

John Dougill

Oxford in English Literature The Making, and Undoing, of "The English Athens"

For over six centuries the city of Oxford has been lauded, slighted, and cited in the pages of English literature. It has been hailed as the embodiment of excellence, beauty, and truth. But it has also been attacked for its elitism, insularity, and traditionalism. Oxford in English Literature provides for the first time an overview of these literary representations, ranging from Chaucer's account of medieval students to modern-day detective stories.

Dosso's Fate

Painting and Court Culture
in Renaissance Italy

*Edited by Luisa Ciammitti,
Steven F. Ostrow,
and Salvatore Settis*

"This fascinating collection of essays adds up to a major redefinition of Dosso Dossi, a most intriguing artistic personality. Written by a rich assortment of distinguished scholars of various methodological bents, the volume is of unusual breadth and depth. It offers a wealth of new insights and valuable information not only on this enigmatic figure but also on the larger world of the Renaissance court."

Vasari's Florence

Artists and Literati at the Medicean Court

Philip Jacks, Editor

This book explores the multi-faceted career of Giorgio Vasari—painter, architect, artistic impresario, collector and biographer. The essays examine Vasari's working relationship with his advisor, Vincenzo Borghini, from the decoration of the Sala Regia at the Vatican to the master's last and greatest challenge, the cupola of Florence cathedral. Drawing on recently discovered documentary sources from the Vasari family archive, Vasari's Florence puts into new perspective the historiographical and artistic achievements of this pivotal Renaissance artist.

THE CAMARGO FOUNDATION FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

The Foundation maintains in Cassis, France, a center for the benefit of scholars who wish to pursue studies in the humanities and social sciences related to French and francophone cultures. The Foundation also supports creative projects by visual artists, photographers, composers, and writers. The Foundation offers, at no cost, eleven furnished apartments, a reference library, an artist studio, a composer's studio, and a photographer's darkroom. The Camargo award is strictly a residential grant; therefore, no stipends are available. The normal term of residence is one semester (early September to mid-December or mid-January to May 31st), precise dates being announced each year. Applicants may include university and college faculty who intend to pursue special studies while on leave from their institutions; secondary school teachers benefiting from a leave of absence in order to work on some pedagogical or scholarly project; graduate students whose academic residence and general examination requirements have been met and for whom a stay in France would be beneficial in completing the dissertation; writers, photographers, visual artists, and composers with specific projects to complete. Because of the limited number of studios, only one artist, one photographer, and one composer can be accepted each semester. Applicants from all countries are welcome.

Application deadline is February 1 for the following academic year. For informational brochure and application form write to:

The Science and Art of Renaissance Music

James Haar

Edited by Paul Cornelson

As a distinguished scholar of Renaissance music, James Haar has had an abiding influence on how musicology is undertaken, owing in great measure to a substantial body of articles published over the past three decades. Collected here for the first time are representative pieces from those years, covering diverse themes of continuing interest to him and his readers.

The articles contained in this book show the author's conviction that a good way to address large problems is to begin by focusing on small ones.

Art and Ritual in Golden-Age Spain

Sevillian Confraternities and the Processional Sculpture of Holy Week

Susan Verdi Webster

For nearly five centuries, lay religious groups throughout the Spanish-speaking world have staged elaborate public processions commemorating the events of Christ's passion during Holy Week. In the Golden Age, such processions featured extraordinarily lifelike sculpted images that were naturalistically painted, elaborately clothed and adorned, and surrounded by convincing stage properties and scenography. Long dismissed as a minor form of popular art, these polychrome wood sculptures emerge from this book as a unique genre, one that can be best understood within its ritual context.

Susan Verdi Webster explores the Holy Week processions and provides a fascinating perspective on popular religious devotion in Golden-Age Spain.

WONDERS AND THE ORDER OF NATURE, 1150–1750

By Lorraine Daston and Katharine Park

Wonders and the Order of Nature is about the ways in which European naturalists from the High Middle Ages through the Enlightenment used wonder and wonders, the passion and its objects, to envision themselves and the natural world. Monsters, gems that shone in the dark, petrifying springs, celestial apparitions — these were the marvels that adorned romances, puzzled philosophers, lured collectors, and frightened the devout. Drawing on the histories of art, science, philosophy, and literature, Lorraine Daston and Katharine Park explore and explain how wonder and wonders fortified princely power, reweave the texture of scientific experience, and shaped the sensibility of intellectuals. This is a history of the passions of inquiry, of how wonder sometimes inflamed, sometimes dampened curiosity about nature's best-kept secrets. Refracted through the prism of wonders, the order of nature splinters into a spectrum of orders, a tour of possible worlds.

“Wonders and the Order of Nature is an important and original contribution to the field of Western European cultural history. Reading this book, one becomes aware just how many texts, documents, and images have, until now, been marginalized — if not totally neglected — by other scholars in this domain. Daston and Park offer a remarkably new understanding of the ‘order of nature,’ tracing, for the first time, the limits between the believable and the unbelievable, the possible and the impossible.”

— Krzysztof Pomian, author of Collectors and Curiosities: Paris and Venice, 1500–1800
