TRAINING OF ATTENDANTS AND NURSES.

The Medico-Psychological Association having at its Annual General Meeting in 1890 adopted the Report of a Committee appointed by it at the preceding Annual General Meeting, to inquire into the question of the systematic training of attendants, and having also directed its Council to take steps to carry out the scheme recommended therein, the Council issues this notice.

The scheme is to be considered to have come into operation immediately after the Annual General Meeting of July 25, 1890. The first examination at which attendants who have entered asylum service after that date will be allowed to present themselves, will be held on the first Monday in November, 1892.

But attendants who entered asylum service before July, 1890, will be allowed to present themselves at dates varying with their length of service before November, 1892, provided that they have two years' service at the time of examination, and that "they shall have in the opinion of their Medical Superintendents been afforded and have availed themselves of opportunities of training to an extent contemplated under the first recommendation, even if it be not exactly in conformity with the prescribed regulations, if the Council of the Association approves" (Report 2.h.).

The Council therefore gives notice that if under the latter provision a sufficient number of attendants announce that they are so qualified, and are ready to present themselves for examination, such examinations will be held on the first Mondays of May and November, 1891, and May, 1892.

Superintendents of Asylums are requested to bring this arrangement under the notice of their respective staffs, and are also reminded that the Council has to consider and approve of each individual application for entry to any examination before that of November, 1892. The Council will not only have to do this; but they must also approve the appointment of Assessors (Report 2.f.). It is imperative, therefore, that the names of candidates (accompanied by a statement as to the length of service, and the opportunities of training afforded, vouched by their superintendents), and also the names of the proposed Assessors, should reach the Honorary Secretary not later than February 1st, 1891, so that the Council can take these matters into its consideration at its next meeting in February.

The certificate required by the Report (2.g.) may be procured of the Secretaries later on.

MDCCCXCI.

"In adopting our title of the Journal of Mental Science, published by authority of the Medico-Psychological Association, we profess that we cultivate in our pages mental science of a particular kind, namely, such mental science as appertains to medical men who are engaged in the treatment of the insane. But it has been objected that the term mental science is inapplicable, and that the terms, mental physiology, or mental pathology, or psychology, or psychiatry (a term much affected by our German brethren), would have been more correct and appropriate; and that, moreover, we do not deal in mental science, which is properly the sphere of the aspiring metaphysical intellect. If mental science is strictly synonymous with metaphysics, these objections are certainly valid, for although we do not eschew metaphysical discussion, the aim of this Journal is certainly bent upon more attainable objects than the pursuit of those recondite inquiries which have occupied the most ambitious intellects from the time of Plato to the present, with so much labour and so little result. But while we admit that metaphysics may be called one department of mental science, we maintain that mental physiology and mental pathology are also mental science under a different aspect. While metaphysics may be called speculative mental science, mental physiology and pathology, with their vast range of inquiry into insanity, education, crime, and all things which tend to preserve mental health, or to produce mental disease, are not less questions of mental science in its practical, that is, in its sociological point of view. If it were not unjust to high mathematics to compare it in any way with abstruse metaphysics, it would illustrate our meaning to say that our practical mental science would fairly bear the same relation to the mental science of the metaphysicians as applied mathematics bears to the pure science. In both instances the aim of the pure science is the attainment of abstract truth; its utility, however, frequently going no further than to serve as a gymnasium for the intellect. In both instances the mixed science aims at, and, to a certain extent, attains immediate practical results of the greatest utility to the welfare of mankind; we therefore maintain that our Journal is not inaptly called the Journal of Mental Science, although the science may only attempt to deal with sociological and medical inquiries, relating either to the preservation of the health of the mind or to the amelioration or cure of its diseases; and although not soaring to the height of abstruse metaphysics, we only aim at such metaphysical knowledge as may be available to our purposes, as the mechanician uses the formulæ of mathematics. This is our view of the kind of mental science which physicians engaged in the grave responsibility of caring for the mental health of their fellow men, may, in all modesty, pretend to cultivate; and while we cannot doubt that all additions to our certain knowledge in the speculative department of the science will be great gain, the necessities of duty and of danger must ever compel us to pursue that knowledge which is to be obtained in the practical departments of science, with the earnestness of real workmen. The captain of a ship would be none the worse for being well acquainted with the higher branches of astronomical science, but it is the practical part of that science as it is applicable to navigation which he is compelled to study."—*J.
