"In this wide-ranging study, Christopher Joyner displays an admirable ability to combine insights from the fields of international law and international relations to illuminate issues of governance in Antarctica. Despite the proliferation of excellent works on this global commons, Joyner's book is destined to become the standard treatment of Antarctic governance."

BY AIRSHIP TO THE NORTH POLE

An Archaeology of Human Exploration

P. J. CAPELOTTI

"A well-written tale of two unlucky polar explorers. . . . Capelotti's book falls into two roughly equal parts; the first treats the failed attempts by first Andrée and then Wellman to reach the North Pole by airship, and the second examines the material remains of their expeditions. . . . A nice job of historical reconstruction."

—Kirkus Reviews

"A brilliant and absorbing reconstruction of two polar expeditions. Dr. Capelotti's fascinating book lifts the veil covering the obsessions of explorers."

The Photographs of H G Ponting

Herbert George Ponting (1870–1935) was one of the greatest photographers of the early twentieth century. As every reader of Polar Record knows, he is best remembered for his work as 'camera artist' and cinematographer in the Antarctic, where he portrayed in vivid detail the lives of the men who went south on Robert Falcon Scott's last expedition, 1910–1913.

But Ponting was also a world traveller and an early photo-journalist, and his photographs of Japan, China, Burma, and India are exquisite, allowing a tantalising glimpse of cultures then little known to most westerners and now long since changed.

The Photographs of H G Ponting is a collection of the work — from both the Antarctic and the wide world — of this great photographer. It is also a biography, tracing the life and travels of an elusive, solitary man. Born in Salisbury, he moved to California, taught himself photography, abandoned his family for his 'art,' and became a highly sought-after commercial talent, working in distant reaches of the British Empire and spending years at a time travelling. But fame did not bring happiness, and Ponting did little work after his return from the Great White South, investing his energies in curious business ventures.

The Photographs of H G Ponting puts together the very best of the work of this immortal of photography. It is available for only £19.50.

THE GREAT WHITE SOUTH

H.G. Ponting was the photographer who accompanied Robert Falcon Scott to the Antarctic in 1910. The Great White South is his classic account of the Terra Nova expedition and of Scott's doomed race to the South Pole. This is a new edition of a highly prized book that has been out of print for decades.

This book has been produced with particular attention to the photography and contains 150 plates from the expedition. Ponting's original text has been produced unabridged, with photographs — some published here for the first time — updated exclusively by the Discovery Gallery using Ponting's original archive and photographic material.

Classic softback measuring 8 x 9 inches (20 x 22 cms),
