

Figures

- 1.1 Auto makers like Ferrari do not manufacture the merchandise that bears their famous logos. Source: eBay/WhyBee. page 11
- 1.2 Jonathan Barnett illustrates how licensing enables motion picture firms to divide distribution rights among multiple entities, each with a specific role in the supply chain. Source: Jonathan Barnett. 13
- 1.3 The debate over “patent trolls” has been raging for over a decade. Source: US Patent and Trademark Office. 16
- 1.4 Large information technology companies like IBM and Google embraced the open source Linux operating system to support the sale of associated hardware, services and advertising. Source: Linux Foundation. 18
- 2.1 Warren claimed that he created 1,914 musical works for the popular 1980s TV series Remington Steele. Source: NBC/MTM Enterprises. 23
- 2.2 The creators of the Superman character died in near poverty while the Man of Steel went on to form a multi-billion-dollar franchise. Source: Action Comics (public domain). 27
- 2.3 FilmTec reverse osmosis membrane filter. Source: DuPont Corp. 29
- 2.4 Schematic showing possible assignment pathways for Cadotte’s invention. Source: the author. 30
- 2.5 Richard Alleshouse was the product manager for Wave Loch’s FlowRider attraction, shown here as installed on the upper deck of a Royal Caribbean cruise ship. Source: Traveloscopy, CC BY-ND 2.0. 35
- 2.6 Though he was an original member of the musical group The Commodores, Thomas McClary did not retain rights to utilize the group’s name after he left the band in 1984. Source: The Commodores. 45
- 3.1 The Mashantucket Pequot Museum & Research Center in Ledyard, Connecticut, commissioned a film about the Pequot War of 1636–38. Source: Stilfehler, CC BY-SA 3.0. 55
- 3.2 Chief Judge Henry T. Friendly, the author of the opinion in T.B. Harms, served on the US Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit from 1959–1986. Source: US Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. 56
- 4.1 Tornado Taz. Source: Play-By-Play Toys & Novelties, Inc. 70
- 4.2 “Psycho Chihuahua” and the Taco Bell chihuahua. Source: (L) Joseph Shields, Thomas Rinks; (R) Taco Bell Corp. 76

4.3	I.A.E. v. Shaver involved an architect's plans for an air cargo building at Gary Regional Airport (now Gary/Chicago International Airport (GYY)). Source: Gary/Chicago International Airport.	83
4.4	Effects Associates involved the development of a gruesome special effect for the horror film The Stuff . Source: New World Pictures.	85
4.5	NBA star LeBron James is reported to have twenty-four tattoos, many of which were created by LA-based artist gangatattoo. Source: Getty Images/Harry How.	89
4.6	The patented shrimp knife and deveiner at issue in McCoy . Source: (L) US Patent and Trademark Office; (R) Alex-Duncan Shrimp Chef, Inc.	91
4.7	The dispute in TransCore v. Elec. Transaction Consultants involved patents covering E-ZPass electronic tollbooth devices. Source: "Approaching NJ Turnpike northern barrier" by bobsled, CC BY-SA 2.0.	95
5.1	Figure from US Patent No. 5,073,816, "Packaging semiconductor chips," which ST claimed that SanDisk infringed. Source: US Patent and Trademark Office.	100
5.2	The dispute in MedImmune v. Genentech involved a Genentech patent claiming antibody technology. Source: MedImmune.	105
5.3	The formula for Coca-Cola, which is allegedly stored in this imposing vault in Atlanta, has been a trade secret since 1886. Source: Mx Granger, CC0.	113
5.4	A Rockwell 33.6 K analog modem, c.1990s. Source: Rockwell Elecs.	114
5.5	The record-breaking verdict in Texaco v. Pennzoil reinvigorated the popular notion that a handshake is a binding commitment. Source: Universal Pictures (Law and Order (1953)).	118
6.1	Graphical representation of a patent "family." Source: Jim Farrington.	131
6.2	Ownership and license of '011 and '946 patents in Spindelfabrik . Source: the author.	133
6.3	Affiliate relationships in a corporate "family." Source: the author.	137
6.4	In General Talking Pictures , the Supreme Court validated the division of patent license rights according to technical fields of use. Source: the author.	146
6.5	The territory of "North America" consists of about forty different countries. Source: "Central Americas (Feb 1960)" by davecito, CC BY 2.0.	148
6.6	The complex flow of license rights in Cyrus v. Intel . Source: the author.	152
6.7	The "have-made" arrangements in du Pont v. Shell . Source: the author.	155
6.8	Igor Stravinsky and Walt Disney. Source: public domain.	159
6.9	The 1991 VHS videotape version of Disney's Fantasia sparked a dispute with Igor Stravinsky's estate. Source: the author.	161
6.10	William Styron's Sophie's Choice , one of the titles at issue in Random House v. Rosetta Books . Source: (L) Random House; (R) Rosetta Books.	164
6.11	Graphical representation of license and sublicense rights. Source: the author.	165
7.1	The complex, multi-tiered exclusive and nonexclusive licensing structure for CRISPR-Cas9 gene editing technology as it existed in early 2017. Source: Jorge L. Contreras & Jacob S. Sherkow, Science 355: 698 (2017).	174
7.2	Illustration from one of Duncan's "Bandalore Toy" patents, U.S. Pat. No. D175,022 (June 28, 1955). Source: US Patent and Trademark Office.	180
7.3	Martha Stewart display inside a J.C. Penney's store. Source: J.C. Penney's.	185
7.4	Lucy Christiana Lady Duff Gordon (1863–1935). Source: public domain.	189

- 8.1 Spyglass, Inc. licensed its Mosaic web browser code to Microsoft for $2 million. Source: Spyglass, Inc. 198
- 8.2 Former President Barack Obama received a $20 million advance in 2017 for his memoir Dreams from My Father, the largest single-book advance on record, though some argue that Bill Clinton’s $15 million advance for his 2001 memoir My Life was larger in inflation-adjusted dollars. Source: Times Books. 200
- 8.3 The Walt Disney Company owns some of the world’s most valuable brands and is reported to earn 15.5 percent of all IP licensing revenue in the United States. Source: The Walt Disney Co. 204
- 8.4 H.W. Allen (1909–1979) with a prototype of his compound bow invention. Source: unknown/public domain. 210
- 8.5 The court in Allen Archery held that a crossbow’s stock, overdraw mechanism and camouflage paint were not “accessories” excluded from the royalty calculation, even if they were not covered by the patent claims and could be purchased separately. Source: Getty Images. 213
- 8.6 Sales illustrating the importance of carefully allocating sublicensing income. Source: the author. 227
- 8.7 Stanford University is reported to have earned $336 million by selling shares of Google stock in the company’s 2004 IPO and subsequent offerings. Source: Getty Images/Alan Perlman Foto Associates. 235
- 8.8 The SGK–Hercules agreement concerned patent rights in polypropylene, a plastic used to make a wide range of products from Tic-Tac containers to furniture. Source: Alex Rio Brazil, CC BY-SA 3.0. 242
- 9.1 To what degree might a software logistics system customized for the wine and spirits market be useful in the pharmaceuticals market? Source: the author (using free clipart). 255
- 9.2 The two principal JV structures. Source: the author. 265
- 9.3 U.S. Patent No. 3,377,933 was assigned to Pav-Saver Corp. and licensed exclusively to the PSMC joint venture. Source: US Patent and Trademark Office. 268
- 9.4 A Pav-Saver road-paving machine. Source: unknown. 274
- 10.1 After the Warhol estate granted rights in many of Andy Warhol’s works to SNC, other deals began to emerge, including an exclusive license of Warhol’s prints to a watchmaker. Source: unknown. 285
- 10.2 The 1993 film Jurassic Park introduced many viewers to the dangers of malicious computer code. Source: Universal Pictures. 290
- 10.3 Illustration of the basic structure for IP indemnification. Source: the author. 299
- 10.4 The parties and dispute in SoCal Gas v. Syntellect. Source: the author, using images of unknown origin. 307
- 11.1 The 2016 film Fathers and Daughters starring Russell Crowe and Amanda Seyfried was the subject of the copyright dispute in Fathers & Daughters Nevada, LLC v. Zhang. Source: Lakeshore Entertainment and Voltage Pictures. 315
- 11.2 A 1995 stainless steel Benrus “Men’s Modern” watch issued to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of D-Day. Source: unknown. 329
- 11.3 According to its website, the North Carolina Coalition for Global Competitiveness “wants people all around the world to recognize and know North Carolina as a great place to invest, work, study, visit, partner, and live.” Source: https://goglobalnc.org/global-engagement/ .	344

12.1	A 1915 advertisement for Listerine. Source: public domain.	371
12.2	Operation of a nondisturbance agreement. Source: the author.	387
13.1	Elihu Thomson, founder of the Thomson Electric Welding Co., was one of the late nineteenth century’s greatest inventors, with nearly 700 patents to his name. Source: public domain.	393
13.2	The Supreme Court’s 1852 decision in Troy Iron & Nail first established that patent licensing agreements are not assignable. Source: public domain.	396
13.3	Asset acquisitions, stock acquisitions and mergers. Source: the author.	398
13.4	Guardian Glass got its start as a manufacturer of automotive windshields. Source: public domain.	402
13.5	Historically, patented articles were marked with applicable patent numbers. Source: the author.	407
13.6	Many older agreements still provide for official notice by Telex or teletype machine. Source: ArnoldReinhold, CC BY 2.0.	418
14.1	Senators Birch Bayh and Bob Dole. Source: US Senate.	425
14.2	Stanford University failed to acquire rights in one of its researchers’ inventions due to the future-looking language of its IP assignment policy. Source: “New stadium, wide-angle view” by maveric2003, CC BY 2.0.	429
14.3	Genzyme’s Fabrazyme. Source: Genzyme.	433
14.4	Federal laboratories like Sandia National Laboratory in New Mexico have active technology licensing and commercialization programs. Source: Sandia National Lab.	440
14.5	Tobacco plants have been genetically modified to grow larger, faster and more efficiently. Source: public domain.	448
15.1	In Two Pesos v. Taco Cabana , the Supreme Court recognized the protectable elements of Taco Cabana’s interior and exterior store design – features that are regularly licensed as part of fast-food franchises. Source: unknown.	463
15.2	Apple’s 2013 registration for the Apple Store layout (No. 4,277,914). Source: US Patent and Trademark Office.	464
15.3	In addition to the Star Wars® brand, the copyrighted Star Wars characters have been licensed for use in thousands of products from plush toys and action figures to knee socks and table lamps. Source: various online sources.	465
15.4	1932 design patent for the “Betty Boop” character. Source: U.S. Patent and Trademark Office.	465
15.5	Denver Chemical sold its popular “Antiphlogistine” compound as a general topical analgesic. Source: public domain.	468
15.6	Dawn Donut Co. licensed its trademark to bakeries and retailers who used its packaged mixes for doughnuts, coffee cakes, cinnamon rolls and oven goods. Source: unknown/public domain.	469
15.7	Label from a bottle of DaVinci Chianti. Source: unknown.	471
15.8	Competing “XX” marks used by Exxon Corp. and Oxxford Clothes. Source: unknown.	476
15.9	Exxon’s XX trademark registration and other XX marks challenged by Exxon and subject to phrase-out agreements. Source: US Patent and Trademark Office.	476

- 15.10 Beginning in 1925, Howard Johnson used franchising to expand from a single soda fountain outside of Boston into a nationwide chain of more than 1,000 orange-roofed family restaurants. Source: public domain. 481
- 15.11 Subway's national $4.99 Footlong promotion reportedly hurt franchisees. Source: Subway. 483
- 15.12 The cover of Dunkin' Donuts 2008 Franchise Disclosure Document (508 pages in total), which discloses that a total investment of $240,250–1,699,850 is required to acquire and begin operations of a Dunkin' Donuts franchise Source: Dunkin Donuts. 484
- 15.13 The (now-closed) IHOP in Spanish Fort, Alabama. Source: unknown. 489
- 16.1 Prior to 1972, US copyright law did not protect sound recordings, leaving performances of public domain works (such as much of the classical repertoire) entirely without protection. Source: "Dublin Philharmonic Orchestra performing Tchaikovsky's Symphony No 4 in Charlotte, North Carolina.jpg" by Derek Gleeson, CC BY-SA 3.0. 495
- 16.2 Paper rolls used in player pianos were the first "mechanical" reproductions of music. Source: public domain. 496
- 16.3 In 2010, the Copyright Royalty Board determined compulsory licensing rates for ringtones. Source: unknown. 500
- 16.4 US music industry revenues, 2004 and 2013. Source: Recording Industry Association of America. 504
- 16.5 SoundExchange, BMI, ASCAP and SESAC logos. Source: logos are owned by their respective owners. 505
- 16.6 Recording artist Rihanna objected via Twitter to the Trump campaign's performance of her song "Don't Stop the Music." Source: Twitter/Rihanna. 510
- 16.7 John Williams, who composed the music for Star Wars, won the 1978 Oscar for Best Original Score. Source: Twentieth Century Fox. 520
- 17.1 ProCD's SelectPhone product (c.1994). Source: unknown. 525
- 17.2 Mortenson used Timberline's Precision Bid Analysis software to prepare a bid for a project at Harborview Medical Center in Seattle. Source: unknown. 535
- 17.3 A 1980s-era computer terminal of the type at issue in Step-Saver. Source: unknown. 538
- 17.4 Vendors have sought to control the use of products, including seedless grapes, through "shrinkwrap" agreements. Source: Twitter/TubeTime. 539
- 17.5 Netscape Navigator was the most popular early web browser. Source: Netscape Communications. 542
- 17.6 Number of terms changed, 2003 vs. 2010. Source: Florencia Marotta-Wurgler and Robert Taylor, 88 NYU L. Rev. 240 (2013). 551
- 17.7 Chief Justice Roberts admits that he doesn't read the fine print ... Source: United States Supreme Court. 553
- 18.1 In the 1980s, Xerox sold investment portfolios comprising revenue streams from hundreds of leased photocopier machines. Source: Xerox Corp. 569
- 18.2 Amazon makes a range of applications available on a service-basis through Amazon Web Services (AWS). Source: Amazon Web Services. 588
- 19.1 The Creative Commons suite of licenses. Source: Creative Commons 595
- 19.2 Richard Stallman, founder of the free software movement, speaking in Oslo as Saint IGNUcius in 2009. Source: Gisle Hannemyr, CC BY-SA 2.0. 600

19.3	Eric Raymond, one of the founders of OSI, in 2004. Source: Eric S. Raymond.	604
19.4	A “daemon” is a type of software agent. Source: BSD Project.	606
19.5	Graphical illustration of the perceived “viral effect” of GPL software combined with proprietary software. Source: the author.	610
19.6	In 1999 TiVo introduced the first successful mass-market DVR device. Source: TiVo.	611
19.7	Screenshot from the DecoderPro model railroad control software released by Jacobsen for the JMRI project. Source: DecoderPro.	617
19.8	Jacobsen v. Katzer concerned OSS used to control model trains. Source: MIKI Yoshihito, CC BY.	621
19.9	Major OSS successes include the Linux and Android operating systems, the Apache web server, the Firefox browser and Red Hat, which provides services related to Linux. Source: logos are owned by their respective owners.	623
19.10	Elon Musk, the flamboyant CEO of Tesla Motors, pledged all of the company’s patents in a 2014 blog post. Source: Maurizio Pesce, CC BY 2.0.	635
20.1	A lack of standardized fire hydrant couplings resulted in a tragic loss of life and property in the 1904 Baltimore fire. Source: public domain.	638
20.2	A 2017 meeting of the Internet Engineering Task Force (IETF). Source: the author.	639
20.3	(a) Contract paradigm – black to white: “I will grant you a license.” (b) Standards Paradigm – black to SDO: “I will grant implementers a license.” Source: the author.	658
21.1	Some technology escrow providers. Source: logos are owned by their respective owners.	690
22.1	The gyroscope invention in Lear v. Adkins . Source: US Patent and Trademark Office.	701
22.2	The Drackett Chemical Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, created many household cleaning products that are still in use, including Windex, Dawn and Drano. Source: Drackett Chem. Co. – public domain.	707
22.3	In Troxel v. Schwinn , Schwinn held a design patent for a bicycle seat issued in 1966. Source: US Patent and Trademark Office.	708
22.4	Flex-Foot’s patented “bladerunner” prosthesis design gained worldwide attention when used by South Africa’s Oscar Pistorius to run the 400 m sprint at the 2012 London Olympics. Source: (L) U.S. Patent and Trademark Office; (R) theglobalpanorama, CC BY-SA 2.0.	714
22.5	Porcelain figurine based on a Norman Rockwell illustration. Source: unknown.	718
22.6	One of the Idaho Potato Commission’s certification marks for Idaho-grown potatoes. Source: Idaho Potato Commission.	720
23.1	The Castaway: Three Great Men Ruined in One Year – A King, A Cad and a Castaway , by Hallie Ermine Rives (1904). Source: Library of Congress.	732
23.2	Autodesk’s AutoCAD 14 software. Source: unknown.	739
23.3	In Enesco v. Price/Costco , Costco repackaged porcelain angels manufactured by Enesco in allegedly inferior packaging. Source: (L) unknown; (R) Costco.	749
23.4	Figures from U.S. Patent No. 38,713 (May 26, 1863) “Improvement in Coffin Lids.” Source: US Patent and Trademark Office.	754
23.5	The parties in Quanta v. LGE . Source: logos are owned by their respective owners.	757

- 23.6 An Intel chip integrated into a computer board. Source: unknown. 759
- 23.7 A portion of the product information brochure for Mallinckrodt's UltraVent device. Source: Mallinckrodt, Inc. 765
- 23.8 J. Walker, Fundamentals of Physics (Wiley, 8th ed. (US), 2008) – one of the textbooks at issue in Kirtsaeng v. Wiley. Source: John Wiley & Sons, Inc. 773
- 23.9 Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg dissented in both Kirtsaeng and Impression Products. Source: U.S. Supreme Court. 781
- 23.10 Flow of goods in the “gray market.” Source: the Author; Nike, Inc. 782
- 23.11 Nestlé sought to prevent its former distributor from importing Venezuelan Perugina-branded chocolates into Puerto Rico. Source: Societe Des Produits Nestle, S.A. 783
- 24.1 G.S. Suppiger Co. leased its patented salt-depositing machines to canneries with a contractual requirement that they purchase unpatented salt tablets exclusively from Suppiger. Source: public domain. 793
- 24.2 The 1931 Minneapolis-Honeywell furnace control system patent and a Honeywell furnace switch (unpatented). Source: (L) US Patent and Trademark Office; (R) unknown. 796
- 24.3 Prior to the introduction of mechanical hop-picking equipment, the harvesting of hops was a labor-intensive manual process. Source: US Department of Agriculture. 799
- 24.4 Kimble v. Marvel involved a licensing agreement entered into to settle patent litigation over the popular “Web Blaster” toy. Source: ToyBiz. 801
- 24.5 Decided nearly two decades apart, Automatic Radio and Zenith both involved licenses by Hazeltine, an early electronics patent aggregator and licensing entity. Source: unknown. 815
- 24.6 Lasercomb's software related to the computer-aided design of steel rule dies for cutting cardboard. Source: Getty Images/Bloomberg. 820
- 24.7 Video Pipeline allegedly displayed short clips of more than sixty Disney films on its website without authorization. Source: Walt Disney Co. 822
- 25.1 The Sherman Act was enacted to combat the worst abuses of sprawling business “trusts.” Source: public domain. 825
- 25.2 Unlike most countries, the United States has two antitrust enforcement agencies with overlapping jurisdiction and sometimes conflicting policies. Source: U.S. government. 827
- 25.3 Some of the brands developed by Topco. Source: Topco Association. 834
- 25.4 Brighton handbag and belt by Leegin. Source: unknown. 841
- 25.5 With “block booking,” in order to show classic films like Casablanca, television stations and movie theaters were also required to license, and pay for, “B” movies like The Gorilla Man. Source: Warner Bros. 856
- 25.6 Häagen-Dazs successfully argued that inexpensive and expensive ice cream products compete in the same market. Source: unknown. 858
- 25.7 Microsoft's Windows operating system captured 95 percent of the relevant operating system market. Source: Microsoft Corp. 865
- 25.8 The Nickelodeon Theater in Santa Cruz, Cal. Source: “The Nick” by ESHELMS, CC BY 2.0. 868
- 25.9 The National Electrical Code is published by the National Fire Protection Association. Source: National Fire Protection Association. 871

- 26.1 Basic structure of a patent pool with per-patent allocation of royalties and no pool administration charges. Source: the author. 886
- 26.2 In this iconic 1904 illustration from Puck, the Standard Oil Company is depicted as a malignant octopus wrapping its tentacles around state and federal legislatures, the White House and representatives of the steel, copper and shipping industries. Source: public domain. 895
- 26.3 The US Navy pressured feuding aircraft manufacturers Curtiss and Wright to form an early aviation patent pool prior to US entry into World War I. Source: US Patent and Trademark Office. 896
- 26.4 Patents covering many important standards today are licensed through patent pools. Source: logos are owned by their respective owners. 902
- 26.5 Two manufacturers of PRK equipment for laser eye surgery pooled their patents in an arrangement challenged by the FTC. Source: US Air Force. 908
- 26.6 Can patent pools promote the broad accessibility of CRISPR gene-editing technology? Source: National Institutes of Health. 911
- 26.7 Cellular communication protocols have evolved to enable better, faster and higher bandwidth connections and voice, data and video content transmission. Source: the author, photos from various unknown sources. 915