

David Earl Groth, formerly of Stanford, will be at the department of government, Colby College, for 1984-85.

David Hirschmann, visiting associate professor, Kansas State University.

Gerald L. Houseman has been appointed as Student Recommended Faculty Fellow at the University of California, Irvine, for the 1984-85 academic year.

Jerry Hough, winter quarter 1985, University of California, San Diego; from Duke University and the Brookings Institute.

Aharon Klieman will be the Visiting Israeli Professor at Georgetown University for the academic year 1984-85.

Jeremy Lewis, formerly of Wellesley College, will be at the department of government, Colby College, for 1984-85.

Folke Lindahl, visiting assistant professor, Oklahoma State University, 1984-85.

Frank Manuel, winter quarter 1985, University of California, San Diego; from Brandeis University.

Ralph Reisner, winter and spring quarters 1985, University of California, San Diego; from University of Illinois Law School.

Paul L. Rosen, Carleton University, is spending the 1984-85 academic year as visiting professor of political science at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Barbara Stallings, visiting associate professor of political science, Yale University, 1984-85; on leave from the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Phillip C. Wall, visiting assistant professor, Kansas State University.

Joel D. Wolfe will be visiting professor at Georgetown University for a two-year appointment beginning fall semester, 1984.

Margaret J. Wyszomirski, visiting assistant professor of government, Georgetown University, and visiting associate professor of government, Cornell University, Cornell-in-Washington Program, 1984-85.

Awards

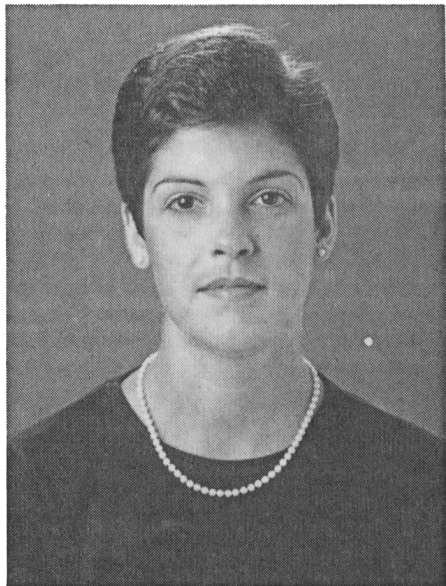

1984 Alice Paul Award

This year's Alice Paul Award, sponsored by the Women's Caucus for Political Science, went to Susan E. Lawrence of Johns Hopkins University. Runner-up was Kathleen J. Pritchard of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Lawrence's proposal was entitled, "The Poor in Court: The Legal Impact of Expanded Access," and Pritchard's was "A Cross-National Exploration of Courts and Human Rights."

The Alice Paul Award is for the best dissertation proposal in political science or public administration by a female graduate student.

APSA Annual Meeting Travel Grant Awards

The following foreign graduate students studying political science in the U.S.

Susan E. Lawrence of Johns Hopkins University is the recipient of the Alice Paul Award sponsored by the Women's Caucus for Political Science.

People in Political Science

were awarded travel grants to attend the 1984 Annual Meeting of the APSA. The funds were provided by APSA, the Asia Foundation, and the United States Information Agency (via the Institute for International Education).

APSA Grant Recipient

Chen-shen J. Yen, China, Purdue University

Asia Foundation Grant Recipients

Kahsin Cho, Malaysia, Brandeis University

Yun-han Chu, China, University of Minnesota

Akira Hayama, Japan, University of Connecticut

Khai Leong Ho, Malaysia, Ohio State University

Guo-can Huan, China, Princeton University

Ahmed I. Hussain, Bangladesh, University of Pennsylvania

Muhammad G. Kabir, Bangladesh, University of Pittsburgh

Jong-pyo Kim, Korea, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Sung-Chull Lee, Korea, University of Kansas

Kyu Hyung No, Korea, SUNY at Stony Brook

Yoshitaka Nishizawa, Japan, Yale University

Wen-fang Tang, China, University of Kansas

Chung-chlan Teng, China, Northwestern University

Institute for International Education Grant Recipients

Sami H. Aloul, Jordan, University of Virginia

Loretta Anania, Italy, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

John Anene, Nigeria, Arizona State University

Houchang E. Chehabli, Iran, Yale University

Mahmoud G. Elwarfally, Libya, University of Pittsburgh

Salwa S. Gomas, Egypt, University of Pittsburgh

Emmanuel Gylmah-Boadi, Ghana, University of California, Davis

Self M. Hussain, Sudan, University of Rochester

Renu Khator, India, Purdue University

Stuart J. Munro, Canada, Boston College

Alain Noel, Canada, University of Denver

Abdusalam Omer, Somali, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Louise Richardson, Ireland, Harvard University

Aldo Cesar Vacs, Argentina, University of Pittsburgh

Dirk Vandewalle, Belgium, Columbia University

1984 Samuel H. Beer Dissertation Prize

Karen Bernstein, a faculty member at Mills College, Oakland, California, is the winner of the 1984 Samuel H. Beer Dissertation Prize presented by the British Politics Group. Bernstein's study, The International Monetary Fund and Deficit Countries: The Case of Britain, 1974-77, was done at Stanford University under the direction of Robert Keohane, now of the faculty of Brandeis University.

The Prize Committee consisted of James Alt, Washington University, St. Louis; Samuel Patterson, University of Iowa; and Norman Vig, Carleton College.

1984-85 Guggenheim Fellowships

The John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation has awarded fellowships to the following political scientists for 1984-85. The studies proposed by the Fellows are stated after their names.

Karen Bernstein of Mills College is the winner of the 1984 Samuel H. Beer Dissertation Prize presented by the British Politics Group.

Larry Berman, associate professor of political science, University of California, Davis; America in Vietnam, 1966-1968.

James S. Fishkin, associate professor of political science and Institution for Social and Policy Studies, Yale University: A critique and reformulation of democratic theory.

Charles O. Jones, Robert Kent Gooch Professor of Government and Foreign Affairs, University of Virginia: The White House, Congress, and energy policy.

Michael Lipsky, professor of political science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology: Food policy and hunger in the United States.

Samuel C. Patterson, professor of political science, University of Iowa: The congressional party of the 1980s.

For information on applying for Guggenheim Fellowships, see "Research and Training Support" in this issue of PS.

James S. Fishkin of Yale University is a recipient of a 1984-85 Guggenheim Fellowship.

Ford Foundation Postdoctoral Fellowship for Minorities

Mitchell F. Rice, associate professor at Southwest Texas State University, has been selected as one of 35 recipients of Charles O. Jones of the University of Virginia is a Guggenheim Fellow for 1984-85.

Mitchell F. Rice of Southwest Texas State University has received a National Research Council Ford Foundation Postdoctoral Fellowship.

the National Research Council Ford Foundation Postdoctoral Fellowship for Minorities for 1984-85.

1984-85 Fulbright-Hays Awards

Following are the names of U.S. graduate students in political science who have received Fulbright-Hays awards for 1984-85, with their U.S. institutions and countries in which they will study. The awards are administered by the Institute of International Education.

Lonny E. Carlile, University of California, Berkeley; Japan.

Brian G. Dinda, University of Wisconsin at Superior; Norway.

Margaret A. Ferri, University of Pittsburgh; West Germany.

Eric J. Fjelstad, Pacific Lutheran University; West Germany.

David Friedman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Japan.

John B. Goodman, Harvard University; Italy.

Arunas E. Gudaitis, Williams College; West Germany.

Anne M. Hamre, Macalester College; West Germany.

Janet Hart, Cornell University; Greece.

Bruce G. Herman, Columbia University; Italy.

Gary B. Herrigel, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; West Germany.

James P. Maeder, University of Pittsburgh; West Germany.

Frances McCall, Columbia University; Japan.

Martha E. Perla, no institutional affiliation, Washington; West Germany.

John P. Sarbanes, Princeton University; Greece.

Gabriela B. Schwarz, University of Cincinnati; West Germany.

Jeffrey Seward, Stanford University; Brazil.

Nancy E. Snow, Clemson University; West Germany.

Jan Surotchak, Lehigh University; West Germany.

Michael Swaine, Harvard University; Japan.

Lynne M. Wozniak, Cornell University; Spain.

Policy Studies Organization Award

Who Gets What From Government, a book written by Benjamin Page of the University of Texas at Austin, has been selected as the best book on public policy in the U.S. by the Policy Studies Organization.

The Policy Studies Organization is an interdisciplinary society devoted to the study of public policy in the U.S. It publishes a national journal and currently has headquarters at the University of Illinois.

Who Gets What From Government, published by the University of California Press in 1983, is an analysis of tax and spending policy in the U.S.

1983 Rockefeller Foundation Fellows

The winners of the 1983 International Relations Fellowship sponsored by the Rockefeller Foundation were selected from a total of 278 candidates from 63 countries. The fellowship program is intended to enrich the fellows' professional development through travel and policy-relevant research on important international relations problems.

The following political scientists are among the fellows:

Vinod K. Aggarwal, assistant professor of political science, University of California, Berkeley. Fellowship research: the prospects for coordination among private banks and public regulating agencies in international finance.

Peter F. Cowhey, assistant professor of political science, University of California, San Diego. Fellowship research: the role of the telecommunications and data processing sectors in the future of the world economy.

Germaine A. Hoston, assistant professor of political science, Johns Hopkins University. Fellowship research: comparative perspectives on Marxism and nationalism in China and Japan.

Miles Kahler, associate professor of political science, Yale University, currently on leave at the International Monetary Fund. Fellowship research: an examination of the links between external international economic relations and domestic politics in Japan, China, Singapore, and Sri Lanka.

Mitchell A. Sellgeon, associate professor of political science, University of Arizona. Fellowship research: domestic and international causes of the widening gap between the rich and poor in developing nations, focusing on the role of commodity marketing boards in Latin America.

Susan L. Shirk, associate professor of political science, University of California, San Diego. Fellowship research: an analysis of the domestic political constraints on foreign economic policymaking in China since 1979. □

Other Awards and Honors

Several individuals at the University of California, San Diego, have received awards and fellowships:

Ellen T. Comisso, Fellowship at the Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Sciences, Stanford University, 1984-85.

Wayne A. Cornelius, Gildred Chair for U.S.-Mexican Relations, University of California, San Diego.

Peter H. Irons, James Willard Hurst Prize in American Legal History, awarded by Law and Society Association for the best book written in this field in 1982-83: The New Deal Lawyers. The Silver Gavel Award from American Bar Association for Justice at War.

David D. Laitin, The George A. and Eliza Gardner Howard Foundation Fellowship; German Marshall Fund Fellowship.

In Memoriam

Peter F. Bouvier

Peter F. Bouvier died suddenly in May 1984 while working at night on the word processor in his home. At the time of his death, of a massive heart attack, Peter was professor and chairman of the Department of Business at the University of Redlands in Redlands, California. As his former teacher and dissertation chairman, I cannot adequately convey my personal distress at learning of this tragic end to an increasingly successful academic career. While this school has a number of truly outstanding alumni, Peter stood very tall in that group. All those who knew him certainly would agree with that assessment, as do others as well. A bit of recent history is in order.