SYRIA AND THE FRENCH MANDATE The Politics of Arab Nationalism, 1920–1945 Phillip S. Khoury

"... this is an extremely readable book, and in fact one which is often hard to put down, so well written is it, so beautifully produced, and so coherent in its presentation. ... Basing his study on an exhaustive array of sources, from the French, British, and Syrian archives to conversations with virtually every surviving prominent participant in the events described,

Phillip Khoury has given us what will undoubtedly henceforth be the standard work on the subject." —Rashid I. Khalidi, The Middle East Journal

"[Khoury] has produced a formidable piece of scholarship which, as well as analyzing new data on the period, surely cannot fail to stimulate many ideas for future research. The product of years of careful work, this is a book to feast on. ... With the author exercising such an able grasp of his subject, not to mention an obviously deep affection, this work is thoroughly recommended." —Philip Robins, MESA Bulletin

WORKERS ON THE NILE Nationalism, Communism, Islam, and the Egyptian Working Class, 1882–1954 Joel Beinin and Zachary Lockman

"A book that is as likely to be of interest to the growing number of disciples of Marxist labor history pioneered by E. J. Hobsbawm and E. P. Thompson as to students of the history of modern Egypt. The authors are clearly committed to the view that a reexamination of the living conditions and political aspirations of the working class is inseparable from the practice and writing of history. They have written a vigorous and well-documented study of the political and organizational structure of Egyptian trade unionism as an important if not determining aspect of the rise and development of Egyptian nationalism in the first half of the twentieth century." —Choice
