Instructions for Authors

Aims and Scope

The Canadian Journal of Philosophy was founded in 1971 by four Albertan philosophers: John King-Farlow, Kai Nielsen, T.M. Penelhum, and W.W. Rozeboom. Since its founding, the CJP has grown into a widely respected philosophy journal with an international reputation. The CJP aims to publish the best work in any area of philosophy in French or English. It receives close to 300 submissions every year from an international community of authors, and it uses a distinguished international list of philosophers to referee these submissions. All papers are selected on the basis of whether they make significant, original contributions to the philosophical debates they address. CJP's annual acceptance rate is typically close to 8%.

In addition to its regular issues, CJP regularly publishes special issues on topics of current philosophical interest.

CJP is registered in Alberta as a private not-for-profit corporation. It is managed by its Board of Editors.

Peer Review Statement

All articles are subject to initial blind-review by the Editorial Board Coordinator and in most cases a second blind-review by an Editorial Board Member. If found suitable for further consideration, articles are then subject to peer review by two independent, anonymous expert referees. At this point the Editorial Board Member sees the identity of the author to help them select unbiased referees. Finally, after receiving the referee reports, the Editorial Board Member may recommend that the submission be accepted for publication. All members of the Editorial Board blind-vote on the recommendation.

Preparing and submitting your manuscript

Before preparing your submission, please visit the Canadian Journal of Philosophy homepage at <http://www.tandfonline.com/rcjp> for full instructions for authors.

Papers for consideration should be submitted to the Editorial Assistant, Jason Poettcker, at: cjp@philosophy.ryerson.ca. Authors are encouraged to submit manuscripts electronically. Electronic submissions should be sent as email attachments using a standard program such as MS Word.

The CJP will normally not consider manuscripts exceeding 10,000 words, including notes. Manuscripts should be prepared for blind review, which means they should contain no self-identifying references in either text or footnotes. An abstract of 150 to 250 words should also be included.

Please make sure that your contact details are clearly visible on the outside of all packages you send to the Editorial Office.

Submitted manuscripts are subject to peer review at the discretion of the Editorial Office. In order to maintain anonymity during any refereeing process, authors are requested to refrain from, or keep to a minimum, self-referencing.

There are no page charges in Canadian Journal of Philosophy.

Copyright

It is a condition of publication that all contributing authors grant to Canadian Journal of Philosophy the necessary rights to the copyright in all articles submitted to the Journal. Authors are required to sign an Article Publishing Agreement to facilitate this. This will ensure the widest dissemination and protection against copyright infringement of articles. The "article" is defined as comprising the final, definitive, and citable Version of Scholarly Record, and includes: (a) the accepted manuscript in its final and revised form, including the text, abstract, and all accompanying tables, illustrations, data; and (b) any supplementary material. Copyright policy is explained in detail at <http://journalauthors.tandf.co.uk/preparation/copyright.asp>.

Authors are themselves responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce copyright material from other sources.

Free article access

As corresponding author, you will receive free access to your article on Taylor & Francis Online. You will be given access to the My authored works section of Taylor & Francis Online, which shows you all your published articles.
