Letters and Diaries of John Henry Newman

Volume XII

Edited by C. S. DESSAIN

This, the second volume to appear, covers the period January 1 1847 to December 31 1848, and starts when Newman was still in Rome, pondering on what vocation he should adopt. He decided to become an Oratorian and to introduce his own modification of the Oratory of St Philip into England. We hear of the founding of the English Oratory at Maryvale and the subsequent preparations for a house of English Oratorians in Birmingham. The Daily Telegraph had this to say of Volume XI: 'The editing is impeccable.' 63s

The Popes at Avignon 1305-1378

G. MOLLAT

THE MUTUAL SOCIETY

By Kenneth G. Greet

12s. 6d. net

The Beckly Lecture, 1962

This book briefly surveys the traditional teaching of the Christian Church about the relationship of men and women, and then examines some of the new factors which have made necessary a critical reassessment of it, particularly of those emphases which are negative.

A SKETCH OF CHURCH HISTORY

By H. Morley Rattenbury

9s. 6d. net

A history of the Church has to cover nearly 2,000 years, the whole of the inhabited world, and the story of a community which now numbers some 850 million people. Because there is so much of it, it is quite impossible for any single book to deal with it all. The story of the Church is a fascinating one, and this sketch preserves all its interest while reducing it to manageable proportions.
