

The T'ang Code

VOLUME II: SPECIFIC ARTICLES

Translated, with an introduction, by
Wallace Johnson

"The translation is remarkably faithful and the translator demonstrates a high degree of familiarity with Western legal terminology."

—Early Medieval China

This is the second and final volume of the annotated translation of a seminal Chinese legal text. The T'ang Code, written in 653 A.D., is the most important legal text in East Asian history. Not only is it China's earliest law code to survive in its entirety, influencing all subsequent Chinese law, but it has also served as a model for codes of law in other East Asian countries, including Japan, Korea, and Vietnam. This is the only translation of the T'ang code into a Western language.

COLLEGE

Founded 1597

APPOINTMENT OF GRESHAM PROFESSOR OF LAW

The Council of Gresham College invites applications from women and men who wish to be considered for appointment as Gresham Professor in the above discipline, or nominations of candidates of appropriate standing who might be approached. The appointment, which is part-time, will take effect in September 1997.

Gresham College was established in 1597 under the Will of Sir Thomas Gresham as an independent educational institution. It supports programmes of free public lectures in the disciplines provided for under the terms of Gresham's bequest and seeks to interpret the 'new learning' of Gresham's day in contemporary terms. It seeks to involve those who live and work in the City of London in intellectual debate, and is particularly interested in candidates who can bring to a general audience an awareness of the progress in and significance of their field.

The College would be interested in candidates from any branch of the law able to offer a series of lectures on topics of current interest to a general audience. The appointment is for three years but exceptionally the College would be prepared to consider a shorter appointment for persons whose practice or professional commitments make a longer tenure difficult.

The principal obligation for all Professorships is to offer six lectures each year. Opportunities exist for support to be given to research activities in which the Professor is involved. An annual fee of £3,750 (inc VAT) is payable.
