Critical Reading

Symbolism and Interpretation

By TZVETAN TODOROV. Translated by CATHERINE PORTER. "Like Todorov's earlier books this one is filled with brilliant critical insights and immense learning. Todorov has the gift, along with a mere handful of other commentators—Auerbach, Frye, Curtius, and Jakobson—to deal with large concepts of a very complex order in lucid and direct terms. It is astonishing to see with what ease Todorov wanders across a variety of disciplines and many centuries—from Greek antiquity to the present ages—in the course of elucidating his theories on poetics and interpretation."—Melvin J. Friedman, University of Wisconsin. $19.95

James Merrill: Essays in Criticism

Edited by DAVID LEHMAN and CHARLES BERGER. This is the first book to be devoted entirely to Merrill, whose many honors include a Pulitzer Prize, the Bollingen Prize, and two National Book Awards. Eleven writers have contributed original essays discussing and interpreting the poet's oeuvre. $22.50

Forster's Narrative Vision

By BARBARA ROSECRANCE. E.M. Forster's use of the omniscient point of view, a device usually associated with the Victorian novelists, contrasts strikingly with the modernist aspects of his fiction. In this new book, Barbara Rosecrance explores the far-reaching implications of Forster's choice of this narrative technique in her reappraisal of five of his novels: Where Angels Fear to Tread, The Longest Journey, A Room with a View, Howards End, and A Passage to India. $22.50

Now in paperback...

The Political Unconscious

Narrative as a Socially Symbolic Act

By FREDRIC JAMESON. "A major work of critical theory...A compelling, forceful argument in favor of the primacy of Marxism over contending strategies of interpretation."—Nineteenth-Century Fiction. "Monumental... Its learning and range of reference are exceeded only by the imperial embrace of its complex argument, whose elaboration never imposes a sacrifice of clarity."—Choice. $7.95 paper ($22.50 cloth)

Interfaces of the World

Studies in the Evolution of Consciousness and Culture

By WALTER J. ONG. "One of the most prominent thinkers of our time, a master of using the word and writing about it, has presented his readers with another indispensable volume of essays... which must be required reading for anybody who plans to be or already is involved with language and literature."—World Literature Today. $8.95 paper ($22.50 cloth)

Allegory

The Theory of a Symbolic Mode

By ANGUS FLETCHER. "What Mr. Fletcher has achieved is nothing less than a redescription of literature with allegory at the center."—Times Literary Supplement. "Allegory has sustained me through seven readings over as many years, and I do not feel I have exhausted the book yet."—Harold Bloom, The Virginia Quarterly Review. $9.95 paper
