from accompanying feelings of guilt, shame, fear and anger. The physiological effects of negative feelings become neutralized and replaced with a restructured experience which is positively valenced. This may be accomplished without the therapist knowing the memory content thereby maintaining the personal integrity of the client.

We are confident that this Workshop will appeal to your personal and professional interest. If your conditions of satisfaction are not met, your Workshop fee will be fully refunded.

Secure Provision

A review of special services for the mentally ill and mentally handicapped in England and Wales

Edited by LARRY GOSTIN

Larry Gostin, the architect of the Mental Health Act 1983, has brought together leading psychiatrists, lawyers, and policymakers to provide a comprehensive and critical analysis of all aspects of this wide-ranging and crucially important subject. Secure Provision is the first book to look at the implications and likely impact of the new pattern of services in the National Health Service. Fresh ideas for reform are also discussed.

The Psychology of Self and Other

ELIZABETH R. MOBERLY

In this sequel to her controversial study of gender identity, Psychogenesis, Dr Moberly develops the implications of her work for narcissistic and borderline psychopathology. She presents a detailed reassessment of basic Freudian concepts, and develops Bowlby's work on attachment and separation and Kohut's data on selfobject transferences. This is a work of substantial theoretical revision which issues a challenge for psychoanalysis to accept the implications of its own data.

Sherlock Holmes and the Case of Dr Freud

MICHAEL SHEPHERD

The similarities between the two legendary figures of Freud and Holmes have been remarked by several observers – writers, critics, and physicians. In this essay, Professor Shepherd argues that the association is not fortuitous: the link consists essentially in what purports to be a form of scientific method presented with the power of the mythopoetic imagination. His argument is both scholarly and entertaining.

What do you look for in a patient support system?

Obviously, your relationship with your patients and the treatment programmes you determine for them are of paramount importance.

But a key element in any treatment programme is a complete and effective system that implements your decisions regarding patient care.

A system tailored within broad parameters to meet individual patient needs, covering a wide range of psychiatric disorders as well as drug addiction and alcoholism.

And it should be carried out by experienced staff – resident medical officers, trained psychiatric nurses, therapists and counsellors – who can design and implement a treatment programme in your absence or complement your own.

In other words, a support system like ours, based on years of international experience within a caring and supportive environment.

Because after all, a good patient care system is one that helps you help your patients recover.

TWO IMPORTANT REPRINTS

BATTLE FOR THE MIND

WILLIAM SARGANT

(now in its Eighth Impression, having sold something in excess of 250,000 copies)

The object of this remarkable book is firstly to show how beliefs—whether good or bad, false or true—can be forcibly implanted in the human brain. The science of indoctrination; and, secondly to explain how people can be switched to arbitrary beliefs absolutely opposed to those previously held. The science of brain-washing.

In detail, and with the aid of fascinating photographs, the author describes the methods used to achieve these ends by politicians, priests, psychiatrists and police forces the world over.

(Not to be sold in the United States and Canada)

and its sequel

THE MIND POSSESSED

A riveting investigation into possessions—by demons, gods, drugs, sex or religion—which gives an enthralling insight into the human mind.

The author here relates his fascinating experiences as he studied the phenomenon of possession all over the world . . . casting out devils in Ethiopia . . . voodooism in Haiti . . . smoke-induced possession in Zambia . . . religious revival meetings in America.

From these studies, many of which were experienced first-hand, Dr. Sargant raises crucial questions about us and our minds.
