

Sponsored Visits

DEAR SIR,

May I, through the pages of the Bulletin, point out a facility which exists to enable psychiatrists to visit under-developed countries for short periods of time. Recently I was sponsored by the Inter-University Council on a short-term visit to the Department of Psychiatry in Dar Es Salaam (Tanzania). Travel allowance and reasonable living allowance was provided and I was able to stay for a period of 10 weeks.

When it is realized that there are only five psychiatrists in the whole of Tanzania, for 15 million people, the need is obviously great. The work-load of the hospital was unbelievable, with outpatients running up to 150 to 200 individuals seen in a day. Despite the fact that most of the work was done through the aid of a translator (a very eager medical student), I felt that the whole venture was worthwhile, even if I had only been an extra pair of hands.

The Inter-University Council sponsors short-term lecturers up to a period of four months, and this kind of period will fit in ideally between finishing a senior registrar's post and taking up a consultancy. Obviously there are many other under-developed countries as well as Tanzania, but I know that Dr Hauli, the Senior Lecturer and Head of Department, would be only too glad to welcome British psychiatrists for short-term visits.

Senior Registrar
