

FOREIGN RELATIONS LAW OF THE UNITED STATES

Now Available—

The Official Draft of the Restatement of the Foreign Relations Law of the United States presented by the AMERICAN LAW INSTITUTE.

This Restatement clarifies existing international and domestic law and divides the stated rules into four parts; Jurisdiction; Recognition; International Agreements; Responsibility of States for Injuries to Aliens. It also contains Comments and Reporters' Notes that list references to the original materials from which international law is derived—source materials which may not be readily available to Bar members who do not specialize in the field of international law.

Economic Development
Foreword by J. David Singer

"Professors Falk and Mendlovitz have planned and executed a program designed to shape an academic discipline oriented toward the principal policy question of the epoch. It is entirely appropriate that such a program should spread among professional and graduate schools, and ultimately permeate college and pre-college years.

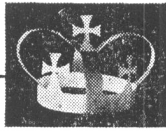

The tone is sternly professional. It is responsible, scholarly, scientific, predictive, inventive, and critical."

UN ADMINISTRATION OF ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL PROGRAMS

GERARD J. MANGONE, Editor, with a Foreword
by ANDREW W. CORDIER

This book presents the history, development, and current pattern of the administration of economic and social programs of the UN. The five papers in the volume deal in turn with the administrative responsibilities of the United Nations Secretariat, the General Assembly, the Field Administration, the Administration of the Economic and Social Council and of the Technical Assistance Programs, and the Regional Economic Commission. The contributors are Leland M. Goodrich, Theodor Meron, Walter R. Sharp, Gerard J. Mangone, and Robert Gregg. This is number 3 in the International Organization Series.

MODERN INTERNATIONAL NEGOTIATION

ARTHUR LALL

The author, former Ambassador to the United Nations and head of the Indian delegation, brings to this assessment of the methods of international negotiation the rare combination of theoretical knowledge and first-hand political experience. His book, a basic treatment of problems in international relations, deals with the use of inquiries, investigations, mediation, conciliation, and conference techniques in achieving the peaceful settlement of disputes and the resolution of sensitive situations. Amply documented with statements of the representatives of large and small countries, it describes many of the significant events that have taken place at the conference table and behind the scenes during the postwar era and analyzes the determining facets of these events.
