

Australia and New Zealand by June 1, 1980, and for Africa, Asia and Europe by July 1, 1980.

CIES will also assist in the administration of about 500 awards in 1981-82 for Fulbright scholars visiting the U.S. for lecturing and research. In many cases host institutions are expected to assist the scholar with full or partial maintenance; inquiries are welcome. A directory of scholars currently in the U.S. is available on request.

Announcement of Awards

Martin Landau Wins APSA William Mosher Award

Martin Landau, University of California, Berkeley, has been awarded the 1980 William E. Mosher Award of the American Society for Public Administration for the best academician article published in the Public Administration Review during the previous year. The prize-winning article is entitled: "To Manage Is Not to Control: Or the Folly of Type II Errors." It is the second time that Professor Landau has been awarded the Mosher Award.

NEH Grant Awards

Recent grant awards in the social sciences from the National Endowments for the Humanities include:

Gordon E. Baker, University of California, Santa Barbara: $45,246. Supports a summer seminar for college teachers in the field of political science.

Joan Wells Coward, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey: $77,432. Supports a study of the development of the political process in three states between 1790 and 1840.

Daniel J. Elazar, Center for the Study of Federalism, Temple University, Philadelphia: $79,918. Supports a study of the influence of the idea of the covenant on Western political behavior.

Joel Kugelmass, Pacifica Foundation, Los Angeles: $8,356. Supports planning for a documentary radio series on national unity and social conflict in post-World War II America.

Sheilah K. Mann, American Political Science Association: $99,303. Supports a series of seminars for political science college faculties on the subject of citizenship and political education.

Wilson C. McWilliams, Livingston College, Rutgers University, New Brunswick: $57,007. Supports a summer seminar for college teachers in the field of political science.

Mulford Sibley, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis: $53,321. Supports a summer seminar for college teachers in the field of political science.

Henry Tom, Johns Hopkins University Press, Baltimore: $8,985. Supports publication of the History of Economic Reasoning by the late Karl Pribram.

Taketsugu Tsurutani, Washington State University, Pullman: $59,824. Supports a research project on the relative roles of academics in the political affairs of the United States.

1980 Presidential Management Interns

The U.S. Office of Personnel Management has announced the selection of the 1980 Presidential Management Interns. Two-hundred and sixty-four finalists have been selected.

The finalists, and 67 alternates, were selected from more than 900 graduate students nominated by 220 deans and graduate program directors at more than 180 colleges and universities. Nominees, who were required to have a general management education with an emphasis on management in the public sector, were predominantly from public administration programs. Business administration, public policy, and urban planning programs were also represented. Half of the finalists are women, approximately 15 percent are minorities.

These finalists, representing 149 graduate academic programs at 13 colleges and universities in 37 states and the District of Columbia, are now being considered for two-year internships offered by 44 federal departments and agencies.

This is the third year of the program, which was established by President Carter in August 1977. The 1978 and 1979 interns currently are working for 40 federal departments and agencies in Washington, D.C., and in approximately 40 cities throughout the country.

According to Alan K. Campbell, the director of the U.S. Office of Personnel Management, "The program is designed to attract to the Federal service committed men and women trained in public management. It makes available two-year developmental internships each year for new recipients of graduate degrees in general management with a public sector focus."

Interns who successfully complete their assignments may be granted competitive civil service status. Interns hired by federal agencies receive $17,035 a year (GS-9) and are eligible for promotion during their two-year internships.

Application materials for the 1981 Presidential Management Intern Program will be available in the fall.

State, local, and university officials and students interested in participating in the program are encouraged to contact: Presidential Management Intern Program Division, Office of Intergovernmental Personnel Programs, U.S. Office of Personnel Management, P.O. Box 14184, Washington, D.C. 20044.

Boston College Award for New England Network of Educational Programs for Women in Political and Governmental Careers

Boston College has received a grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare under Section 106, Title IA of the Higher Education Act (Community Service and Continuing Education—Special Projects). An award for $81,346 is being used to create a New England Network of educational programs for "Women in Political and Governmental Careers."

The grant provides five New England Colleges with seed money to establish programs based on the successful B.C. model. The participating colleges are the University of Connecticut, the University of New Hampshire, the University of Maine at Orono, the University of Rhode Island, and the University of Vermont.

The B.C. program, designed to place women in middle management positions in local, state and national government, is divided into three trimesters. The first 10 weeks are devoted to intensive weekly seminars. Guest lecturers from the governmental sector are also invited to speak to the students to share their expertise. The second trimester consists of a four-month internship in local, state, or federal agencies, or in the state legislature. During this period, additional seminars on public finance and management skills are also provided. The third trimester involves written evaluation of field work and researched case studies on selected urban problems.

Many of the graduates of the program now hold paying positions in various state and local agencies.

Information regarding the program may be obtained by writing Program for Women in Political and Governmental Careers, Boston College, Newton Campus, 885 Centre Street, Newton, Massachusetts 02159.

1980 NEH Summer Stipend Awards

The National Endowment for the Humanities has announced its 1980 summer stipend awards. Eight political scientists were among the 264 awardees. They are:

Henry J. Abraham, University of Virginia, Charlottesville

Roger C. Boesche, Occidental College

John W. Danford, University of Houston

Beverly C. Grier, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Richard W. Krouse, Williams College

Nancy L. Rosenblum, Harvard University

Wendy J. Sarvasy, Pennsylvania State University

Steffen W. Schmidt, Iowa State University

CHANGING YOUR ADDRESS?

If you are planning a move, please fill in the form below and return it to the American Political Science Association, 1527 New Hampshire Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Address changes should be received at the Association by the 5th of the month to be included in the monthly update of the Association mailing list.

NAME _____

OLD ADDRESS _____

_____ Zip _____

NEW ADDRESS _____

_____ Zip _____

Just Published!

3 New Stars from CQ Press

Mass Media and American Politics

by Doris A. Graber

What do mass media do? What impact do they have on politics and political behavior? Are they molders or reflectors of public opinion? This timely and provocative text addresses these questions and more in Mass Media and American Politics. Ideal for courses on Politics and Media, Public Opinion, and Government and Mass Communications.

March 1980. 304 pages. $6.95.

Financing Politics: Money, Elections and Political Reform

Second Edition

by Herbert E. Alexander

Revised to include campaign spending in the 1976 and 1978 elections, this informative text examines the levels, sources and expenditures of campaign funds. Includes coverage of political action committees. Perfect for courses on Political Parties or Campaigns and Elections.

April 1980. 208 pages. $6.95.

Invitation to Struggle: Congress, the President and Foreign Policy

by Cecil V. Crabb, Jr. and Pat M. Holt

This unique collaboration between a political scientist and a 27-year veteran of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff examines the complicated relationship between Congress and the president in creating foreign policy. Indispensable for courses on American Foreign Policy, Defense Policy and Congress.

March 1980. 234 pages. $6.95.

For examination copies, send course information on letterhead stationery to:

Ms. Patricia A. Silver
Congressional Quarterly, Inc.
1414 22nd Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20037