The views expressed in the articles, editorial comments, book reviews, and all other contributions to the AJIL are those of the individual authors and are not to be taken as representing the views of the Board of Editors or the American Society of International Law.

SUBMISSION OF MANUSCRIPTS

The American Journal of International Law (AJIL) invites submission of manuscripts on international law subjects. Its primary focus is on questions of public international law, including closely related issues of domestic law. It generally does not publish manuscripts focused on private or commercial law or on comparative or foreign law, including the internal law of the European Union.

The AJIL will not consider submissions whose content has been, or will be, published before it appears in this journal.

The AJIL does not require exclusive submissions. Priority consideration will, however, be accorded where the author states that the submission is exclusive for a specified period of at least six weeks and commits to accept an offer of publication within the specified time period. Authors should bear in mind that, as a professionally juried journal, the AJIL is rarely if ever able to make offers of publication in response to requests for expedited review within the time limits typically fixed by other journals that have made offers of publication.

Submissions should be in electronic form and should be transmitted as attachments to e-mail messages addressed to ajil@asil.org. Alternatively, a CD-ROM may be mailed to AJIL, American Society of International Law, 2223 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20008-2864, USA.

The AJIL currently uses Word 2007, but can convert manuscripts created in other word processing programs. Please specify the program used.

Format and style guidelines: All manuscripts should be double-spaced in 12-point Times New Roman type; these formatting requirements cover all text, quotations, and footnotes.

- The maximum length for lead articles is 100 letter-sized pages, formatted as indicated.
- The maximum length for "Current Developments" and "Notes and Comments" submissions is 30 letter-sized pages, formatted as indicated.

The AJIL generally conforms to the footnote style of The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (19th ed. 2010) and the Chicago Manual of Style (16th ed. 2010). For further information on AJIL style and formatting guidelines, see the AJIL Style Guide, available online at www.asil.org/ajil\_style\_guide.pdf.

Book reviews are by invitation; however, you may suggest books for review to the AJIL Book Review Office, 2223 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20008-2864, USA. Books for review should be sent to the same address.

SAY GOODBYE TO international law as we knew it.

To old ideas about environmental regulation, global financial transactions, and the traditional hierarchies of domestic and international courts.

SAY HELLO TO international law as we're getting to know it.

One which recognizes that there are fewer degrees of separation between issues once treated in isolation. Like foreign investment and human rights. Or labor relations in one country and capital markets on the other side of the globe.

AT THE FOREFRONT OF THIS PRACTICE IS COLUMBIA.

Through joint programs with the U.N., as well as the Columbia Business School and School of International and Public Affairs. On campus, you'll find endowed centers for Chinese, Japanese, and Korean legal studies. Elsewhere, you'll find double-degree programs with law schools in Paris, Frankfurt, and London. And everywhere we are, you'll see pioneering scholarship on everything from climate change law to international terrorism.

All of it developing just as fast as the world is changing. And that's pretty fast indeed.

SCHOOL of LAW

At Thomas Jefferson School of Law Our Professors Don't Just Study Global Legal Issues: THEY GO WHERE THE ACTION IS!

Professor Ken Vandeveld was the only American legal scholar invited to speak at the UN World Investment Forum this year in Doha, Qatar. His role was to discuss current issues in international investment law, a topic on which he has authored seven books and many scholarly articles. He also was the only American academic invited to an international conference at Oxford University in June to speak on whether countries may invoke national security as a justification for deviating from treaty commitments during economic crises.

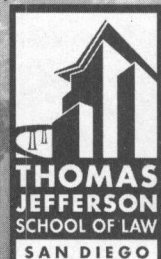

Professor Linda Keller was a Visiting Professional at the International Criminal Court at The Hague in 2011-2012, working with Judge Ekaterina Trendafilova of Pre-Trial Chamber II. The experience provided Professor Keller with a behind-the-scenes perspective on the ICC at a time of major developments, such as the Trial Chamber's decision in the Lubanga case, the first verdict at the ICC.

U.S. Fulbright Scholar and Professor Richard Winchester spent the first half of 2012 teaching Financing International Trade at the University of Carthage. While in Tunisia, he witnessed the country's efforts to draft a new constitution following the election of a transitional government. He also saw firsthand the social, economic and cultural factors that complicate Tunisia's ability to navigate its way through the transition.

EMORY LAW

War. Terrorism. The Law.

Acclaimed legal historian and recently appointed Asa Griggs Candler Professor of Law at Emory University School of Law, Mary L. Dudziak believes we can better understand war's impact on democracy if we bring other disciplines to bear.

Under her direction, Emory Law will explore this possibility with its new Project on War and Security in Law, Culture and Society—which seeks to unite scholars in law, political science, history, anthropology and other areas.

For its kick-off event Professor John Fabian Witt of Yale Law School will give a public lecture on his new book Lincoln's Code: The Laws of War in American History. The event, which will be held on October 22, 2012, at Emory University School of Law, will also feature Daniel Reiter, Chair, Department of Political Science, Emory, and Catherine Lutz, Department of Anthropology, Brown University, who will provide comments on Witt's book.

The USC Gould School of Law is home to one of the nation's largest, most comprehensive LL.M. programs for foreign lawyers. But to our international students, we're just "home."

For 11 years, USC Gould's LL.M. program has welcomed international attorneys, judges, government officials, prosecutors, corporate legal counsel, bankers, and recent law graduates who seek a degree in American law and new leadership opportunities in the global market. Drawing on over 40 full-time faculty and more than 50 adjunct professors with legal expertise in a variety of areas, students choose from a myriad of courses each semester and tailor their courses in a specialty area. But most important for our students is the end-to-end service we provide – including travel and visa arrangements, orientation, and networking and social activities – for each one of our nearly 180 students. We also maintain strong ties to an alumni network spanning 67 countries.

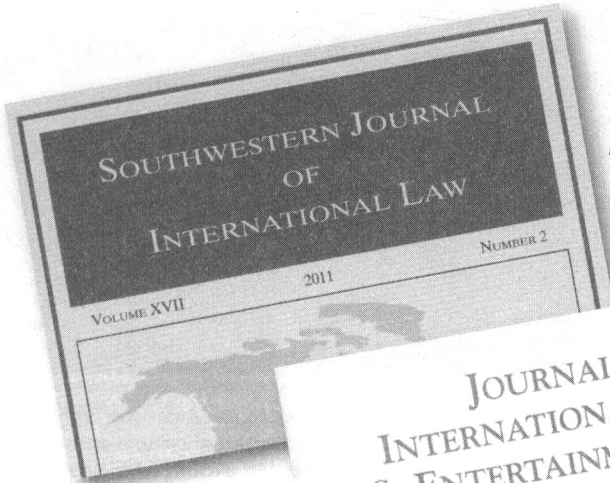

USC Gould's commitment to international legal education and scholarship also includes a Master of Comparative Law degree program, a Visiting International Program for Lawyers (VIP), a four-week Summer Law & English program, and a J.D. ## Fighting Corruption in Public Procurement

of Disqualification or
Debarment Measures

Sope Williams-Elegbe

Anti-corruption measures have firmly taken centre stage in the development agenda of international organisations as well as in developed and developing countries. One area in which corruption manifests itself is in public procurement and, as a result, States have adopted various measures to prevent and curb corruption in public procurement. One such mechanism for dealing with procurement corruption is to debar or disqualify corrupt suppliers from bidding for or otherwise obtaining government contracts. This book examines the issues raised by the debarment or disqualification of corrupt suppliers from public contracts.

Sope Williams-Elegbe is a Research Fellow at Stellenbosch University, South Africa and a public procurement consultant.

The United States and International Criminal Tribunals

An Introduction

Harry M. Rhea

- ISBN 978-90-5095-954-4
- xvi + 218 pp.
- paperback
- $ 97 | € 69 | £ 66

The relationship between the United States and international criminal tribunals dates back to at least the First World War. Currently, there are many anti-American criticisms throughout the international legal community concerning the foreign relations policies of the United States, in particular, its position on the International Criminal Court. Written by an emerging scholar in the field of international criminal justice, this book considers over 150 years of United States policies on international criminal tribunals and the prosecution of international crimes. Relying on archival research, Harry M. Rhea demonstrates how the United States has remained consistent supporting all multinational and international criminal tribunals without supporting the International Criminal Court.

'Is it exceptionalism, or is it just the ambivalence of a superpower? This is a fascinating account of the attitude of the United States over time to international criminal tribunals. It makes excellent use of much underutilized archive material.'

Roger S. Clark, Board of Governors Professor, Rutgers School of Law, Camden, New Jersey

'Drawing upon archival sources that have not previously been studied by scholars, Dr. Rhea explores the complex and seemingly contradictory relationship of the United States and international justice. This is an important contribution to our emerging understanding of the subject.'

William Schabas, Professor of international law, Middlesex University and Professor of international criminal law and human rights, Leiden University

'Meticulously documented with a focus on primary sources, Dr. Rhea's book vividly demonstrates that US policy toward international criminal tribunals has been over 150 years in the making. Its unique historic treatment renders this book essential reading for policy-makers, practitioners, and academic researchers working in the area of international criminal justice.'

Michael P. Scharf, Associate Dean for Global Legal Studies and John Deaver Drinko-Baker and Hostetler Professor of Law, Case Western Reserve University School of Law

By Daniel Gervais

On March 22, 2011, New York Federal District Court Judge Denny Chin rejected a proposed settlement in two lawsuits against Google. The lawsuits were structured as class actions filed by groups representing mostly trade authors and major publishers. The settlement would have allowed Google to continue scanning copyrighted books and to search, index and display the text to its users in exchange for the payment of several fees to copyright holders.

INTERNATIONAL LAW: 100 WAYS IT SHAPES OUR LIVES

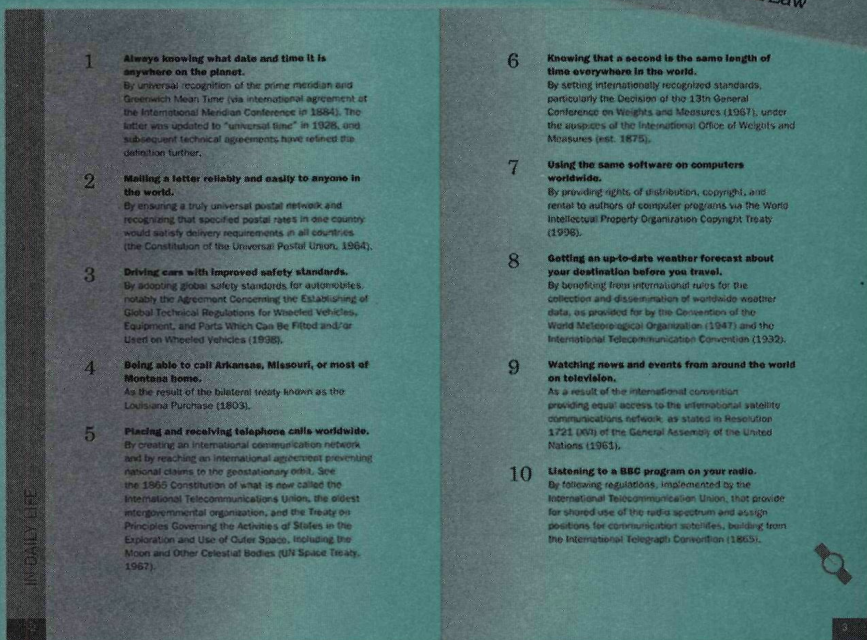

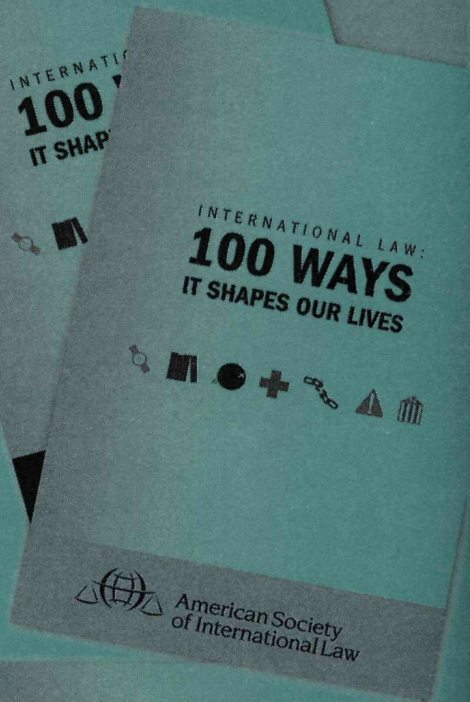

Many find international law abstract and static. Topics such as war and peace or relationships between countries are considered by some to be not so much questions of law, but of power and influence. Others question the existence of international law.

International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives was conceived from the proposition that international law not only exists, but also penetrates more deeply and broadly into everyday life than is generally recognized. Some ways are of relatively recent vintage, while others are long-standing. 100 examples were identified by ASIL members, vetted by a smaller group of experts, and organized into seven chapters: 1) daily life; 2) leisure; 3) travel; 4) commerce 5) health and the environment; 6) personal liberty; 7) public safety and global security.

Join us in demonstrating how international law shapes our lives by

- Visiting 100 Ways at www.asil.org/100ways
- Using it in teaching and general civic education programs;
- Adding ways to the list; and
- Sharing your experiences using International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives.

We hope that this creative and interactive project will help demonstrate the diversity and the centrality of international law to our lives today.
