

Politics in Africa

SECOND EDITION

Dennis Austin

Dennis Austin has thoroughly revised his excellent text to take full account of recent events and scholarship. "Should be read by anyone seeking to understand a continent that has moved so quickly from nationalist euphoria to post-independence malaise" — Journal of Politics. "Would make an excellent introduction to modern African politics in an undergraduate African history course" — History Teacher.

CAHIERS D'ÉTUDES AFRICAINES

A Quarterly Journal of Man and Society in Africa

Special issue :

African State Systems

CEA 87-88, XXII-3-4

Forty years after the epoch-making African Political Systems, the Cahiers d'Études africaines are devoting a special (double) issue to a collection of essays on pre-colonial African States.

These essays are not so much a theoretical reflexion on the origins of the State as a series of convergent pragmatic approaches bearing on such topics as the re-organization of kin groups and clan segments, and of social dependency, on the role of production relationships and exchange networks, on ideological structuration and the manipulation of popular knowledge, etc. Examples are taken from all over sub-Saharan Africa, from the Western Sahel to the Channel of Moçambique.

THE JOURNAL OF MODERN AFRICAN STUDIES

The Journal offers a quarterly survey of politics, economics, and related topics in contemporary Africa.

The main emphasis is upon the peoples and policies, the problems and progress of this dynamic and disparate continent; upon the many societies that are evolving rather than the essential characteristics of the old; upon the present, not on the more distant past. The best current work is sought from specialists in different academic disciplines, whose contributions can illuminate and cross-fertilise one another.

The Journal seeks to promote a deeper understanding of what is happening in Africa today. It is intended for both the political scientist and the practical politician, the administrator and the advocate, the economist and the educator, the banker and the business man, the diplomat and the technocrat, the civil servant and the nationalist leader. All have something to contribute to these pages and, it is hoped, much to learn from them.

Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, whether imperialism, pan-Africanism, capitalism, socialism, or nationalism. Such concepts, however, have relevance to the modern African situation, and merit serious discussion, often from several different points of view, in order that controversial issues may be fairly examined.
