INTERNATIONAL LAW
1907-1996

Full-text, on-line version
now available to *ASIL MEMBERS***
at a special introductory rate!

INTRODUCTORY OFFER—ONLY $35—January-December 2000

The American Journal of International Law (to 1996) is now fully searchable in full-text format in JSTOR, a database of some of the top scholarly journals in fields such as mathematics, history and political science. Until recently journals in JSTOR have been available only to institutions.

Through a special arrangement with JSTOR, the American Society of International Law can now offer individual ASIL members Web access to every issue of AJIL more than four years old for a small dues upgrade.

This service is invaluable to ASIL members who don't have access through a participating JSTOR university, particularly those in law firms or outside the United States. Even if you have JSTOR through your institution, an Individual Account assures that you can use AJIL when away from the office or abroad.

In one search, you can cover almost 90 years of articles, commentary, book reviews, and contemporary practice with your personal AJIL JSTOR account.

94TH ANNUAL MEETING: INTERNATIONAL LAW IN FERMENT
April 5-8, 2000
Washington Monarch Hotel
2401 M Street, NW, Washington, DC

The current growth and visibility of international law is unprecedented in its history. Yet, no working consensus exists as to what form international law should take, how far it should reach, and where it is headed. Join more than 1200 practitioners, scholars, students and officials of international and non-governmental organizations at the ASIL's 94th Annual Meeting as they examine these questions and add to the ferment.

(all prices in U.S. dollars)
Effective until December 31, 2000

- The American Journal of International Law (AJIL)

The distinguished American Journal of International Law has been published quarterly since 1907. It features articles and editorials, notes and comments by preeminent scholars on developments in international law and international relations. The Journal contains summaries of decisions by national and international courts and arbitral or other tribunals, and of contemporary U.S. practice in international law. Each issue lists recent publications in English and other languages, many of which are reviewed in depth. The Journal is indispensable for all professionals working in international law, economics, trade and foreign affairs. The American Journal of International Law is published four times a year.

Price per 2000 subscription (calendar year): $140; Outside U.S. $175

- International Legal Materials (ILM)

International Legal Materials has been published bimonthly since 1962 and provides the basic, primary documents for international law research and analysis. Materials are selected for their usefulness to scholars, practitioners, business and government officials, both in the United States and abroad. Each 250-page issue contains the full texts of important treaties and agreements, judicial and arbitral decisions, national legislation, international organization resolutions and other documents. A content summary frequently precedes documents, along with introductory notes where helpful to provide context. The International Legal Materials are published six times a year.

- Proceedings of the 94th Annual Meeting

The ASIL Proceedings forms an annual record of the Society's Annual Meetings. At these events, international scholars, practitioners and experts gather to discuss and present research papers on the latest developments in such areas as trade and investment, the environment and human rights, and in such regions as the Middle East, Latin America and Europe. Also included are speeches given by U.S. government and international officials, who often use the occasions to make major policy statements. The Proceedings of the 94th Annual Meeting is published once a year.

Price per 2000 edition: $75; Outside U.S. $95

- ASIL Newsletter

The ASIL Newsletter covers selected international law developments, new publications, upcoming conferences and regional activities of the Society. The Newsletter publishes thought-provoking commentary and information on electronic resources of international law, meetings and symposia held all over the world and on international organization documents and activities. The ASIL Newsletter is published six times a year.

Price per 2000 subscription (calendar year): $30; Outside U.S. $50

The price of subscriptions includes the cost of postage.
Please allow 2-4 weeks for delivery outside the U.S.

CLAIMS POLICY: Claims must be submitted in writing within 3 months of the publication date. Claims submitted after 3 months will not be accepted.

AGENT DISCOUNTS: We currently offer a discount to agents who sell the subscriptions detailed above, based on the number of subscriptions sold for the subscription year. A 10% agent discount is given on current year subscriptions only if you have 50 or more subscriptions. Each subscription will be shipped directly to the subscriber and the agent will be billed directly for each subscriber. These prices will change after the subscription period has ended and a shipping fee will be added.

Refugee Rights and Realities

Evolving International Concepts and Regimes

Frances Nicholson and Patrick Twomey, Editors

In this collection seventeen experts on international refugee law and policy assess the rights of refugees and asylum seekers, and the often contrasting reality of state practice in this field. Chapters examine the scope of the refugee definition in the 1951 Geneva Refugee Convention and how state practice has influenced the evolution of the definition. The book also assesses the role of key actors in developing refugee and asylum policy, from the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), to states themselves, and the European Union.

The Colonies of Law

Colonialism, Zionism and Law in Early Mandate Palestine

Ronen Shamir

This book traces attempts of Jewish jurists-nationalists to establish a nonreligious system of Hebrew Courts in British-ruled Palestine. The book analyzes the secular, national and anticolonial ideology of the Hebrew Law of Peace and shows that Jewish religious groups, secular lawyers and leading Zionist institutions undermined the Hebrew Law project. The book explores the reluctance of leading Zionists to allow communities, rather than organized quasi-state institutions, to define the trajectory of Jewish nationalism.

International Environmental Law Reports

Volume 1: Early Decisions

Cairo Robb, Editor

James Crawford and Philippe Sands, General Editors

Volume 1 includes a number of very early national decisions considered important in the development of international environmental law, whether because they were the background against which international decisions were shaped or because they are often referred to in commentaries and textbooks but are not widely available in English. Other decisions are included in Volume 1 because they are illustrative of national views of the content and direction of international law in this domain at the beginning of the twentieth century.

The Power of Human Rights

International Norms and Domestic Change

Thomas Risse, Stephen C. Ropp, and Kathryn Sikkink, Editors

This book celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the United Nation's passage of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights by showing how global human rights norms have influenced national government practices in eleven different countries around the world. Transnational human rights pressures and policies have made a significant difference in bringing about improvements in human rights practices in diverse countries around the world. The book describes a model of socialization processes that can be broadly applied to other processes and policy areas where global ideas have an impact on domestic affairs.

International Law Reports

Volume 115

E. Lauterpacht and C.J. Greenwood, Editors

Volume 115 of the International Law Reports presents a number of important decisions including the 1998 decision of the Supreme Court of Canada concerning whether Quebec has the right to unilateral secession from Canada, the 1996 judgment concerning the preliminary objections in the case concerning the Application of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide (Bosnia and Herzegovina v. Yugoslavia) and the 1997 Order on Counter-Claims, and the 1996 decisions of the United Nations Human Rights Committee.

Migration

The Controversies and the Evidence

Riccardo Faini, Jaime de Melo, and Klaus F. Zimmermann, Editors

This volume takes a critical look at the current divide over immigration policies. It hopes to shed new light on the debate by bringing together papers that investigate the link between trade and factor mobility, particularly labor migration, from theoretical and empirical perspectives. The team of distinguished international contributors suggests far-reaching implications for business, policy making and scholarship. This is a significant addition to the literature on the economics of migration.
