Africa: Journal of the International African Institute

Published on behalf of the International African Institute

Editors

Karin Barber, University of Birmingham, UK

David Pratten, University of Oxford, UK

Africa is the premier journal devoted to the study of African societies and culture. Editorial policy encourages an interdisciplinary approach, involving humanities, social sciences, and environmental sciences.

Africa aims to give increased attention to African production of knowledge, highlighting the work of local African thinkers and writers, emerging social and cultural trends 'on the ground', and links between local and national levels of society. At the same time, it maintains its commitment to the theoretically informed analysis of the realities of Africa's own cultural categories. Each issue contains six or seven major articles, arranged thematically, extensive review essays and substantial book reviews. Special issues are published annually.

Sociale Geschiedenis

Executive Editor

David Mayer, International Institute of Social History, The Netherlands

International Review of Social History is one of the leading journals in its field. Truly global in its scope, it focuses on research in social and labour history from a comparative and transnational perspective, both in the modern and in the early modern period, and across periods. The journal combines quality, depth and originality of its articles with an open eye for theoretical innovation and new insights and methods from within its field and from contiguous disciplines. Besides research articles, it features surveys of new themes and subject fields, a suggestions and debates section, review essays and book reviews.

Journal of Global History

Published for London School of Economics and Political Science

Chief Editor

William Gervase Clarence-Smith, SOAS, London, UK

Editors

Barbara Watson Andaya, University of Hawaii, USA

Merry Wiesner-Hanks, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, USA

Journal of Global History addresses the main problems of global change over time, together with the diverse histories of globalization. It also examines counter-currents to globalization, including those that have structured other spatial units. The journal seeks to transcend the dichotomy between 'the West and the rest', straddle traditional regional boundaries, relate material to cultural and political history, and overcome thematic fragmentation in historiography. The journal also acts as a forum for interdisciplinary conversations across a wide variety of social and natural sciences.

This important journal serves as a focal point and forum for scholarship on intellectual and cultural history from the mid-seventeenth century to the present, with primary attention to Europe and the Americas and to transnational developments that encompass the non-West. MIH enquires into this era's intellectual discourses and texts, their contextual origins and reception, and the recovery of their historical meanings. The journal encompasses various forms of intellectual and cultural history, including political thought and culture, philosophy, religion, literature and literary criticism, social sciences, natural sciences, visual arts and aesthetic theory, communications, law, economic thought, social and cultural theory, psychology, anthropology, music and the history of the book.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The Journal of African History publishes research and reviews on all aspects of the African past. Contributors should keep in mind that they are writing for an academic readership generally knowledgeable about African history, and should relate their findings explicitly to relevant secondary literature.

Authors may submit contributions in either English or French. They should not exceed 10,000 words (including notes), except with prior approval of the editors. Where appropriate, carefully drawn maps, photographs, and other illustrations may accompany the text. An abstract of the contents of the article, not exceeding about 100 words, should be included at the head of the main text immediately after the title.

Contributors should seek clarity, brevity, and simplicity of expression and avoid long sentences and unduly lengthy or short paragraphs. They should closely observe the conventions set out below ('Format and Style') and in the more detailed 'Instructions for Contributors' to be found as a downloadable pdf file on journal's webpage at <<http://journals.cambridge.org/action/displayJournal?jid=AFH>>

Article manuscripts should be submitted by email attachment to jah@cambridge.org. Soon after a manuscript is submitted, the editorial assistant will send a message acknowledging receipt. If such a message is not received within five days, please resend the message and attachment to the same address.

When a manuscript has been accepted for publication, and after typesetting, page proofs will be sent to each contributor. Corrections must be kept to a minimum: they should not include new material. Contributors should be prepared to return corrected proofs promptly. Authors of articles and review articles will receive a PDF of their article as soon as the issue in which it appears is published. They may purchase offprints provided that they order before publication on the form sent out with proofs.

Format and Style

Article manuscripts should be submitted by email attachment to jah@cambridge.org. They should be in a widely used word-processing format, preferably MS Word, and double-spaced throughout. Lines beginning new paragraphs should be indented, except at the beginning of a section. Ample margins (at least one inch left and right, one and one-half inches top and bottom) must be left, and all pages should be numbered.

Spelling (in English) may follow either British or American convention but must be consistent. African words and names should conform to the orthography of the International African Institute. In referring to people, Bantu prefixes should normally be omitted: thus 'Luganda', 'Buganda', but 'a Ganda', 'the Ganda'. Quotations of more than forty words or so should begin on a new line, indented from the left-hand margin.

Italics should be used only for the names of publications and for words in languages other than English. Foreign words should be used only when necessary, and then only with a translation in parentheses. Figures should be used for units of measurement, percentages (to be shown in the form '7 per cent', not '7%'), and any number which includes a decimal point. Spell out other numbers up to ten and multiples of ten up to one hundred ('seven', 'twenty', but '25', '127' and '10,000'). Cite dates in the form '12 February 1968' (or 'Feb.' in source references). Express sequences in the briefest form possible ('68-9', but '1911-12', '1849-50').

Notes should be footnotes not endnotes. They should be numbered consecutively throughout the article and double-spaced. Citations of references should be made only in the notes and not in the text, and there should be no separate bibliography. First references should be given in full, thus: S. Johnson, The History of the Yorubas (Lagos, 1921); E. W. Smith, 'Sebetwane and the Makololo', African Studies, 15 (1956), 49-74. All subsequent references should be given in abbreviated form, thus: Johnson, History, 43; Smith, 'Sebetwane', 65, except that ibid. should be used to refer to an immediately preceding citation of a title. Loc. cit. and op. cit. should not be used. Do not abbreviate periodical titles. Archival citations should be as brief as is consistent with clarity. The identity and location of each archive must be fully spelled out where it is first cited.

Maps should be prepared where the topography is important for an understanding of the text. Maps should if possible be camera-ready and show all relevant information, but only such information as is mentioned in the text. Photographs should specifically enhance the text and carry full captions and attributions.
